... THE 1960

RAZORBACK...

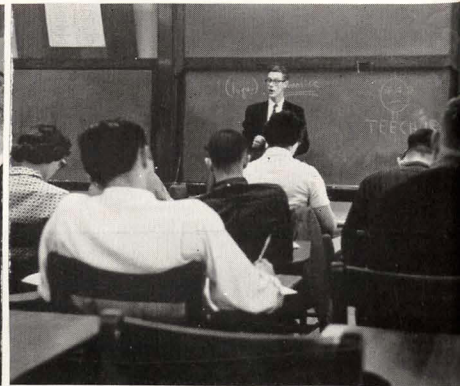

The chimes in the North Tower of Old Main toll
the last six strokes and the school year is ended.
Now only memories remain of what once was,
but can never be again. On the following pages of the 1960 Razorback, we have attempted to recapture and portray the varied activities and institutions that have made this year one that will never be forgotten. A fastly fading way of life that will forever have a special meaning to those who have known it.

College is more than the ritual of attending classes in the search for education. It includes certain intangibles which are unexplainable, but ever present. It is a composite of a pep rally and a football game. It is a night of studying and a coffee break. It is thought and action, night and day. For 5500, it is a way of life.

Students crowd Student Union patio for mid-morning coffee and talk during break in their schedule of morning classes.

Class change sends students scurrying to next class, to the Union for a break, or pausing to chat with friends.

Study sessions in the various libraries on campus became more prolonged and intense with final exams approaching.

Lights of Main Library cast a symbolic reflection as a beacon of knowledge after a light Spring shower.

Pharmacy students take notes from instructor at University Division in Little Rock.

A center of knowledge and seeking for knowledge, a center of lessons to learn and lessons learned, this is the University of Arkansas. Modern facilities plus the latest methods of instruction combine to offer the student the best possible atmosphere conducive to self-advancement by education. Here is found knowledge about science, knowledge about the arts, knowledge about nature, knowledge about people, and knowledge about knowledge. First and foremost, the University is an institute of knowledge.

Over the past decade, the University has progressed in enrollment and in educational standards with a corresponding growth in facilities, both on the Fayetteville campus and the Little Rock Division. Progress has been the by-word as modern structures have been erected and the University's services to the State have expanded. Modern General Extension serves over 8,000 non-resident students with correspondence courses. Five Graduate Centers, including a Technological Center in Little Rock, are located throughout the State.

School spirit and loyalty are depicted in weekly pep rallies in the Greek theater that finds majority of student body 'calling the hogs' attempting to create even more enthusiasm for the game.

Belief in education as a whole and the belief in the utility of the University of Arkansas in particular form the bases of school loyalty and tradition. More aesthetic are the values of cheering for the school team, supporting the institution after graduation, and searching for a name on Senior Walk. These feelings and beliefs combine to form a sense of loyalty and tradition that have marked the University for almost a century. Thousands of alums return yearly and with a sense of pride proclaim, This is our Alma Mater, the University of Arkansas.

Interest in Religion as a phase of campus life is encouraged from the registration of the student as a freshman. Nine student church groups are active on campus with daily services and churches of all denominations have some phase of their programs devoted entirely to students. They attempt to guide and direct the student in his searching and probing of life by offering spiritual guidance during the most formative part of the student's life.

An All-campus dance, such as the Air Force ROTC Military Ball, is a major highlight of the social season.

An educated mind, a literate mind, cannot exist by itself, for it must depend on others, both for the exchange of ideas and the cultivation of friendship. The University, realizing the value of the social development of one's personality, sponsors and sanctions varied social activities throughout the school year. Fraternities and sororities as well as all other living-groups on campus, have programs that include a wide variety of social activities for its members.

Just a beginning and not an ending as college days draw to a close. A new way of life must begin with the utilization of the years of preparation and training received at the University. With college days gone, so must the graduates go to prepare the new way of life by accepting the challenge that is surely waiting.

FEATURES

Kappas sing and 'get-the-spirit' as Tappy Dickens and Patty Payne step on the porch to greet approaching rushees at afternoon party.

Rush Starts Year Sans Top Leaders

University students returned in the fall to find that their school was lacking two highly-placed officials. The President, John Tyler Caldwell, had accepted a Chancellorship at North Carolina State, and Vice President and Provost, Lewis Rohrbaugh, had gone to Boston University to accept a similar position.

Arkansas administrators started the search for new personnel, and the Greeks started Rush Week in search of pledges. Gay parties, forced smiles, frank discussions, and, occasionally, disappointments, again characterized Rush. At the conclusion of Rush Week, one hundred eighty men and a record of one hundred ninety women had pledged.

After Rush Week, University students picked up their Travelers to find that about twenty of the campus leaders elected in the spring had been disqualified, and that new elections would be held. The Dean's office contended that the disqualifying was done for scholastic reasons.

Rushees encountered handshaking sessions preceding every fraternity rush party as frat men lined-up for shaking ritual.

Once inside the house, Kappas find a good floor position with rushees seated above and begin chat sessions to acquaint girls.

Phi Delts discuss merits, advantages of fraternity for interested rushee at first preferential party.

Pi Phis, Mary Bullock, Janet Porter, and Peachy Murry enact skit showing beginning of sorority in Wild West.

Rushees juggle purses, gloves, pencils, punch, and assorted Chi Omega cake as they make their way down the line.

Parties, Promises, and New Pledges

Pi Beta Phis jubilantly embrace new pledges after their 3-block run down Maple Street Hill before escorting them into the Pi Phi House.

Outside the Union, some fraternities wait for new pledges to be announced as others leave with their new fraternity brothers.

Tension mounts among Greeks as pledges are announced and rush to cheers and congratulations of their respective chosen fraternity brothers.

New freshman girls are appraised by over anxious males in the disguise of suitcase-carrying, civic-minded bellboys wanting to do their part.

Freshmen, Fire-eaters, and a Lull

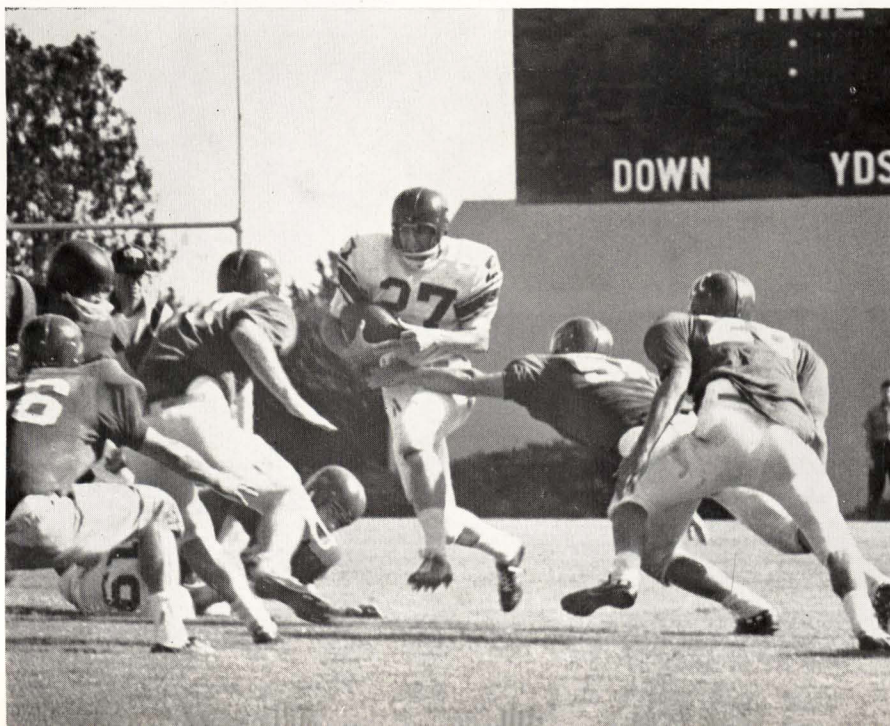

Student Senate President Bob Fussell and Student Body President Alan Sugg greet new students in the Union Lounge during the 'meet-the-wheels' party.

The new Greek pledges moved in and began to feel as if things were not the same as during Rush Week. The pledges began to get regimented and the freshmen began to get oriented. They met the officials who ran the University, plus the student leaders and the campus politicians. They got the opportunity to meet a football coach headed for the Southwest Conference championship and the conference's most successful basketball coach.

The County Fair was in town and anyone who was interested could see a fire-eating dwarf and a girl who was bored at the knives thrown at her. The football players were in town and the student saw a preview of the SWC champions in action in the Red-White game.

Registration once more provoked confusion in the Men's Gym. Students encountered the raised tuition fees of $100 and the out-of-state fee of $135 for the first time. Final enrollment figures showed that the University was unexpectedly below the preceding year.

Students received a preview of a winning season to come at the annual Red-White game played before a lively crowd at Razorback Stadium. Senior Bill Kyser carries the ball through a closing hole.

New students got a chance to talk to the Dean of Southwest Conference basketball coaches, UA's Glen Rose.

Fire-eater and disinterested girl, who kept same expression while knives were thrown at her, were two of the attractions at the Washington County Fair.

Block-long waiting line greeted students who arrived late to pick up class registration cards in the basement of Old Main.

Confusion 105X or Consent

Registration was not only trying to students but to chess playing advisors who were also faced with the problem of where-to-move-next.

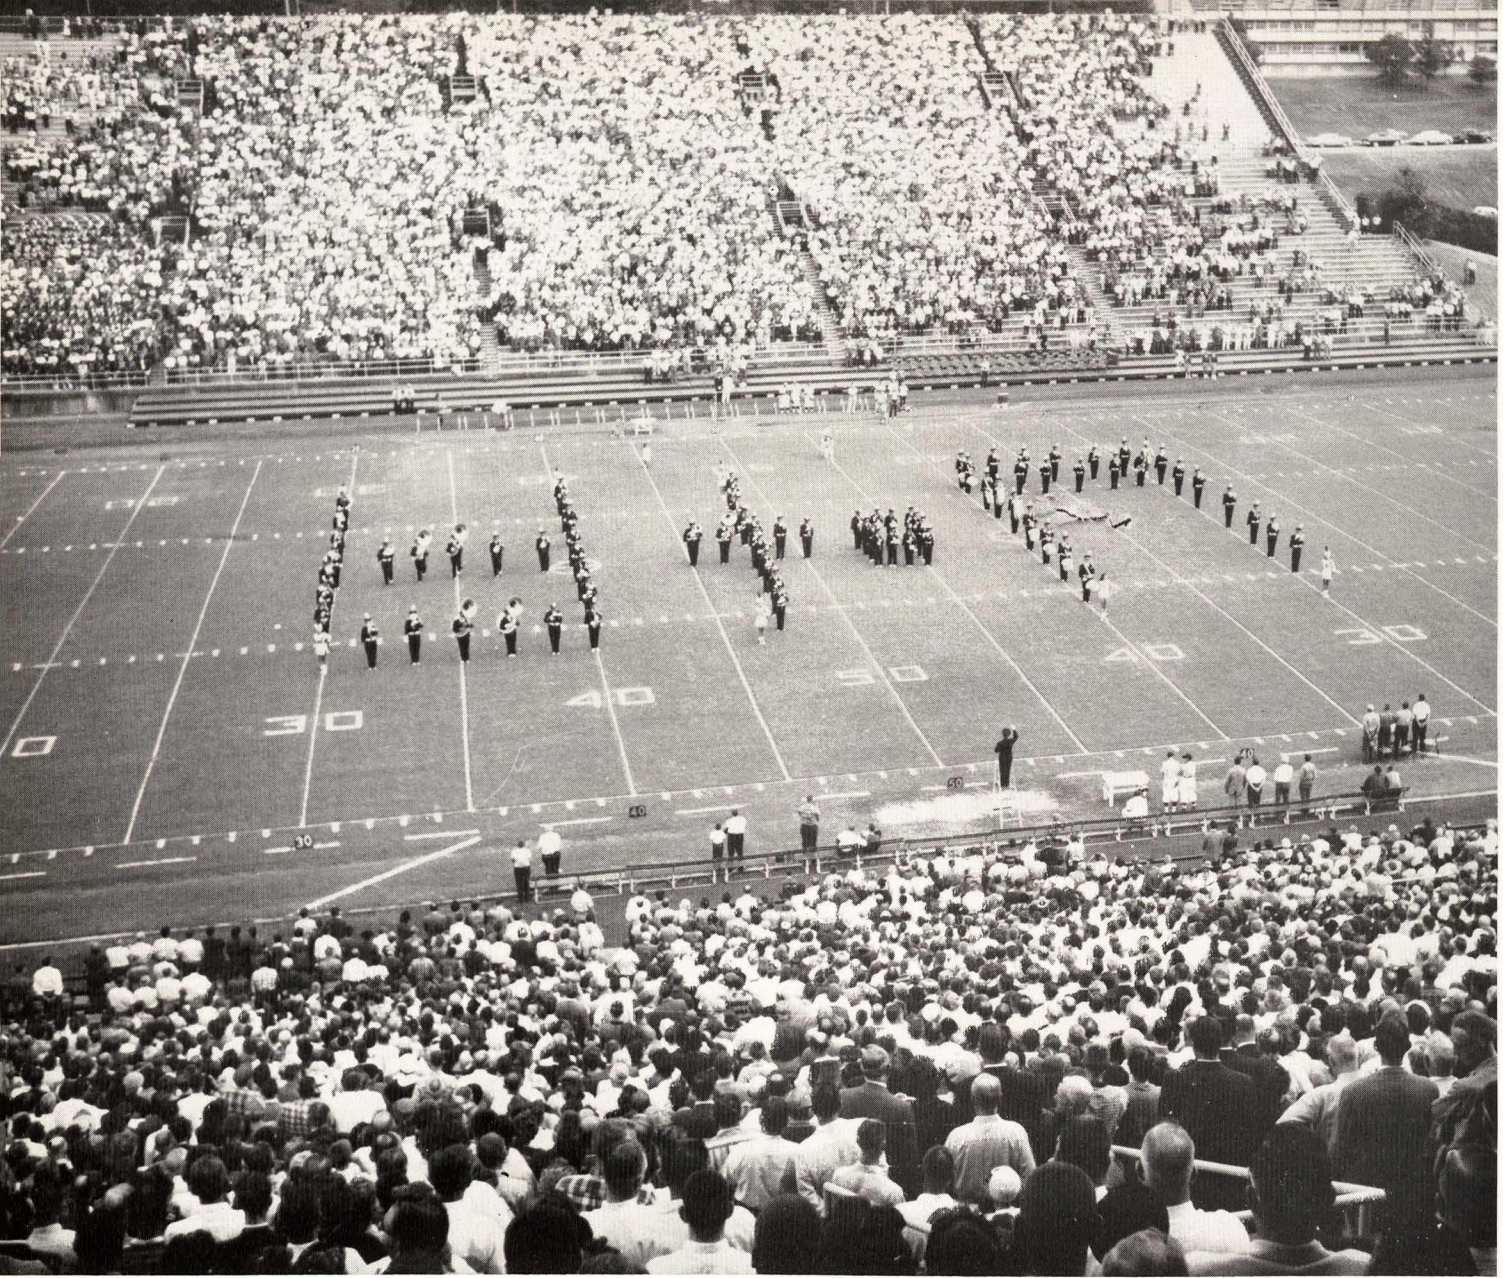

Somehow able to work up a smile after a two-hour registration, Chi O Peggy Lynn Perry poses for her activity card picture while others wait.

Razorback staff members and a few recruited friends, acquaintances, and passers-by are pressed into service by harried appointment-makers at the registration desk.

Out-of-state sophomore Pat Dial dejectedly eyes the rising figures in the registration cash register as it penalizes her geographic status.

Students and fans stand for Alma Mater before opening game with Tulsa preceding the start of classes on following Monday.

The Formation of Habit Patterns

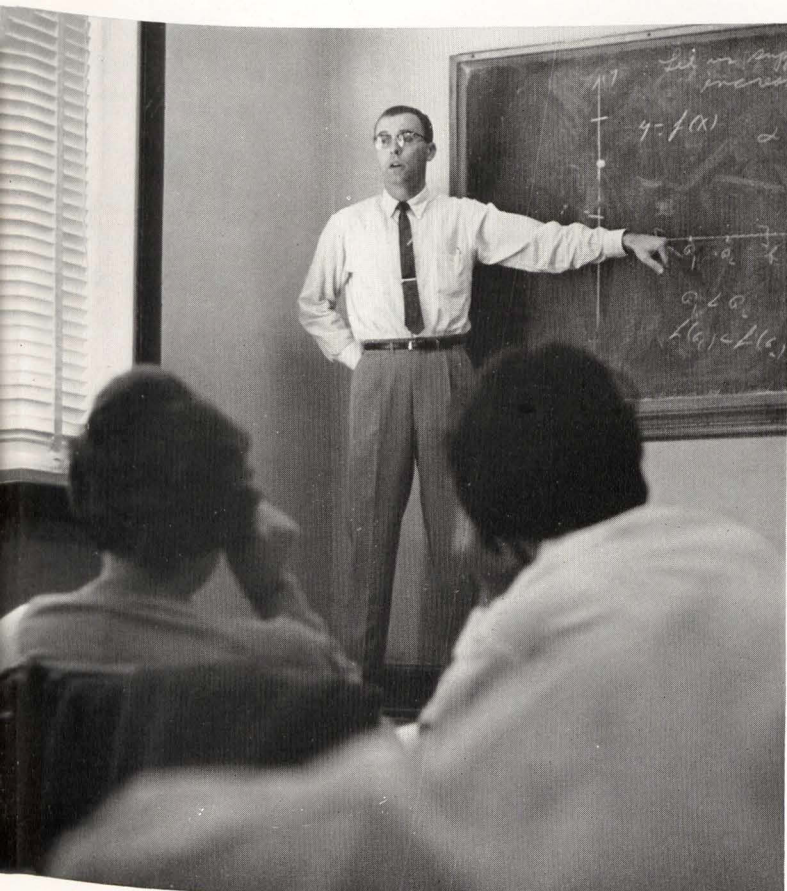

With the coming of classes comes the freshman who seems perpetually lost, the upperclassman who is bored before the professor opens his mouth, the cocky, loquacious, student who takes issue with every point his instructor makes and proceeds to flunk the course, the quiet individual in the back who never says a word and sets the "A" bracket so high that its unapproachable.

With classes and with the students comes the first football game and then Dad's Day. With suitable hoopla, the dads arrive on the campus and proceed to relive their college days. They visit the old fraternity house and brag about how rough they had it when they were pledges, while their smiling wives stand by understandingly.

The Razorback photographers from Randelle arrive and the pictures are made in the Union. The photographers leave and everyone settles into his pattern with few interruptions.

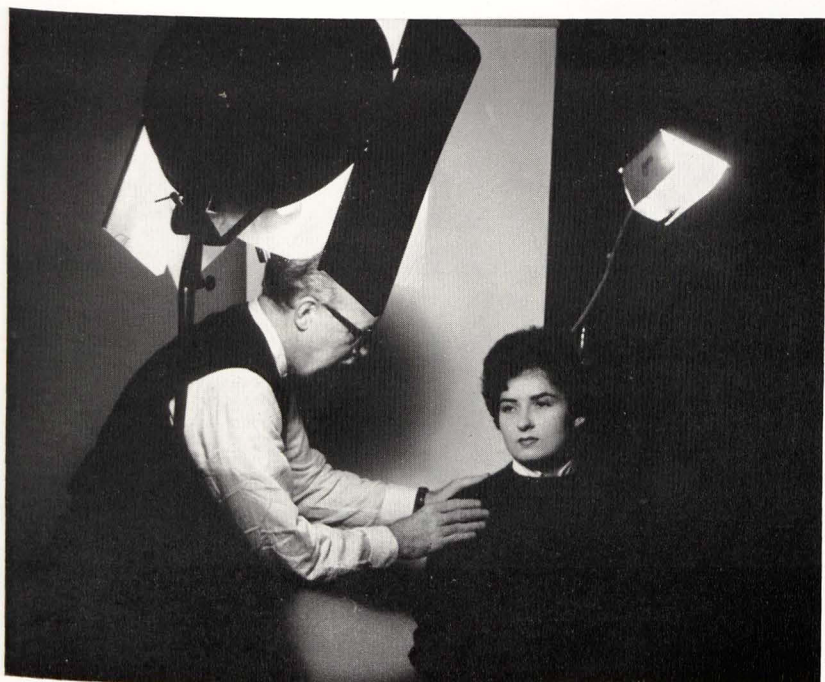

Coach Frank Broyles addresses first pep rally of year and predicts gloomy season for the SWC-title-bound Hogs.

First morning 7:30 classes proved to be trying for both new and old students after a summer of arising at-a-not-so-early-time.

New Fulbright freshmen coeds were feted with teas by PiKA and other fraternities on campus.

Exuberant Dads of football players leap to their feet at rain drenched Razorback Stadium as Hogs defeat TCU.

A Three-Point Victory for Dads

University Acting President Storm Whaley addresses a wet audience in a brief half-time dedication ceremony of newly constructed Brough Commons and Carlson Terraces.

The Zetas house decoration proved prophetic as the Razorbacks, later in the day, went on the literally kick their way to victory.

From the shelter of the original school-house used by Albert Pike, a disgruntled Dad ponders the advisability of the long walk through the rain to Razorback stadium.

Bouncing gaily around the stage, an enthused Stan Kenton gestures wildly and his musicians respond creatively.

Kenton Show, Music Loud & Low

Taking a stint at the piano, Kenton shows yet another facet of his many-sided genius at making good music.

The interruptions of classes come thick and fast as the musicians began showing up. Kenton was first and set a standard for other campus entertainers to try to reach. His own arrangements, like flatted fifths and augmented thirteenths and five trumpets a half step apart, wowed the audience and hurt the ears of the more classical-minded members of the audience.

The Four Freshmen were included in the Kenton package and delivered their usual show stoppers to a most appreciative audience. Vocalist June Christy rounded out the program, but due to illness, performed only sparingly.

With the approach of the Sigma Nu relays, the sorority houses began looking like the Razorback practice field. The girls invited dates over for such diverse entertainment as pulling against them in their practice for the tug-o-war, blowing up balloons for Balloon Bust practice, etc., etc. The weatherman smiled on the day set for the Relays and the Tri-Delts won again, the ChiO's coming in second and the ADPi's third.

The Frosh, favorites at the University, begin yet another of their original arrangements for a capacity audience consisting of students, faculty, and many people from town.

Frosh antics-puller Bob Flanagan interrupts Four Freshmen long enough to present his own humorous interpretation of how song should sound.

"No hablo Ingles" was the motto of the Stan Kenton's South American bon-go player, but his music certainly was not prone to any lack of communication.

While the Tri-Delt team looks around apprehensively for possible intruders, the ChiO's and Zetas square off in the Balloon Bust.

Tri-Delts Hassle to Relays Victory

The first Zeta gets her foot wet in their ill-fated pull in the tug-o-war as supporters and hecklers rave on.

Pi Phi jumper Betty Clark seems to be coming out of her sack but she retains her lead over well-sacked but floundering opponents in sack race.

The Chi Omega entrant feels around for her mysterious assailant and the Delta Gamma thrashes on in the attack on the egg and only, incidentally, her head.

Clean-shirted Gene Rackley makes his getaway from pledges made suddenly aggressive by the Sigma Nu tradition of dunking members.

Pi Beta Phi argyle sock made by a Pig walked off with first place honors in the women's division of the house decoration judging.

Homecoming Under Cloudy Skies

With the end in mind of improving the quality of the Homecoming decorations and at the same time making less work for the living groups building them, ABC decided that each house just has to build one decoration either a yard decoration or a parade float. The happy houses complied and the results were spectacular.

In the women's division, the Pi Phi's socked the judges as well as the Aggies and took first place. The Zetas got second and the Tri-Delts, third. The Sigma Nus ran away with the men's division trophy and no one objected. The Lambda Chi's were second and the Kappa Sig's, third.

The SAE's train and the ADPi's donkey cart won the float prizes with the Acacias and the Kappas second and the Pikes and the ChiO's third.

Governor Faubus, Homecoming Queen Sarah Jane Melton, and an embarrassed maid, Mickey Barrow who lost her slip, were the main attractions at the Homecoming football game as the Hogs beat the Aggies, 12-7.

Simple, but unique, Acacia float won second place honors as a coon-dog on a leash barked at a coon tied in tree.

Rebecca W. Wasson begins time consuming job of stuffing tail-end of 'Irvin, the Dragon', in preparation for the approaching parade.

Founder of Homecoming, Secretary of State C. G. 'Crip' Hall, waves to crowd along Dickson Street.

Giant Razorback gets support and a boost from Alpha Tau Omega in the mid-morning parade.

Lambda Chi Alpha house decoration, depicting a 'Porker' game was awarded second place in men's division.

Decorations, Apes, and Politicians

Three-coach train 'that could', did, as elaborate mechanism of Sigma Alpha Epsilon steamed and roared to a first place in men's float division.

Head table at annual State Legislators Banquet included Board Chairman L. C. Carter and wife and Governor and Mrs. Orval Faubus.

Forty-foot high crepe paper Ape of Sigma Nu caused comment, laughter, and was awarded the first place trophy in the men's house decorations division.

Artistic float of Alpha Delta Pi, with a donkey delivering a victory, brought awe and comment and to no one's surprise was awarded the first place float award.

Homecoming Ends Without a Slip

Precision Air Force ROTC Drill Team proved to be a crowd favorite as group 'hunkered' to a cadence call in the Homecoming morning parade.

And then Homecoming was over and the football season was done and all that remained to be done was to pick up the loose ends of football season and back to the booky grind.

One of the loose ends brought the University as much publicity as the whole season as the Gator Bowl extended an invitation to Arkansas to face Georgia Tech on nation-wide television on January second in Florida. The Hogs went and thousands of Arkansans went with them and the Engineers were beaten in what national magazines called "the best bowl game of the year."

Halfback Jim Mooty earned recognition right and left which was capped by his being named All-America by the Associated Press. Jim toured the state and took his bows.

The Young Democrats raised a lot of hell, but no one was quite sure what it was about and The AWS chose John Tolleson as their St. Nick.

Limelight of crowning of Homecoming Queen was shifted from Queen Sarah Melton to Maid Mickey Barrows as her slip slips to the ground before a capacity crowd and regional TV hook-up.

Remaining members of the 1909 Razor-back team are honored by proclamation read by Assistant Athletic Director George Cole in pre-game ceremonies.

Roses and traditional kiss are presented Homecoming Queen Sarah Jane Melton by Governor Orval E. Faubus during halftime crowning ceremonies.

Athletic Director John Barnhill signs contract that will fete Hogs against Georgia Tech in Gator Bowl as Officials and Coach George Cole look on.

Awards, A Pianist, Controversy

World famous pianist Jose Iturbi chats with Carolyn Webster and Diane CaHail after his concert to a capacity crowd in Men's Gym.

Reynolds Griffith, a member of the State Young Democrats Executive Committee, addresses the local chapter before the election of new officers.

For his outstanding play exhibited in the Homecoming game, Jim Mooty receives the Crip Hall Award at basketball halftime.

Wearing his crown as the newly-named AWS St. Nick, Sigma Nu John Tolleson is congratulated by Gail Cooper and Prexy Ellen Compton.

Singfony winners from Fulbright Hall watch director Deanne Fleener as she sets the beat, mouths the words, and encourages them.

Songs of the Season for Charity

After only about a month of school, trouble began and what has been called the "saga of Jim Standard" became an event of student and faculty controversy.

On the lighter side, Singfony was held for a packed house. The Phi Delt's won again in the men's division and Fulbright Hall took the women's top trophy.

The Kappas and the Alphas took second and the Pi Phis and the Sigma Chis won the cakes and had a party together.

In the Senate, discussion was heard on the advisability of having all the various college "days" on one day, with the engineers violently objecting.

Christmas and Christmas parties approached and the Air Force Military Ball was held and then everyone, or almost everyone went home for the holidays.

Song director Emily Damon leads Kappa Kappa Gamma through two selections and to a second place trophy at the annual campus 'Singfony'.

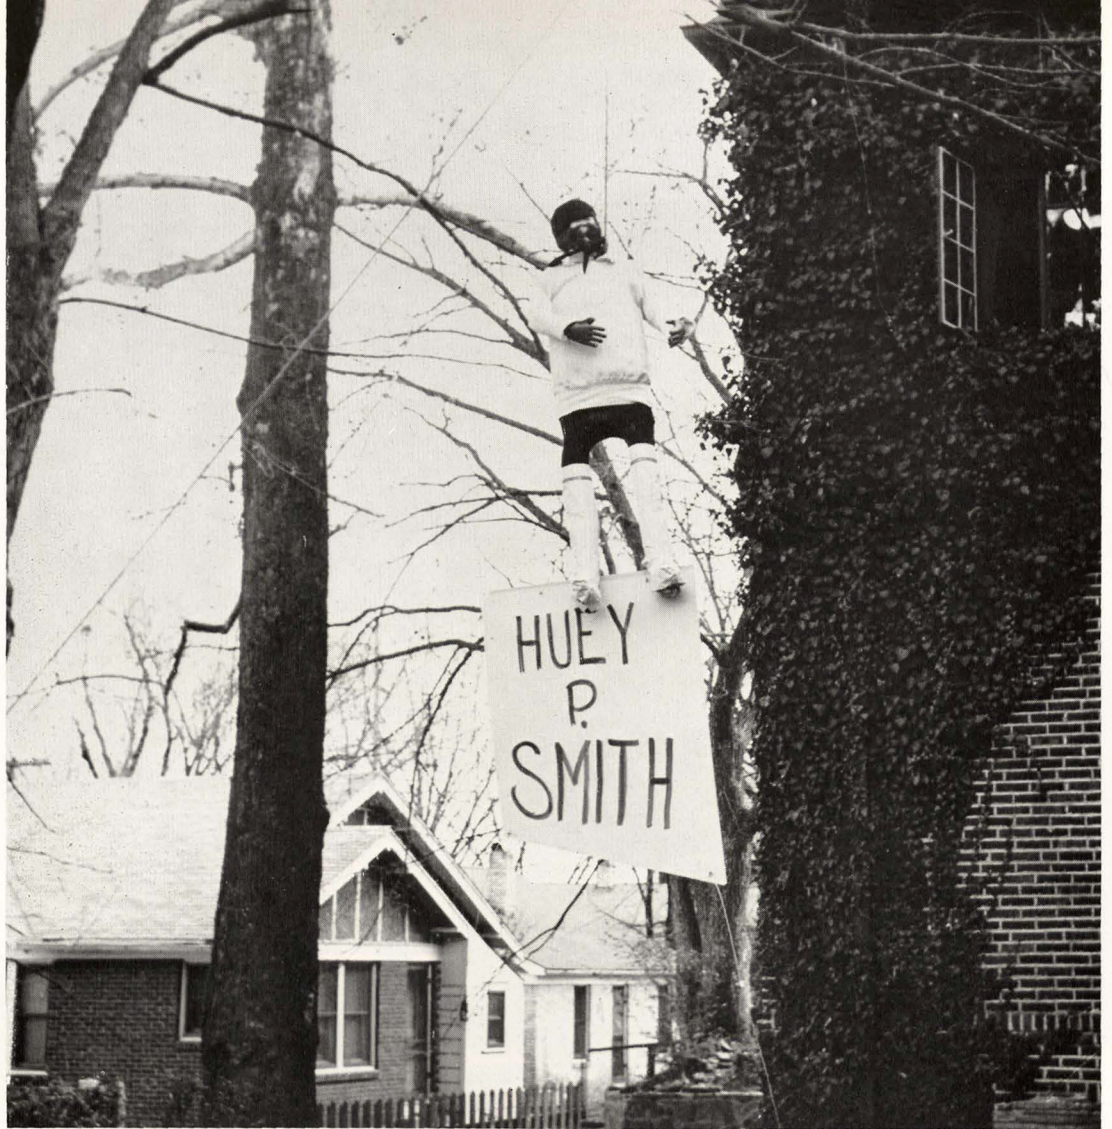

Scoring their second consecutive Singfony men's division victory, Bill Taylor's Phi Delts were the crowd favorites.

After helping her Fulbright Hall group, Mary Louise Core entertains while the judges retire.

The six winners of the two divisions get onstage to pose with their four trophies and two cakes.

Perturbed Kappa Sigmas, their tempers up after having been canceled out by Huey P. Smith's band, hung him in effigy.

St. Nick Makes the Scene

It was difficult to determine who was being entertained and who was doing the entertaining at the annual Acacia Children's Party.

Dressed in formal attire, Air Force cadets and dates enjoy the Military Ball, the social highlight of the AFROTC program.

With his beard askew, Paul Kingsborough plays Santa Claus, assisted by good-looking helpers sorting presents at the Zeta house.

Resting before the big game, Jim Mooty, Jim Monroe, Joe Paul Alberty, and Dean Garrett watch the antics of a playful porpoise with a football.

An Adventure in Gator-Land

Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas greets the crowd at Jacksonville and extends to them greetings from Arkansas and also a few wry jokes.

The Porkers tied for the Southwest Conference Championship and earned a chance to face Georgia Tech in the Gator Bowl. The team and thousands of Arkansans streamed into Jacksonville, Florida to see Arkansas win, 14-7.

Arriving back at school to start the long last stretch toward finals, students discovered that they were snowed in, and they remained so for six weeks as the snow kept falling.

The snow proved encouraging for study for some, but for others it merely meant that there was another distraction, going out and snowballing or being snowballed.

The Fine Arts center came out with a dance to provide still another diversion.

Acting President Storm Whaley went to Little Rock in another capacity for the University as the Board of Trustees announced the selection of David Mullins as President. Finals came.

After the Razorbacks' 14-7 win over Georgia Tech in the Gator Bowl, Razorback head coach Frank Broyles receives the trophy from Gator Bowl Association President John Piombo at the banquet.

Prepared by the Arkansas State Parks and Publicity Commission, the Arkansas float makes its way down the palm-lined streets of sunny Jacksonville.

Miss America, Linda Meade of Mississippi, special guest at Gator Bowl, greets visitors at the annual classic.

While dates gather snowballs and pelt passing cars, Pi Phi's Betty Kate Brown, Martha Dale Cook, and Rayanne Heine catch their breath.

Snow, Study, Finals and Miracles

Some psychology students, thinking a white rat to be a suitable "snowman" for their building, begin building it.

With the coming of final exams, many students find the work stacked up and make a hasty retreat to the Library as did Ch'Ann Martin.

In every class there seems to be one student that takes the whole exam period no matter how easy the course or how short the kind teacher makes the exam.

In her role in the University production of 'The Miracles', Belle Thompson, freshman from Waldron, displays her Thespian ability.

Governor Orval Faubus, on the campus for semester graduation, gets acquainted with new President, David Mullins.

A New President Addresses Grads

The students, except the ones sweating graduation, and the faculty made it to the semester break and rested, or decked themselves out in hot, awkward robes for graduation.

Most of the students got their first look at their new president as he came to the campus from Auburn University to address the graduates. He also found time to meet legislators and deans as he started getting acquainted.

The graduation exercise was held in the Barnhill Fieldhouse again, the planners taking no chance on the weather. With only a few mishaps and little confusion, the graduation took place and no one was seen to be jerked out of the line.

Everyone registered and the new students were oriented and inspired and it was time for another try at making grades.

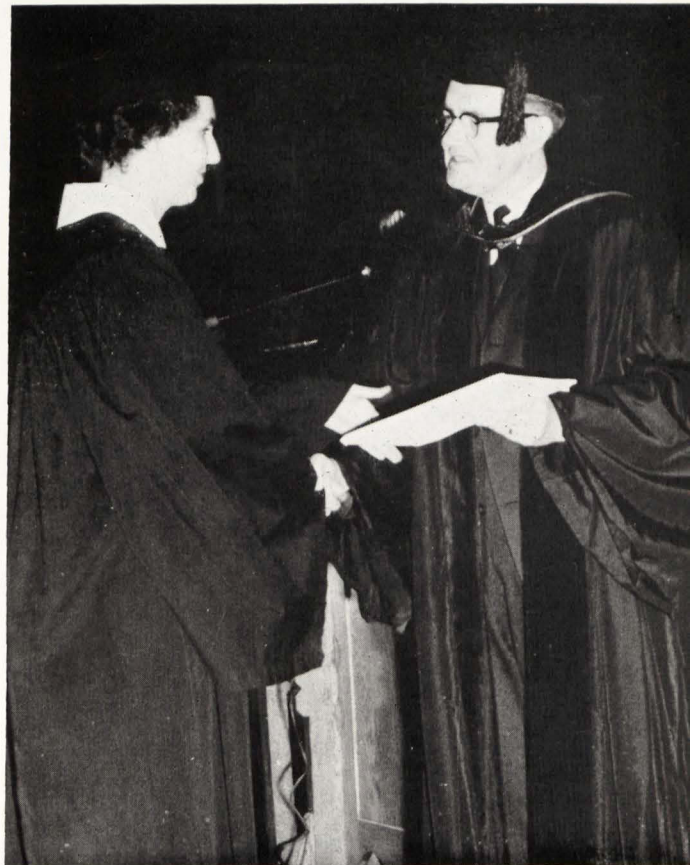

After four years of drill and training, ROTC cadets receive their commissions and are sworn in at official ceremonies.

An orderly maelstrom takes place in the Barnhill Fieldhouse as mid-year graduates make their way to the elevated seats.

With Dr. Mullins not yet assuming his duties, Acting President Storm Whaley hands out scrolls.

Milling around on the indoor football practice field, graduates form lines for entrance.

For the second time of the year, registrants fill out forms and hope for the arrival of the IBM machines.

Registration With a Flu-Bug Near

Assistant Dean of Students Eleanor Tyler begins the orientation procedure for women entering the University at semester by informing them of the AWS house rules.

Unhappy students line up for the last time in the campus non-profit bookstore to get rid of their last big expense, textbooks.

Settled at the Army ROTC desk mainly to help attract potential recruits for Army cadetship, Liz Hollenberg fills our forms for attracted student cadet.

Chi Omegas Caroline Cox, Anne Shaw, and C. K. Kendrick display winning smiles during at semester rush party at ChiO House.

Rush With Threat of an Epidemic

Meanwhile, over at the Phi Delta Theta House, a rushee was being literally "torn in two" by well-meaning rushers in their crowded front hall.

A flu scare delayed the start of classes for two days, but then the smiles were put on again by the Greeks and the fraternities pledged 49 men. The girls sweated, talked it up, and then screamed as has become their habit in rush and 35 girls were pledged, with, of course, every sorority getting just the girls they wanted.

The Traverler situation began a long stay in different committees and in the Student Senate with everyone signing petitions but no one was quite sure what it was all about.

The snow was still on the ground, only this time it glazed over and university students began borrowing sleds from little kids to go down hills.

With suitable fanfare, the Army Military Ball arrived along with a few complaints from the cadets on the choice of bands. None of the young ones had even heard of Ted Weems. But everyone went anyway and "a good time was had by all."

Tri-Delts meet new pledges and escort them to their new rooms in the blue house on Maple.

Confusion is the by-word at the corner of Oakland and Maple Streets as the new pledges rush out of the Student Union to meet their new "big sisters."

Delta Gamma rushers, shown above with white hearts, entertain rushees, shown above with dark hearts, at rush party.

Balls, Resolutions, and More Snow

As the students came back to school from an unseasonably warm semester break, the skies opened and snow was here for an unprecedented six weeks.

Senate President Bob Fussell commends the group after their acceptance of a resolution to place the Traveler back under student jurisdiction.

Delight is expressed by Pershing Rifles Honorary Sponsor Donna Axum at a balloon souvenir given her by PR Cadet Captain Ken Hendricson.

Razorback Beauties Miller, Grohoski, Jerome, Carlson, Lucas, and Roland pose at the Porker Party after being named beauties.

Play-Time, Awards, and a Newness

According to the Traveler, Kai Winding flunked geography and played the continent of Europe, instead of the Porker Party as was announced. John Tolleson subbed for the missing Winding and the Party went off as scheduled to a sparse crowd of athletes and beauty candidates. Gerald Gardner was named King Porker and TV Star Bob Cummings selected six Razorback Beauties.

Student Union Week was here as the Union attempted to emphasize its facilities to serve students. All American Jim Mooty received his AP certificate and the University got a President, as David W. Mullins, former vice-president at Auburn, took over the Presidential duties.

The Greek pledges had their annual IFPC dance and crowned Kappa Carol Kirby as Queen. Jose Greco and his troupe of Spanish dancers, under trying circumstances, presented an enjoyable concert.

Strange wierd-like light appears for the second straight year and it is still pretty and baffling to this writer.

Rock and Roller John Tolleson and his bunch provided the music for the Student Union Week dance, as they did for the King Porker Party.

Newly selected University President David W. Mullins assumes the position and duties as President during his first day, March first.

Scene stealer with a broom, who expected All-American Mooty and friends to move out of his way, caused commotion, laughter, in Fieldhouse.

Newly-announced Interfraternity Pledge Queen, Carol Anne Kirby, addresses Greek pledges and dates with acceptance speech.

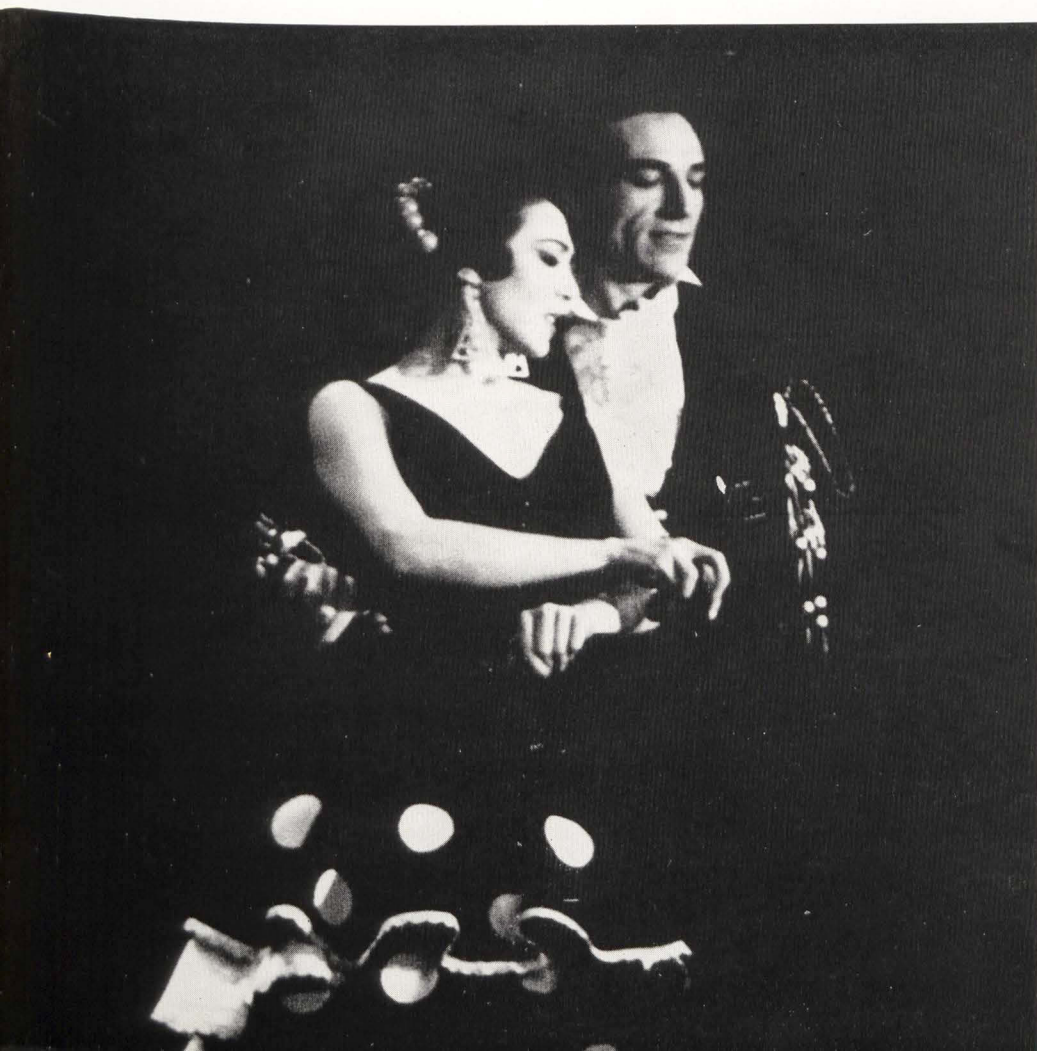

Greeks, Greco, Independents Dance

Beatniks and non-conformists galore were on hand at the Men's Interhall Council 'Beat Generation Party' held at Sedgwell House.

Flaming guitars and whirling skirts with rhythmic feet combined to form the basis for an enjoyable Jose Greco Concert.

Jose 'the man' Greco, dancing, star of 'Around the World in 80 Days,' stomps to a Spanish beat with his partner on flat sounding, dust covered stage.

Engineers, dates, and guests dance in the decorated Union ballroom following the banquet and preceding the annual announcement of St. Pat and St. Patricia.

A Non-Technical Day for Engineers

Shaking to the Charleston, Zeta Billie Waters entertains the capacity crowd preceding the voting for St. Patricia by the engineers.

The Engineers had their day, after maneuvering the Student Senate to alter its 'no-days'. More and more shamrocks began to appear on campus and at the conclusion, Jack Hammett and Carol Johnson were named St. Pat and St. Patricia.

The business students, not to be outdone, had their day and heard State Chamber of Commerce President, Marvin Melton of Jonesboro, speak on "Arkansas' Progress—Our Business". Tri-Delt Joyce Norwood was named Commerce Queen at the banquet concluding Commerce Day.

Spring formals began to appear with their more-than-elaborate decoration themes. Random House President and TV panelist Bennett Cerf delivered an informative speech on the changing trends in American humor. University President Mullins presented Cerf an 'Arkansas Traveler' certificate before his speech.

St. Pat candidate resorted to a somewhat leggy chorus line of Sandy Hillman, Janet McNeil, Vicki Borman, Phyllis Rainer, and Kay McCollum, in an attempt to swing votes in the election.

Newly-crowned St. Pat and St. Patricia, Jack Hammett and Carol Johnson, dance at the Engineers' Ball in the Union following the announcement of the honor.

Daisy Mae, portrayed by St. Patricia candidate Marian Moore, depicted life and the trying times of Dogpatch for an appreciative group of engineers.

Dignitaries at the head table of the Commerce Day banquet heard State Chamber of Commerce leader Marvin Melton speak on Arkansas' progress.

Cerf, Formals, the Business Outlook

Business students crowd the polls to elect student government officials and a commerce queen, to be announced at Commerce Day banquet.

Zeta pledges decorate in the Union ballroom for their approaching Spring Formal, as the formal season got underway at the University.

Outgoing Commerce Queen Ann Shaw extends a trophy and congratulations to the incoming Queen, Joyce Norwood, at the Commerce Day banquet.

Noted humorist, columnist, and President of Random House, Bennett Cerf, addresses a capacity crowd on the changing trends in American humor.

Students bow their heads for the convocation prayer, delivered by former Southern Baptist Convention President, Brooks Hays.

A Week with Emphasis on Religion

Religion during the week was emphasized as Religious Emphasis Week got underway. Brooks Hays, former Arkansas Congressman, was the feature speaker for the week. Morning convocations were held at 11:30 daily with classes dismissed early to allow all students to attend. Evening convocations, bull sessions, and classroom visitations rounded out the REW program.

Attorney General Bruce Bennett, a candidate for Governor, addressed the Young Democrats Club, and attacked the automobile license tax. Other orators were expounding as the intramural debate tournament got underway. Sigma Chi, Teke, and ADPi won first place honors.

Campus Chest began without Campus Capers for the first time. The Student Senate ruled out Capers because of time element involved, but the usual dances, coffee sales, and a campus lover contest, won by Sigma Nu Chester Lowe, highlighted the charity raising drive.

Religious Emphasis Week Chairman Lindley Williams addresses the first convocation speaking of plans, events, and scheduled speakers for the coming week.

Hays delivers the first sermon of Religious Emphasis Week to a capacity crowd in Union.

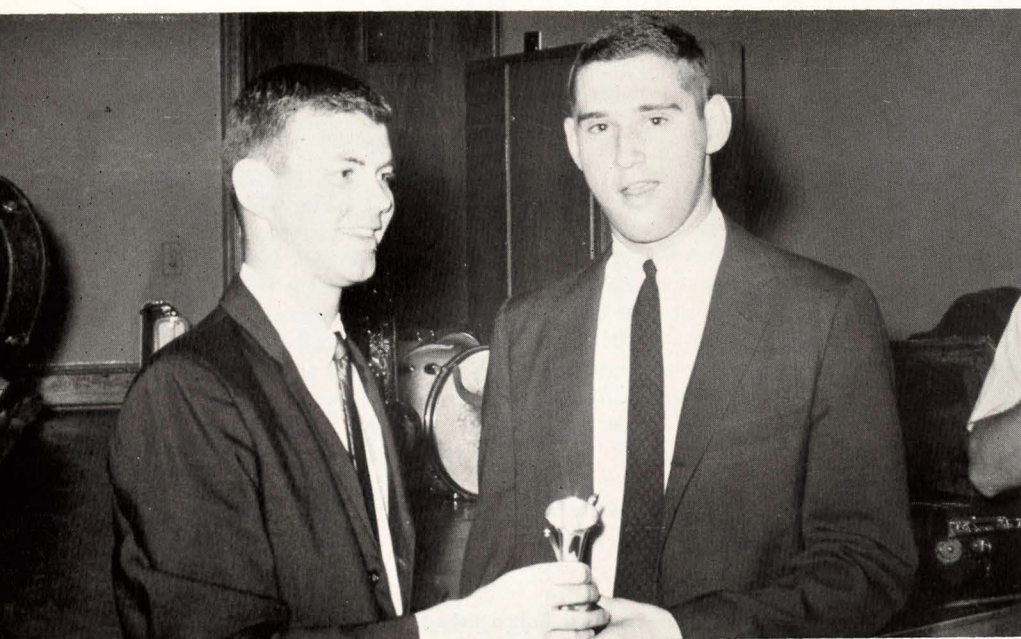

Episcopal Bishop Robert Brown answers a question posed at an evening seminar and 'bull session'.

Gubernatorial candidate Bruce Bennett addresses the Young Demo Club and pledges an automobile tax cut, if elected.

Campus Chest, Orators, Charges

Civic Club President Buster Jones presents the Campus Lover trophy to Sigma Nu Chester Lowe at the conclusion of Campus Chest Drive.

Bermuda short clad 'Trebles' rock and roll for the Campus Chest Supper Dance for charity in the Union ballroom.

Firey oration of Jim Hefley in opposition to theory of capital punishment, won second place for Sigma Alpha Epsilon in the intramural debate tournament.

Ground moves up rapidly as Brahma Bull unloads untactfully its passenger of a few seconds at the annual Agri Rodeo.

May-Day for Farmers and Lawyers

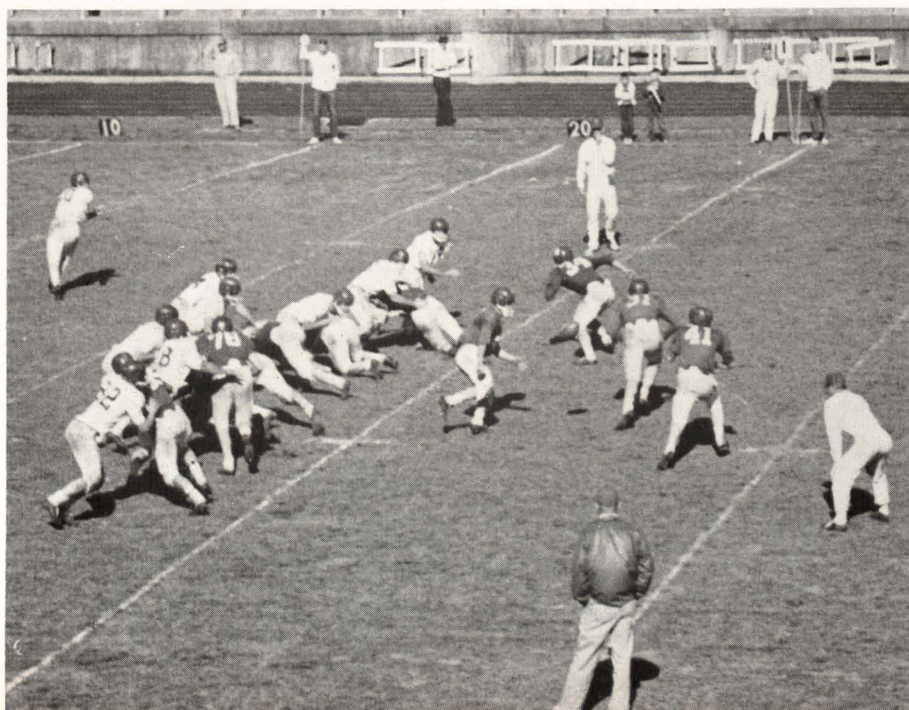

Defense Attorney Don Ryan makes a funny point to his star witness, Ann Yancey, before the Moot-Court Law-Day trial of a typewriter thief.

The Agri Students had a field day with bucking brones, a cow milking contest, and an all Agri dance and barbeque. The Agrarians named ADPi Sondra Hall as Agri Queen over four other candidates.

The Lawyers selected no queen, but had a day on May-Day that included a moot court trial and a banquet-dance. Politics filled the air as speeches were delivered in a rally and pre-election dance in the Union ball-room. Despite no publicity of the rally, approximately 200 turned out to boost the candidates.

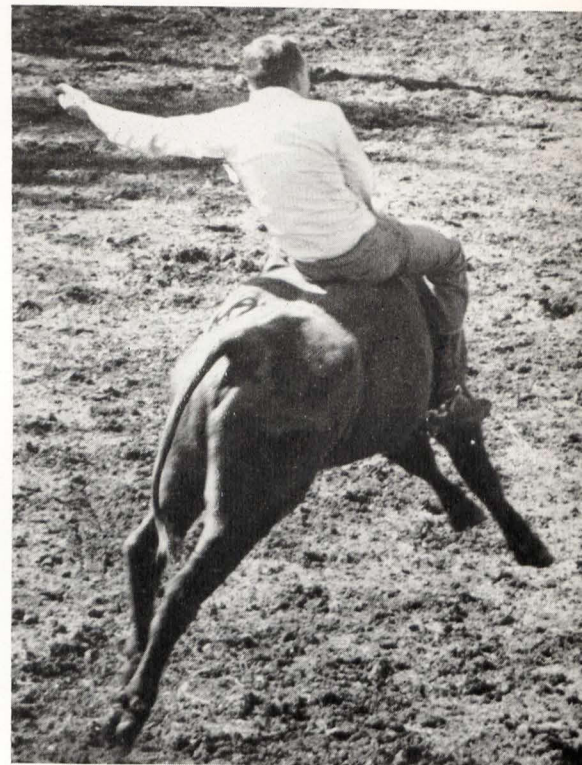

Jim Dennis and Dick Dahlen filed for President of Associated Students, while Bill Adair drew no opposition for Vice President. Three candidates were in the running for Secretary and two entered the race for Treasurer. Senate Seats had to be filled and a host of students filed. 'Politiking' began.

Pressure by a Personal Appeal

After a last minute rush to the polls, all was over but the counting. This came later and in the final tabulation, Dick Dahlen defeated Presidential Candidate Jim Dennis, 1498-791. Unopposed Vice President candidate Bill Adair, save for a few votes for Alfred E. Newman, had no write-in opposition. Sandra Yates, in an organized high-pressure campaign, edged ChiO Alice Rothert 912 to 864. George Jernigan easily defeated Dudley Bumpass for Treasurer, 1017 to 640.

Gaebale started with the beauty pageant in the Greek Theater, but rain forced the show to be moved into the Men's Gym. Tommy Bond waits with Phi Delt racer before the announcement of his race. Phi Delt, previous winner of last three derbies, took another first trophy.

The rains continued to come and the Gaebale outlook looked dim, causing the cancellation of the Carnival on Friday night. The sun appeared Saturday and the Carnival was rescheduled for that night. The racers again crashed down the hill and sometimes into the crowd. Phi Delta Theta took the first place honors for both design and speed.

Chris Conner, who sang at Gaebale two years ago, was on hand again for an afternoon concert. After Chris came the Carnival, which was revived after a three year lapse.

After the Carnival came the dance which concluded Gaebale, with three rock and roll groups providing the music. Gaebale Director Dudley Bumpass, despite charges of Student Senate and pressure from the Administration, assembled both an enjoyable and a profitable Gaebale, thus virtually insuring its continuance.

A spur-of-the moment dance in the Student Union ballroom was held as continued rain forced the postponement of the scheduled carnival. The dance drew an unusually large crowd.

ADMINISTRATION

Orval Eugene Faubus is serving his sixth year as Governor of Arkansas, a record which is almost unparalleled in the history of the state.

Governor Faubus ponders a question directed from a faculty member while he was on campus during the Act 10 controversy last spring.

Governor of Arkansas

Serving an almost unprecedented third term as Governor of the State of Arkansas, Orval E. Faubus has become one of the most outstanding political figures in the United States. An able legislator and a capable administrator, Governor Faubus has during the last six years seen much progress over the state.

A varied career of service to the state constitutes the background of our present Governor. Following a tour of duty in the army during World War II, Faubus returned to Arkansas to become postmaster of his hometown, Huntsville, county clerk of Madison County, a member of the State Highway Commission, and, later, administrative assistant to former Governor Sid McMath.

Despite his busy schedule, Governor Faubus has taken an active interest in University affairs. On New Year's he headed a delegation of some 7000 fans to boost the Razorbacks to victory at the Gator Bowl. In the past, Faubus has called for increased funds for the University, and has avidly supported its program in the State Legislature.

A graduate of the University, President Mullins assumed his duties as the administrative head of the entire University on March 1, leaving the executive vice-presidency at Auburn University.

University President

Dr. David Wiley Mullins, a man of unusual ability and a dedicated educator, has been recently appointed 14th President of the University of Arkansas. Dr. Mullins succeeds Dr. John T. Caldwell, who resigned in August to assume the position of Chancellor at North Carolina State. For the past eleven years, President Mullins has been the Executive Vice President of Auburn where he has been in charge of the institution's legislative program.

A native of Arkansas, Dr. Mullins was born on a farm near Ash Flat. He was one of a family of nine, six of whom graduated from the University of Arkansas. Upon graduation from the University, Mullins earned his Master of Arts degree at Colorado, and in 1941 he obtained his Ph.D. at Columbia with emphasis on education administration and finance.

In the interim between presidents, Storm Whaley assumed the prime executive duties and, with the appointment of Dr. Mullins, goes to Little Rock as chief administrator and Assistant to the President.

Storm Whaley acted as president for several months and now goes to the Little Rock branch as Vice President.

University of Arkansas

Senate

The University of Arkansas Senate functions directly under the Board of Trustees, which sets the over-all policy of the University. The Senate is broken down into two sections. The main body is located on the Fayetteville Campus and presides over general academic policies, while the second portion, located at Little Rock, has primary jurisdiction over the Schools of Medicine, Pharmacy, Nursing, and the Graduate Center.

Members of the Senate are the administrative officers of the University as well as professors who have had at least two years experience on the faculty. The Senate Council is the legislative body of the Senate. Composed of one member elected for each 25 members of each college faculty, and representatives of the administration; the Council formulates and reviews legislation introduced by the Senate and has the power to initiate as well. The Legislative Council meets four times annually, while the Senate itself meets twice.

The President of the University, David Wiley Mullins, is Chairman of the Senate Council, with Carter A. Short, Registrar as acting secretary for both the Senate and Senate Council.

Senate secretary Carter A. Short and R. K. Bent distribute proposed amendment, one of many studied by senate each year.

A measure brought before the senate which, if passed, will change the University's constitution, is seriously contemplated by senate members.

James E. Pomfret

Vice President for Business

James E. Pomfret, Vice-President for Business at the University of Arkansas, centers his attention on the business operations of the Main Campus and the Medical Center in Little Rock. A graduate of the College of Business Administration, Pomfret joined the University staff in 1948. In a steadily rising career, he was appointed to chief accountant in 1949, became purchasing agent and controller in 1954, and business manager in 1957. He succeeded T. C. Carlson as Vice-President for Business in May, 1958.

A native of Philadelphia, Penn., Pomfret graduated from South Philadelphia High School for Boys. He attended the University of Pennsylvania and Charles Morris Price School in Philadelphia before coming to the University of Arkansas. In the past, he has held positions with Philadelphia Electric Co., Kresge Co., and Sears-Roebuck. Pomfret is 44 and a member of the First Presbyterian Church and the Kiwanis Club. He is married and the father of three children.

John D. White

Vice President for Agriculture

Familiar with every phase of Arkansas Agriculture, Dr. John D. White assumed the duties of Vice-President for Agriculture at the University of Arkansas in July, 1959. When Dr. White succeeded Dean Lippert Ellis, the University Division of Agriculture was reorganized, and the position of Dean and Director of Agriculture became Vice-President for Agriculture.

A native of Arkansas, Dr. White earned his B.S.A. at the University in 1935. He did graduate work at the University of Minnesota where he received his M.S. degree in 1939 and his Ph.D. in 1943. He became head of the rural economics department in 1947 and served in that capacity until he became Associate Director of the University's Agricultural Experiment Station in 1953. He was assistant director of the Rice Branch Experiment Station at Stuttgart before moving to Fayetteville in 1947. In 1957 Dr. White was named "Man of the Year" in service to Arkansas agriculture, an award made by Progressive Farmer Magazine.

College of Arts and Sciences

The College of Arts and Sciences offers the largest variety of courses of study of the schools at the University. It attempts to guide its students toward acquaintance with leading ideas as well as the mastery of habits of thought and methods of work in the liberal arts field.

Known as the 'mother college', it boasts twenty-three departments and a faculty which accomplishes almost sixty percent of the teaching done on the campus.

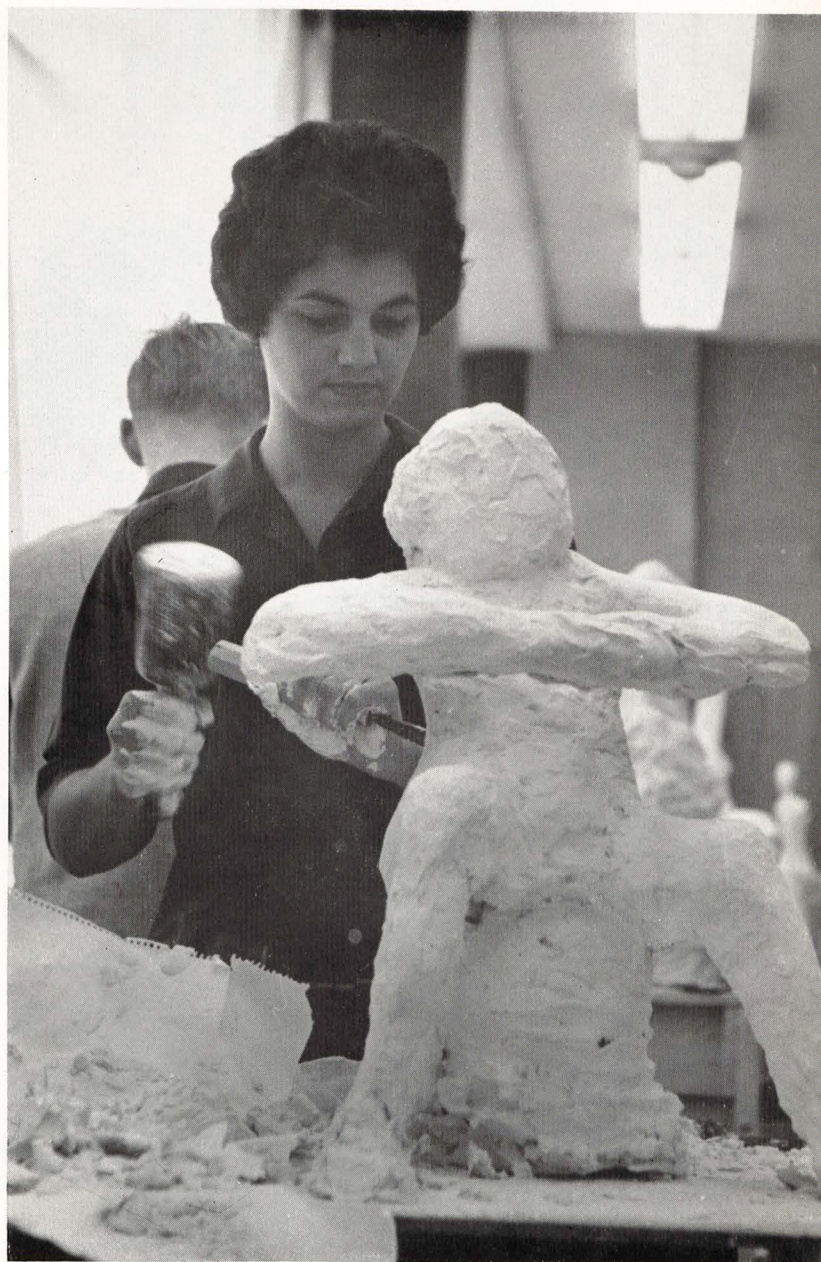

Most students on campus have an acquaintance with the 'Arts' school, and nearly everyone enrolled in the University is required to enroll in at least one of its courses. By following the required basic program along with a major subject, students work toward one of four degrees.

Under the guidance of Dean Guerdon D. Nichols, with the able assistance of Dean O. W. McMillen, the college has managed to maintain high educational standards despite a lack of classroom space due to increased enrollment.

A recently adopted honors program enables students maintaining a high grade average to pursue independent advanced study in order to be eligible for graduation with honors.

College of Agriculture, Home Economics

With increasing emphasis on research and experimentation, the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture and Home Economics leads the way in serving the state's agrarian interests.

It has operated experimental projects as far from campus as Panama, but it concentrates its most vigorous efforts within the State where there are eleven University experimental farms. All research is coordinated on the Fayetteville campus.

The College of Agriculture was established in 1892, and in 1914, the Department of Home Economics was transferred from the College of Education to the Agriculture School. Over the years, it has remained an integral part of the curriculum.

The student may choose from a large variety of major fields, and the degrees offered include B.S.A. and B.S.H.E. Dr. Gerald T. Hudson is serving his first year as dean of the college, replacing Dr. Lippert S. Ellis.

College of Business Administration

Business Administration — A training in economics.

With its purpose of educating young men and women for positions of leadership and responsibility in adult life, the College of Business Administration is one of the fastest growing schools at the University.

It has been a member of The American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business since 1931, and became a fully accredited college with a four year course in 1937. The college offers some fifty different courses from which a student may choose his curriculum, leading to any of three degrees.

An outstanding feature of the Business School is its elaborate program of student participation in governing student activities of the college.

The focal point of all Business School activities is the office of Dean Paul W. Milam. A native of Arkansas, Dean Milam has been serving as Dean of Business Administration since 1944.

Dr. M. G. Bridenstine directs a long range research program called the Bureau of Business and Economic Research, which publishes a quarterly bulletin on business conditions in Arkansas.

Peabody Hall — A practice in educating.

College of Education

Training in education and the application of that training are the keystones of the College of Education. Students enrolled in this college not only receive instruction in the latest methods of teaching, but they also are allowed to employ these methods in a grade school and high school on the campus known as Peabody Hall.

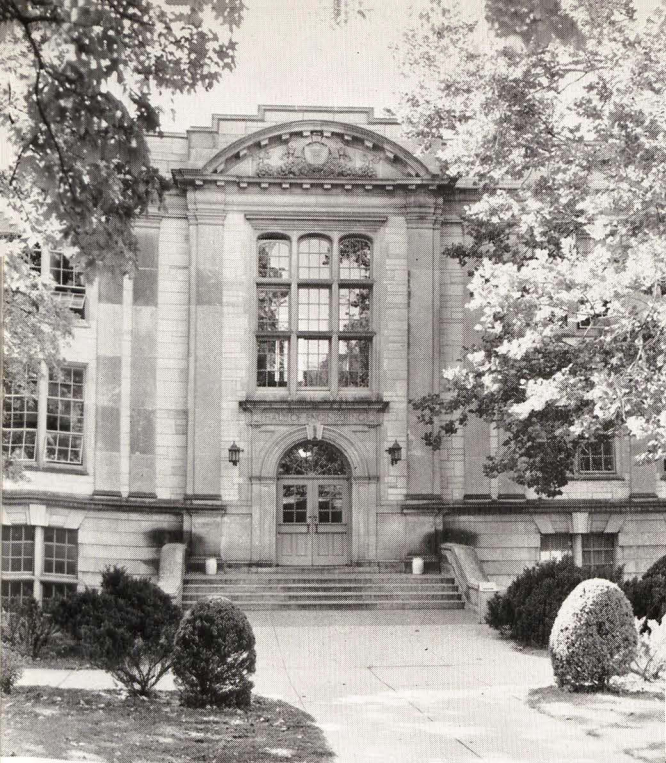

Teacher training is offered in the fields of elementary and secondary education, physical education, and vocational education. Specialization courses may be obtained in almost any field, and students in other colleges may acquire the credits necessary for a Teacher's Certificate.

The Teacher's Placement Bureau assists the students in obtaining future positions. The College of Education was established in 1916 and since 1935, has functioned under the supervision of Dr. Henry H. Kronenberg.

Kindergarten student Lynn Moncrief acts out a story of Norway for teacher Catherine McHugh as practice teacher Anne Jarvis observes.

Engine Building — Mechanism comprehension center.

Probably the greatest standing campus controversy is whether or not the College of Engineering has the most difficult curriculum. Be that as it may, the graduates of the College are annually given the rush by personnel directors representing major engineering firms whose business is to appraise engineers.

Degrees are available in six different fields of engineering: chemical, civil, electrical, agricultural, industrial, and mechanical. A graduating engineer receives a degree as a Bachelor of Science.

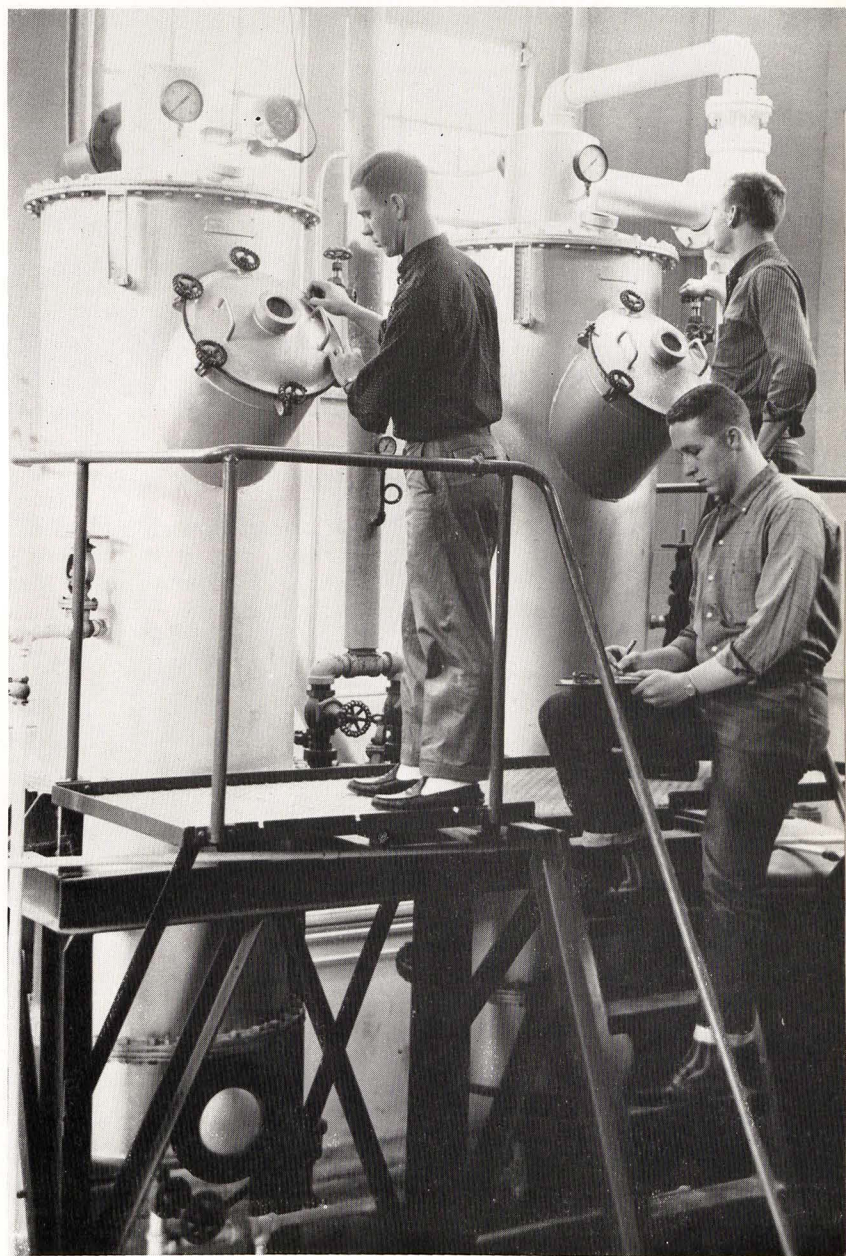

The College of Engineering at present occupies two buildings, the Engineering Building and the West Avenue Annex. The Annex, received as a gift last year from the City of Fayetteville, houses the drawing classes and the Industrial Engineering senior projects laboratories.

The Engineering Experiment Station, which does research on highway projects in connection with the State Highway Department, is also located on the campus and comes under the jurisdiction of the College of Engineering.

Old Main — Specialization by higher education.

Graduate School

Students wishing to further their education after graduation from college can do so under the auspices of the University Graduate School. Its focal point is the historic landmark, Old Main, but it spreads into what is perhaps the most diversified college on the campus.

Under the supervision of Dean Virgil Adkisson, it offers degrees in nearly fifty different fields. Most of the graduate work is done in science, but there are many other areas including drama, literature, music, and education.

Interest and expansion are cited with the extension of the Ph.D. program with special emphasis on literature and the new Graduate Institute of Technology in Little Rock. This new unit occupies a part of the old site of the Medical School, and was provided for by a $6,000,000 appropriation by the State Legislature.

On the Fayetteville campus, new scientific equipment will make possible a more advanced graduate science program.

Department Head Kessel Schwartz jokes with Spanish grad students Bette Drewry, Barbara Graham, and Diane Dodson before class meeting.

Waterman Hall — Legality in question night and day.

Since the University of Arkansas School of Law was established in 1924, it has been growing steadily in prestige as well as enrollment. In 1953, the School moved from the present Psychology Building into spacious, modern Waterman Hall.

This building was designed specifically for the needs of law students with provisions for the expected increase in enrollment of the school. Noted for its quiet, studious atmosphere, the law library contains over 35,000 volumes.

The Law School follows the standards of legal education prescribed by the American Bar Association, and since 1927 has been a fully accredited member of the Association of American Law Schools.

Its entire program is directed by Ralph Clayton Barnhart, who assumed the position of Dean and Professor of Law in 1958, having been an instructor at the University for the preceding thirteen years.

Dr. F. Douglas Lawrason

As provost of Medical Affairs, Dr. Lawrason is in charge of all the Medical School activity.

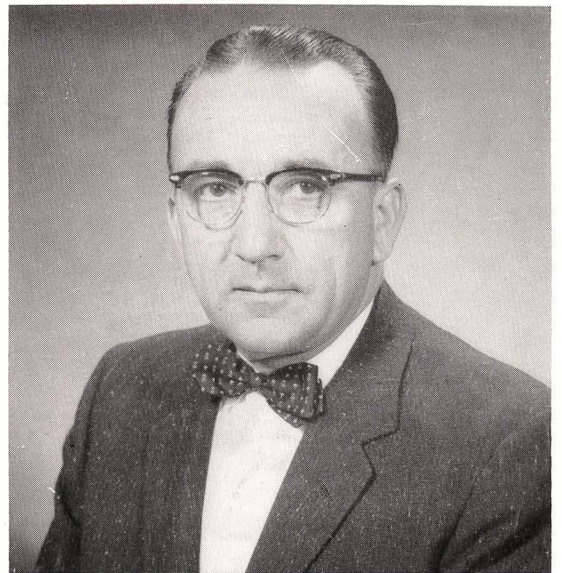

Medicine, Pharmacy, and Nursing

Ranked among the most modern medical institutions in the nation, the University Medical Center represents one of the outstanding features of the University of Arkansas. The Med Center, dedicated in 1957, was constructed at a cost of more than fourteen million dollars. Recently, a new dormitory was completed to house the ever-increasing number of medical students.

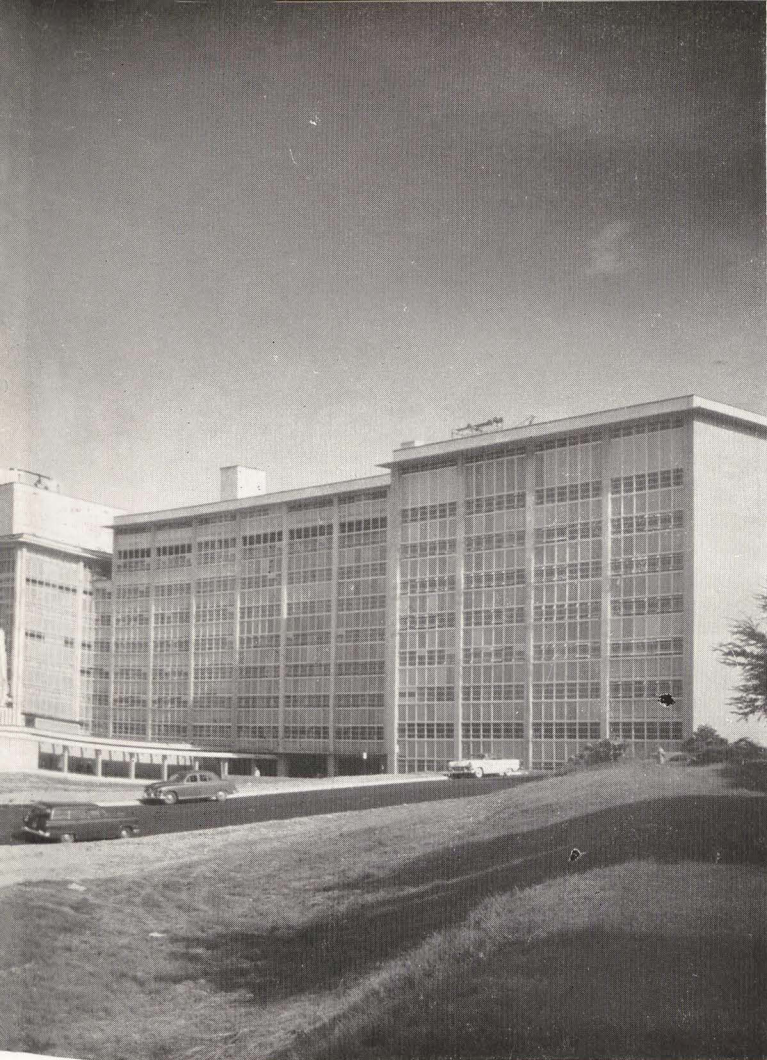

The entire program of the Center is under the guidance of Dr. F. Douglas Lawrason, who is the University's Provost for Medical Affairs. The medical program includes the School of Pharmacy, which is headed by Dean Stanley G. Mittelstaedt, and is the smallest college in the University. The School of Nursing, which is directed by Dean Julia Miller, was opened in 1952. During the past five years it has featured a split curriculum of two years training at Fayetteville and two years in Little Rock.

Diagnostical situations as well as laboratory work are provided for the medical students, since many people come to the Center for medical attention. In this way, the students receive not only detailed classroom instruction in their prospective fields, but also obtain a great deal of experience in the application of this knowledge.

Dean Stanley G. Mittelstaedt

In his role as Dean of the Pharmacy School, Dean Mittelstaedt directs all of the functions of the School.

Division of Student Affairs

The Division of Student Affairs is a composite of the offices of the Dean of Students, the Associate Dean of Students, and the Dean of Women.

The personnel of the Division of Student Affairs attempt to coordinate the activities of the students with the activities of the University as a whole. They are also responsible for keeping track of the status and progress of the students and relating the information to the student's parents and other interested persons. The Division supervises the Student Counseling Service, Infirmary, Food Services, Student Union, Book Store, Placement Office, Financial Aid and Part-time employment. They also work with all student organizations.

The offices are located in the Student Union with the exception of the Housing Office, which occupies Razorback Annex.

The Housing office is responsible for finding accommodations for all women students and for recording the residences of men students at the University.

Dean Eleanor Tyler

In her capacity as Dean of Women, Dean Tyler directs and coordinates all phases of the co-ed campus activity.

Dean D. Whitney Halladay

For the past four years, Dean Halladay has served as director of the Division of Student Affairs, which supervises student activity. An Army Reserve Lt. Colonel, he participates actively in Fayetteville as well as campus affairs.

Dean Grace Vineyard

Assistant Women's Dean Vineyard assists in all phases of program, but concentrates on freshmen.

Dean James Scott

As assistant Dean of Men, Dean Scott is concerned with fraternities, international students, and student counseling program.

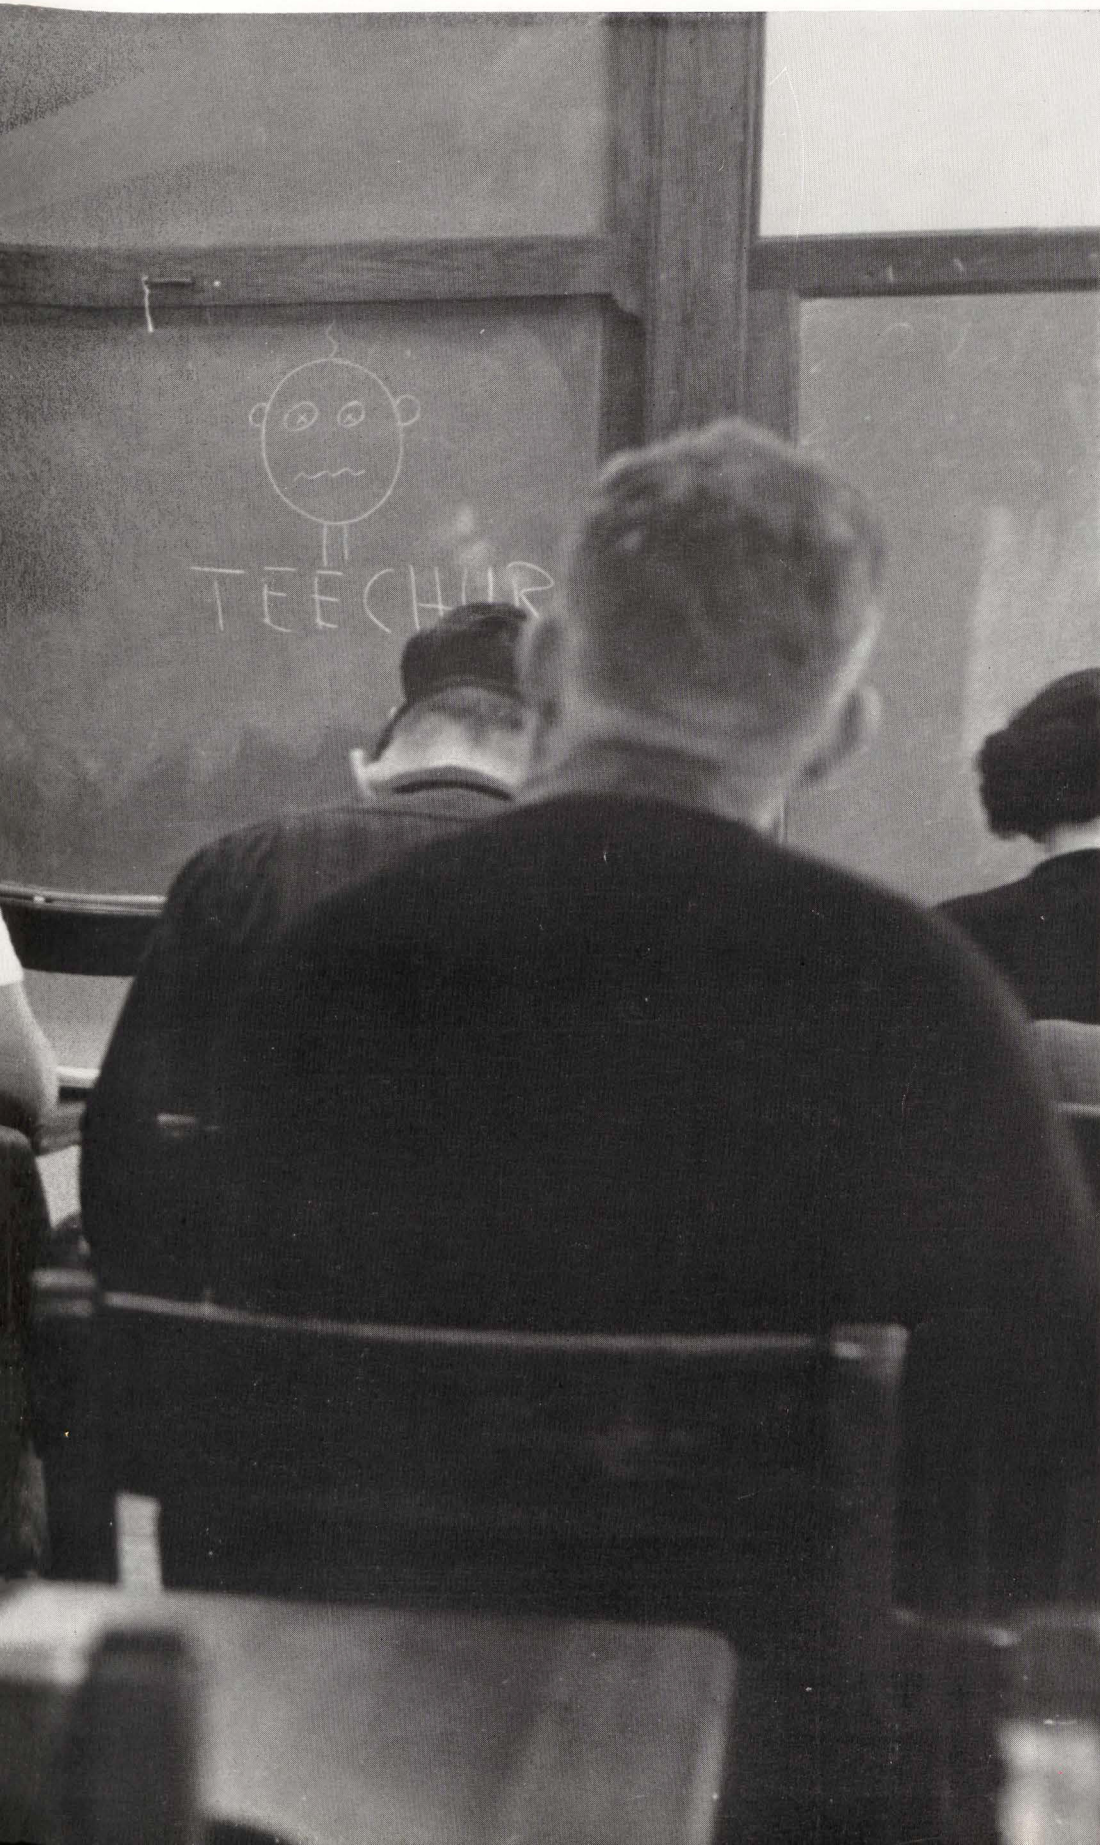

Deans Halladay and Tyler chat with new students during Orientation get-together in the Student Union in an attempt to get to know the students, help work out problems or answer questions the student may have about University.

Democracy With A Student Twist

Student government has long been a center of student interest and activity. Beginning with concerted efforts of the candidates in the Spring campaigns, the administration of student affairs by the students begins to evolve.

The Executive Officers, the Student Senate, and the Student Court fulfill the alleged balance of power in the functions of student government. However, the great majority of governmental activity is concentrated in the Senate, where legislative action in such areas as organizations, student entertainment, and student-faculty relations evidences the efforts of the Senators.

The Student Court, although relatively new in service, has already established a reputation for competence and objectivity in the consideration of student disciplinary measures.

Prosecution cross-examines student Sonny Ekdahl on a traffic violation case held in Student Court. Student Justices heard case and returned a verdict of guilty, but lowered the amount of the fine involved. Ekdahl, with lawyers George Plaster and Jerry Childs, appealed case from University Traffic Bureau to the Court.

Enthusiasm Channelled Into A Winning Season

The journalistic and verbal applause pointing out the wonderful spirit of the students and fans at Razorback contests emphasized the energetic activities of the University cheerleaders. School spirit and pride in the University of Arkansas are both a vital part of the educational growth experienced by college students. And the realization of this ephemeral quality called school spirit is the aim of this dedicated group.

Throughout a year characterized many times by hard work, exhausting practices, sore throats, and long trips, the cheerleaders set the example for spirited support with their abundant enthusiasm.

Cheering the Co-Champion Razorback football team in a season of considerable success might at first glance seem to be an easy job, but upon second thought one remembers the several occasions when the Hogs had to come from behind to take a close victory. The success with which the cheerleaders rallied the fans behind the team in these crucial moments cannot be forgotten either.

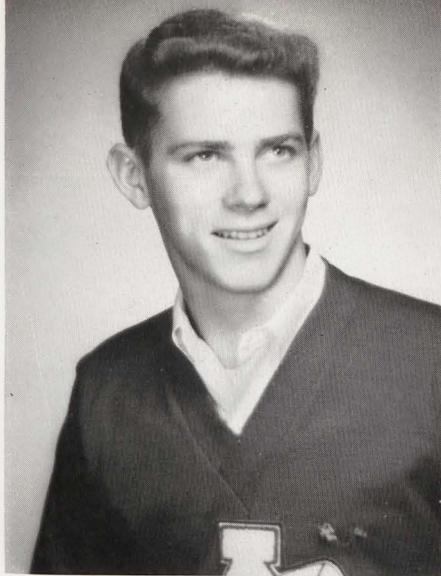

The accomplishments of these eight students in the field of leadership have been truly outstanding, for they have provided the guidance and inspiration to the student body that is necessary for a university to enjoy such a successful and spirited year.

Riding to the next cheering point, cheerleaders prepare to lead Homecoming visitors in 'calling the Hogs'.

Preceding the Texas Tech game in Little Rock, cheerleaders and band members lead second rally of the day at the Riverdale Country Club.

Maid of Cotton Finalist

Mary Jane Melton

Of over 400 entrants in the Maid of Cotton Contest, Mary Jane Melton, representing the State of Arkansas, was selected as one of the ten finalists in the annual pageant at Memphis.

Representatives from the 17 cotton growing states participated in the contest seeking the title to represent the cotton industry throughout the world.

Mary Jane is a junior Arts and Science student from Jonesboro. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority and is currently serving as President of the Association of Women Students at the University.

Razorback Beauty Photographer Bob Huff of Bob's of Fayetteville discusses the type of poses desired with the 1960 Razorback Beauties.

Cummings Selects Razorback Beauties

Movie and television star Bob Cummings selected the 1960 Razorback Beauties from photographs from his studio in Hollywood.

Each organized house on the University campus selected two candidates for the 1960 Razorback Beauty contest. Full length unretouched pictures of each girl were then sent to noted television star Bob Cummings for the selection of the beauties.

The announcement of the Beauties was to be made at intermission of the Porker Party by Kai Winding, but due to a contract mix-up, Winding was on the continent of Europe. John Tolleson and his rock and roll group substituted for Kai and the six beauties were announced.

Co-beauty editors Barbara Barnes and Jeanette Adams directed and planned the entire beauty section of the yearbook. Several new changes and styles were initiated by the beauty editors for the 1960 Razorback, including the Montage style of photography for the Razorback Beauties and Miss Arkansas and Miss University of Arkansas.

The beauties selected by Cummings are Janet Jerome, Delta Delta Delta; Millie Rowland, Chi Omega; Janet Grohoski, Fulbright Hall; Nora Carlson, Fulbright Hall; Layla Beth Miller, Off-Campus Women; and Nancy Lucas, Holcombe Hall.

ATHLETICS

John Barnhill

Barnhill came to the University in 1946 as a coach and since 1949, as Director of Athletics, has been responsible for the tremendous expansion of the entire Razorback athletic plant. His ability and determination have put the University among the nation's leaders in athletics.

U of A Athletic Program Directors

Glen Rose

Rose completed his seventeenth year as Arkansas basketball coach. The dean of Southwest coaches, he is respected throughout the basketball world.

Frank Broyles

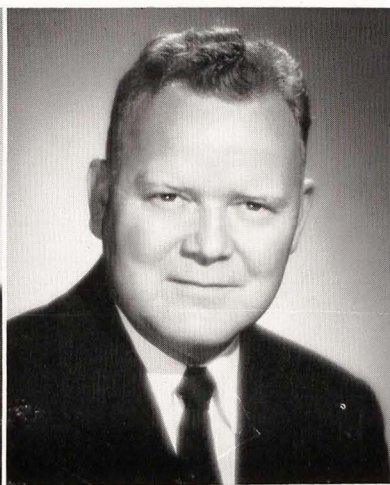

Broyles finished his second year as leader of Razorback football. One of the youngest coaches in the nation, he holds respect of the profession.

A Cinderella Story

It started with Tulsa and ended with Georgia Tech. Arkansas' Cinderella team of tough, lean Hogs did what could be called the impossible, according to pre-season predictions. Outweighed and outnumbered in every position, Coach Frank Broyles' Razorbacks hit and hit hard.

After a skeptical start against non-conference foes, Tulsa and Oklahoma State, Arkansas' multiple offense climbed to national recognition quickly and convincingly. The Dad's Day crowd watched Freddy Aker's field goal beat TCU in the rain. Then came the win over Baylor. Even after losing to highranked Texas their rating improved, then fell with the defeat by Ole Miss. Homecoming saw Texas A&M outpunched by the rebounding Razorbacks. Billy Kyser came off the bench to help beat Rice. Some 5000 Arkansas fans made the trip to Dallas for the SMU game and saw Alworth and company cinch a share of the SWC crown. Texas Tech was just another victim of the Razorback attack.

Arkansas had its share of individual honors. Jim Mooty was chosen 'All-American', All-SWC, and received the Crip Hall Homecoming Award. He played for the South in the annual Senior Bowl game. Wayne Harris was everybody's choice for center in the SWC, and every first unit Porker was included in one of the first three conference teams.

The Big Red unit usually started with Steve Butler and Bill Trantum at ends, Marlin Epp and Jim Hollander at tackles, Bill Luplow and Gerald Gardner at guards, Wayne Harris at center, Jim Monroe at quarterback, Jim Mooty and Lance Alworth at halfbacks, and Joe Paul Alberty at fullback.

Lance Alworth stole the limelight from SMU's Don Meredith with his spectacular performance against the Ponies. The Brookhaven, Mississippi, sophomore ran for 131 yards to beat SMU and cinch a share of the SWC crown for Arkansas. Bill Tranum (83) provides blocking for one of the long gains that brought the 'Back of the Week' honor to Alworth.

Steve Butler outsteps a would be Texas Tech tackler after catching a Monroe pass. The Hogs rolled up 420 yards beating Tech 27-8.

Frank Broyles dispelled any contract-jumping rumors when he signed a new pact calling for another salary boost. Athletic Director John Barnhill and Acting President Storm Whaley witness the head coach's signature.

Jim Mooty

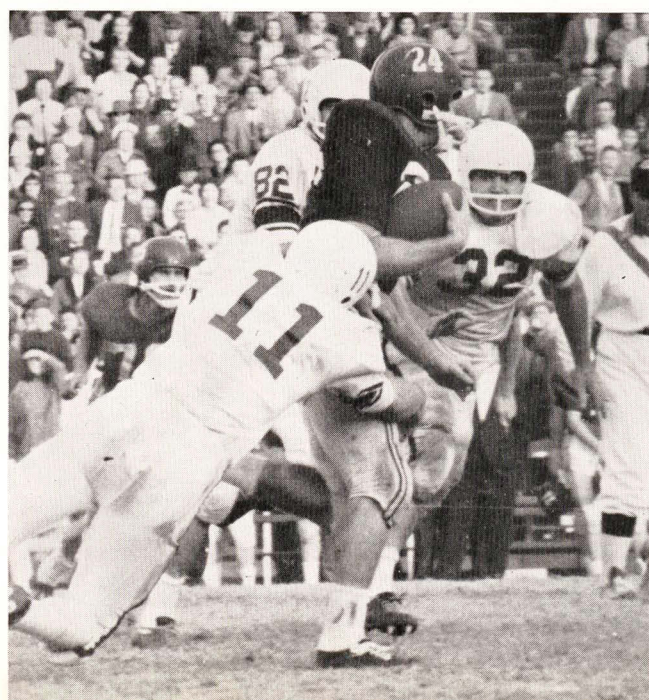

All-American
All-Southwest

Living up to more than pre-season expectations, left halfback Jim Mooty from El Dorado was chosen as the best there is in College football — All American. For the Razorbacks, he did everything. Not since the days of Clyde Scott have fans risen to their feet each play, expecting the rugged, Mooty-style type of running, and they usually saw it.

Mooty led the Porkers in total rushing, gaining 539 yards on 93 plays despite a leg injury that kept him on the sidelines with limited action for three games. Other than being a top kickoff return man, he caught passes and returned punts, being among the leaders in each department. He scored 30 points with five touchdowns. Also, Mooty was an excellent defensive halfback.

His best ballgame could well have been Homecoming. After his fine performance, he was named 'Back of the Week,' and was given the 'Crip Hall Homecoming Award.'

Mooty's rugged running against Texas A&M was typical of play that brought him All-American honors.

Wayne Harris

All-Southwest

Harris' quick pursuit and hard tackling against SMU was a sample of his brilliant season's play.

Throughout the stadium on any given Saturday there wasn't a doubt that Wayne Harris couldn't hit as hard, or harder, than anyone on the field. In fact, he hit so hard that you could hear it up in 'the nickel seats.' Because of his comparatively small size and desire for rough contact, he was affectionately called 'The Thumper.'

Harris led the Champion Razorbacks each game on defense — his specialty. Playing middle linebacker, he was in on more tackles than any other player on the field, and was the Porkers' leader in pass interceptions. His defensive play being more outstanding, nevertheless he was an excellent offensive center and blocker, playing with the same determination and skill as with Mackenzie's Raiders, the Razorback defensive units.

'Sports Illustrated' summed up Harris' play in that Harris was the hardest hitting lineman in the 'SWC.'

As the Razorback story had been all year, the Hogs were again underdogs. Never had such a light but fast team thrilled a crowd — ever expecting the spectacular play which had become a Razorback trademark.

The entire first quarter was Georgia Tech's. Arkansas ran one series of downs and kicked, being unable to move the ball. Tech scored on quarterback Tibbett's option, keeping the ball for 51 yards and the go ahead score. Trailing 7-0, the Hogs swapped kicks and then started to move. Jim Monroe, his tattered jersey flapping in the breeze, engineered the drive while the Big Red line cleared the way. Alberty crashed over from the one and Akers' kick was good to tie the score at halftime.

In the third quarter, the Razorbacks were again on the move. Jim Mooty showed his speed and determination by picking up most of the yardage. Arkansas' All-American halfback burst through the Tech defenders at the Engineer's 19 yard line and spun and twisted his way for the score. Akers' conversion was again good, putting the Hogs ahead to stay.

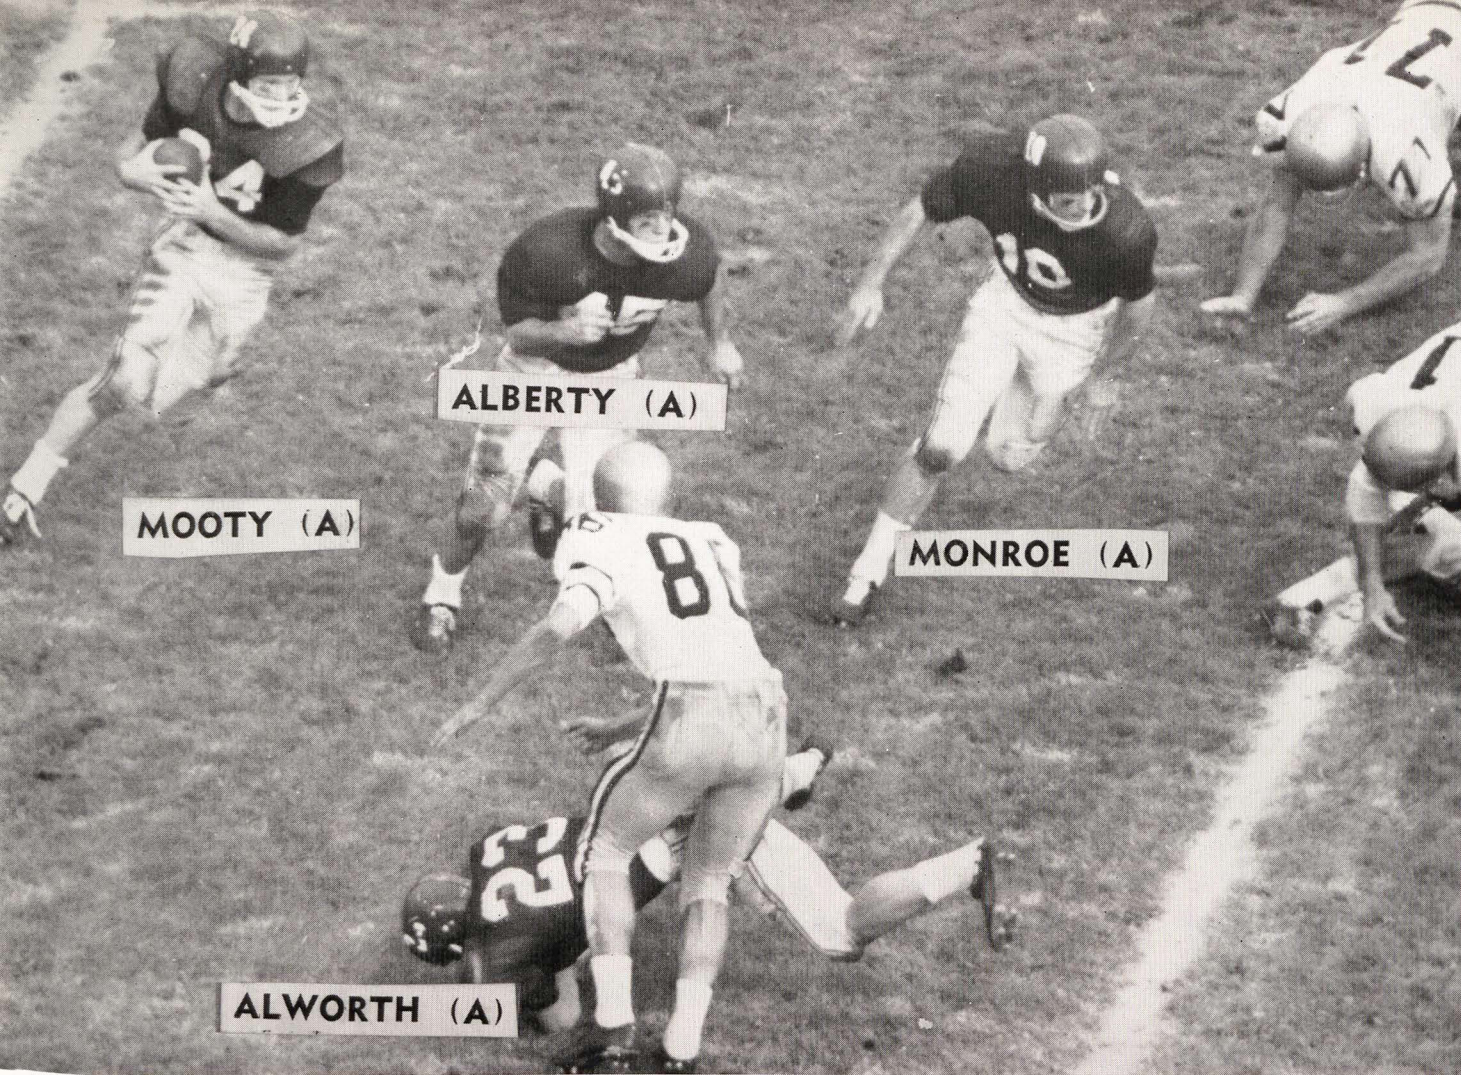

Spectacular defensive play from linebackers Gardner and Harris combined with the entire Razorback team highlighted the rest of the game. With Tech filling the air with desperation passes the clock ran out and the Hogs had their first Gator Bowl victory. Mooty was the leading ground gainer with 99 yards and was named the game's outstanding player.

It was a perfect ending for the ninth ranked team in the nation.

Arkansas' 'Big Red' and 'Wild Hog' units hit with enthusiasm as they brought victory to the Razorbacks and extended their winning streak from last year to five in a row. Coach Frank Broyles' multiple offense was never better. Jarring tackles caused the Golden Hurricane to lose the ball six times on fumbles.

Arkansas made its first three touchdowns on drives of 59, 44 and 28 yards as a result of Tulsa's miscues. A Monroe to Butler pass gave the Hogs their third touchdown. All-Southwest Conference halfback Jim Mooty scored once on a 10 yard run and set up blocks for Monroe's two touchdowns. Monroe legged the ball around left end for 16 yards and the final Razorback score.

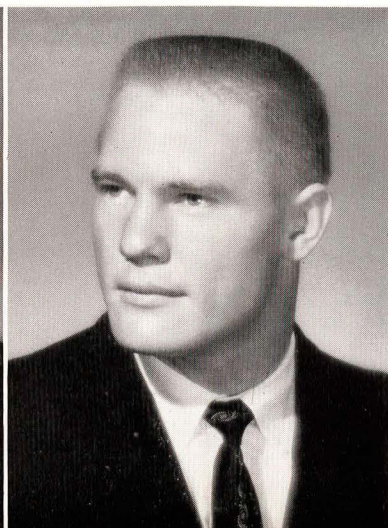

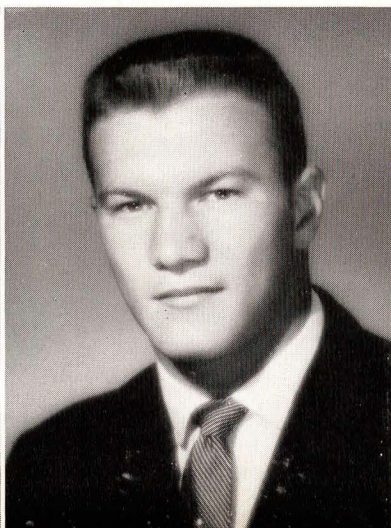

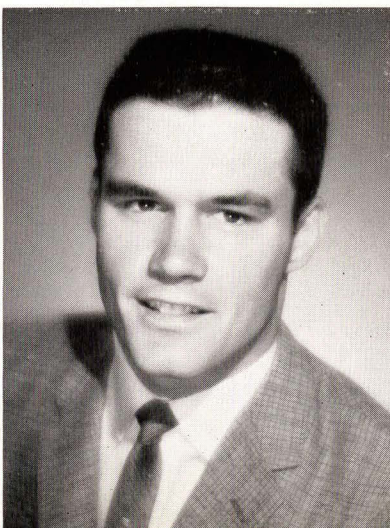

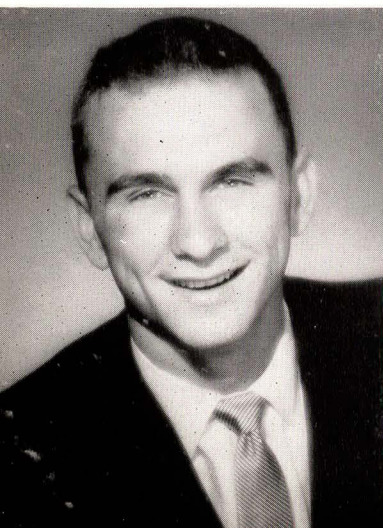

Freddy Akers' place kicking added to the brilliant start toward national recognition for the Hogs. Mooty was the big yardage-maker of the day, carrying for 96 yards while Monroe carried 10 times for 47 yards. Arkansas' sensational sophomore halfback Lance Alworth's booming kicks of 76, 69, and 49 yards constantly kept Tulsa in the hole. After the game, Coach Broyles said, 'I think the people of Arkansas will be very proud of the Razorbacks on many other occasions. We won't be embarrassed this year.' This was only the beginning.

Arkansas 13 - Oklahoma State 7

Oklahoma State furnished the final tune-up for conference play with sophomore brilliance scattered all over the field. Big Red fullback Curtis Cox and halfback Darrell Williams put the Razorbacks in the lead and Lance Alworth again kept the Hogs out of trouble with his kicking. Oklahoma State was a threat several times but the hard hitting and spectacular defensive play of Arkansas linemen and linebackers made the difference.

Cox carried eight times for 43 yards on the 74 yard sustained drive that brought the Razorbacks' first score. Extra point specialist Freddy Akers converted and the score stood 7-0. Alworth took an OSU kick and returned it 44 yards to the State 36 yard line. Fullback Paul Dudley's block and Williams' carry eight plays later gave the Hogs a 13-0 lead in the first half — and then the rains came.

The second half seemed more like a mud-fight and the heavier OSU line pushed the light but fast Razorbacks back for their lone score. Oklahoma State was on the move again in the fourth period but a timely recovery by Jim Mooty on the Arkansas 22 ended the threat. Guard Bill Luplow and center Wayne Harris made outstanding defensive plays, and Mooty was again the big ground-gainer picking up 65 yards on nine tries.

Arkansas 3 - Texas Christian 0

Outweighed and outmanned, but not outhit, the Razorbacks waded into the defending Southwest Conference champion Horned Frogs like it was a Tuesday practice session. Constant rain and a wet field kept excessive ball handling down to a minimum. Halfback Darrell Williams, who replaced Lance Alworth in the second unit backfield to give Lance a chance to run and kick with the Big Red unit, was the leading ball carrier with 45 yards on five carries.

Four plays after the second period started, specialist Freddy Akers kicked the field goal that accounted for the only score in the game. From then on it was a defensive effort as the Razorbacks gained a net 56 yards in the last half. Three TCU fumbles were stolen by Hog defensive units, dubbed 'Mackenzie's Raiders', while Alworth gave his best kicking performance of the year, despite a six yard out of bounds boot, averaging 39 yards per try.

With less than four minutes left in the game, Wayne Harris picked off a Froggie pass deflected by Gerald Gardner — seeming to be TCU's last hope. The partisan crowd of 20,000 stood in the relentless rain as Jim Monroe ran out the remaining seconds on quarterback sneaks, as the Porker fans counted off the last 30 seconds of the game in unison.

The Hog line digs in for Freddy Akers' winning field goal as Jim Monroe (10) holds.

Letsinger (88), Akers (17), Epp (79), Hollander (72), and Harris (55) converge on a Bear back in the rugged manner of Hog defensive plays.

Arkansas 23 - Baylor 7

Playing against a 20 minute 7-0 Baylor lead, Arkansas got its first break of the game when Mooty quick-kicked to the Bear one yard line. Mooty returned a weak Baylor first down kick to the Bears' 21 yard line — then later carried the last six yards for the first Razorback touchdown. Freddy Akers' conversion tied the score at halftime.

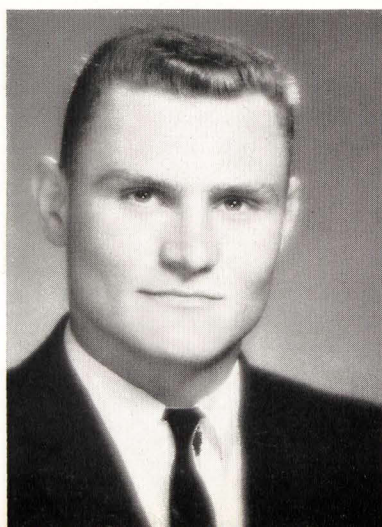

Mooty returned an intercepted pass 37 yards in the third quarter and Akers kicked a fourth down field goal, good for 27 yards and putting the Porkers ahead to stay. A fumble recovery by Billy Gramlich set up the next Razorback score. A George McKinney pass was tipped and deflected by a Baylor defender to intended receiver Les Letsinger who sprinted the remaining 28 yards for the touchdown. The final Arkansas score came on a 34 yard drive started by Letsinger's fumble recovery after end Steve Butler dumped the Baylor passer. The Big Red ground out the yardage and Jim Mooty slammed over from one yard out.

Once again Arkansas scores came as a result of fumble recoveries caused by the same rugged style of defensive play of Mackenzie's Raiders. Baylor tried to play the Razorback style of football, and almost succeeded. By winning the contest, the Hogs were a threat to all teams to come — being ranked Number 12 in the nation.

Playing the roll of Baylor the week before, the Porkers led in every department except scoring. On the second play from scrimmage, a Texas fumble was recovered by tackle Marlin Epp on the 24. Cox, Monroe, and Mooty brought the ball to the five and on third down Monroe hit Butler with a perfect pass in the endzone for the score. Akers' kick was wide, but still the Hogs were in the lead.

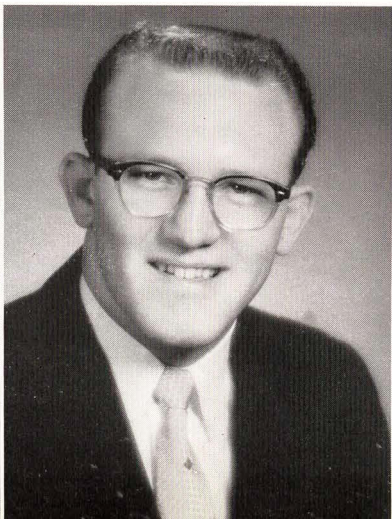

Texas showed its power and speed by bringing the ball to the Arkansas 18 yard line, but there the Big Red dug in, taking over on downs. An anticipated quick-kick by Akers was returned to the Porker 40 and again Texas put on the pressure. The Hogs were tough, but the Longhorn attack was persistent. After holding for two downs on the one yard line, the Porkers had their third touch-down of the year scored on them. Texas recovered an Arkansas fumble deep in Arkansas territory, but again was held on fourth down.

Both teams swapped kicks, fumbles, and passes but neither could muster a scoring threat until Arkansas drove the ball for 89 yards, climaxed by Monroe's tally from the three. Texas received its big break when Alworth fumbled a Longhorn kick on the Hogs' 31. A pass in the first part of the fourth period accounted for the winning points.

Arkansas 0 - Ole Miss 28

A tough Mississippi line and a transplanted Arkansan named Charlie Flowers who scored two TD's were too much for the Razorbacks as Ole Miss ran rough-shod over the Hogs, 28-0. The Rebels were primed for this one. After suffering more than their share of upsets in this rivalry they were not to be denied. Arkansas was over-anxious and several penalties caused by this prevented them from moving the ball.

The first period was surprisingly tight, almost to the advantage of Arkansas, but the Rebels finally found a big passing play and scored from the one as the quarter ended. This seemed to break the ice for Ole Miss and spelled doom for the Hogs. The charges of Frank Broyles punted badly and the dam broke. The Rebels came roaring back to score again in six plays.

Too eager to get back into the game, the Porkers tried a passing game which fizzled with a Mississippi interception and a third fast score. By halftime it was 21-0. Poor field position and another poor kick gave the Rebels still another opportunity in the third period and they quickly racked up the fourth TD. The Wild Hogs moved 90 yards late in the game, but were prevented from scoring by the first string Rebel line as the game ended. A sad disappointment, but the Hogs were to bounce back.

Flowers scores despite McKinney's back-breaking effort. Cox (31), Luplow (65) add support.

Arkansas 12 - Texas A&M 7

What looked like a frustrating afternoon turned out for the best as a wild bunch of Hogs followed on the swift heels of halfback Jim Mooty for a 12-7 Homecoming victory over Texas A&M before 30,000 fans. Fighting against a defensively tough Aggie line the Porker backs moved for 183 yards in the first half only to see three fumbles and two pass interceptions stop each attack. The teams went to the half houses with a scoreless tie.

The Aggies took the third quarter kickoff and marched 62 yards on field general Charlie Milstead's passing to go ahead, 7-0, only four minutes deep in the quarter. The Razorbacks responded in true championship form. Soph Lance Alworth raced 51 yards down the sidelines with the opening kickoff. On the first play from scrimmage George McKinney, subbing for the injured Jim Monroe, handed off to Mooty who flew for 38 yards leaving only eight yards for the TD. Mooty made these easily, but Akers missed the point after, leaving the score 7-6.

Again the Porkers moved the length of the field, but this time a field goal try was no good and time was becoming a factor. Mooty again provided the spark, capping his 112 yards rushing for the day with a burst of speed at the six yard line for the deciding touchdown.

Jim Mooty catapults the Aggie line for a first down and a portion of his 112 yards rushing.

Arkansas 14 - Rice 10

Playing without the services of injured Jim Monroe, Jim Mooty and Steve Butler, the Razorbacks had their work cut out as they invaded Houston against winless Rice, fired-up for an upset.

The Owls jumped off to a quick lead when quarterback Bill Bucek sprinted 74 yards for the opening touchdown. A 26 yard field goal in the middle of the second quarter to make the score 10-0 blackened the picture for the Hogs. As he had against Texas A&M, Lance Alworth took the kickoff and raced 40 yards. Wild Hog quarterback, George McKinney engineered a 57 yard drive in five plays, the big gainer being Billy Kyser's spectacular grab of an Alworth pass on the one yard line. McKinney scored the TD, Akers converted and the half ended with the score 10-7 in favor of the Owls.

Famous for their second half finishes, the Porkers came out strong as always. The fact that Mooty and Monroe were sidelined left much to be done, but Kyser and Alworth provided a thrilling combination. They gained 76 yards in an 80 yard drive to the Rice goal in the third period to put the Hogs on top. Again a 27 yard pass play from Alworth to Kyser was the big play with Kyser carrying over for the touchdown. The point after was good and Arkansas led, 14-10. The Hog line held Rice scoreless throughout the second half and the Hogs had win number six.

The Razorbacks moved into the Cotton Bowl against Southern Methodist University's spread needing a victory to keep their championship hopes alive. With Jim Mooty still on the injured list, Lance Alworth realized his finest day, rambling for 131 yards and scoring the winning points. The Hogs took the opening kickoff and moved 67 yards only to fumble on the SMU five yard line. Set for the Pony passing game, the Porkers saw Meredith guide a bruising Mustang ground game for 80 yards and the first score. The PAT was good and Arkansas trailed, 7-0.

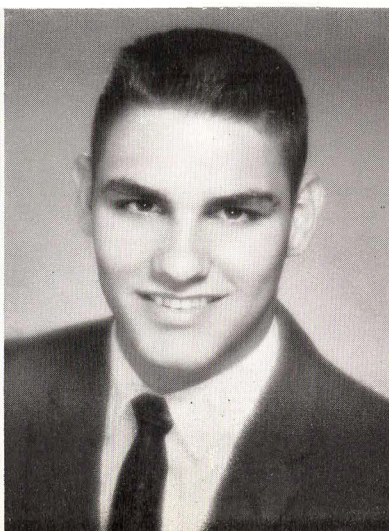

Under the brilliant leadership of Jim Monroe the Razorbacks marched downfield and scored when Alworth scampered around end for 13 yards. Akers converted and the score was knotted at 7-7. Going into their aerial spread the Mustangs moved downfield once again with Meredith passing for the go-ahead touchdown. Arkansas left 5000 shivering partisans worried as they trailed at the half, 14-7.

As had been the case all year, the Razorbacks came back a stronger team and played their finest half of football in '59. The winning TD came when Joe Paul Alberty picked his way for 24 yards and the score. Not satisfied with a tie, the Hogs gambled and sent Alworth catapulting across for the two points and the winning margin. Marlin Epp recovered a loose ball for a safety and the game ended with the Razorbacks holding a 17-14 edge and a share of the SWC title.

Arkansas 27 - Texas Tech 8

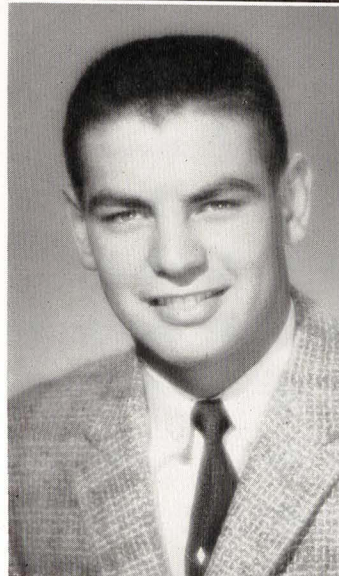

The Razorbacks finished their regular season's play against Texas Tech in War Memorial Stadium. The Hogs had signed to go to the Gator Bowl previous to the game, and it was indeed a bowl-bound performance that defeated the Red Raiders, 27-8. Before the game was 25 minutes old, the Porkers had a safe 21-0 lead. Jim Monroe executed a perfect pass play for 30 yards to Lance Alworth for the opening touchdown, and Freddy Akers booted the first of three extra points. Within a minute, Tech had fumbled and offered another opportunity. Jarrell Williams went wide on a reverse, cut back and sailed 31 yards for the second score.

With the score 14-0, the Raiders could do nothing against a fine defense and punted. The Wild Hogs went to work and marched 40 yards to send rugged Curtis Cox over from the five. The half ended, 21-0. It was again Cox, this time from the two, who scored for the Wild Hogs in the third quarter. With the score 27-0 the Thunderin' Third caught all of the fourth quarter action. The Raiders scored once, on a 58 yard pass play, and ran for the PAT.

A balanced Razorback attack hit its offensive high with 420 yards. All-American Jim Mooty entered the game after Williams' injury and led all rushers with 66 yards to pass the 1000 yard mark for his career.

Clyde Rhoden

All-Southwest

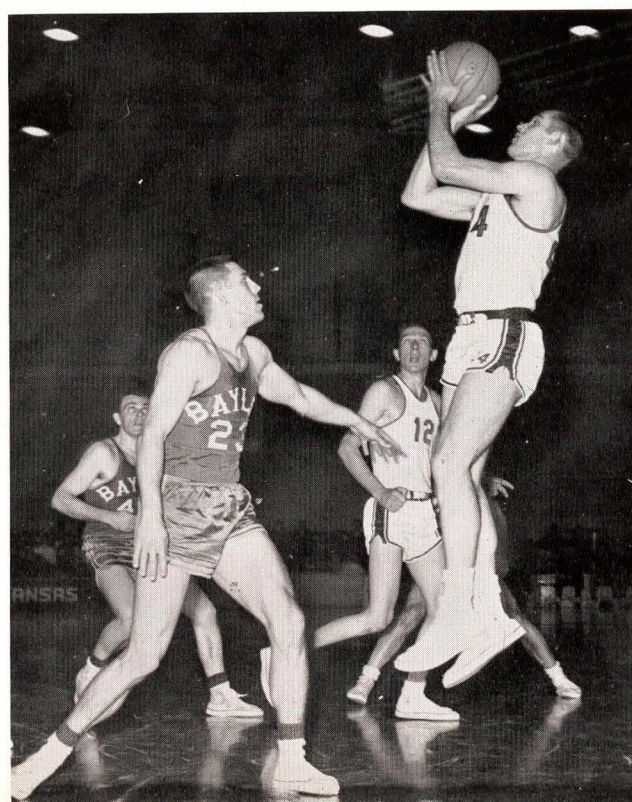

With the close of the 1959-60 basketball season co-captain Clyde Rhoden, Hot Springs junior, became the 47th Razorback to be named All-Southwest Conference.

With one year left to play Clyde has already become one of the outstanding players in this part of the country. His unorthodox style of shooting and aggressive brand of play has made him a favorite of fans and writers alike.

In the next to last game of the season Rhoden broke Freddy Grim's record for the most points made in conference play by an Arkansas player and went ahead to score 258 conference points, second in the league. With only a moderate season next year he stands to break Arkansas' three year conference scoring mark.

Following the season's end Rhoden received an honor seldom accorded to a Razorback athlete, that of being voted by his teammates to repeat as co-captain of the 1960-61 basketball team.

Typical fall-away jump shot of Rhoden nets him two of his seventeen points against the Baylor Bears.

Ronnie Garner fights for a loose ball as Alan Morrison moves in under the Missouri basket, but a leaping grab by a Tiger player gives Missouri a scoring chance as they defeated the Razorbacks, 75-71, in the first home game for the Hog cagers.

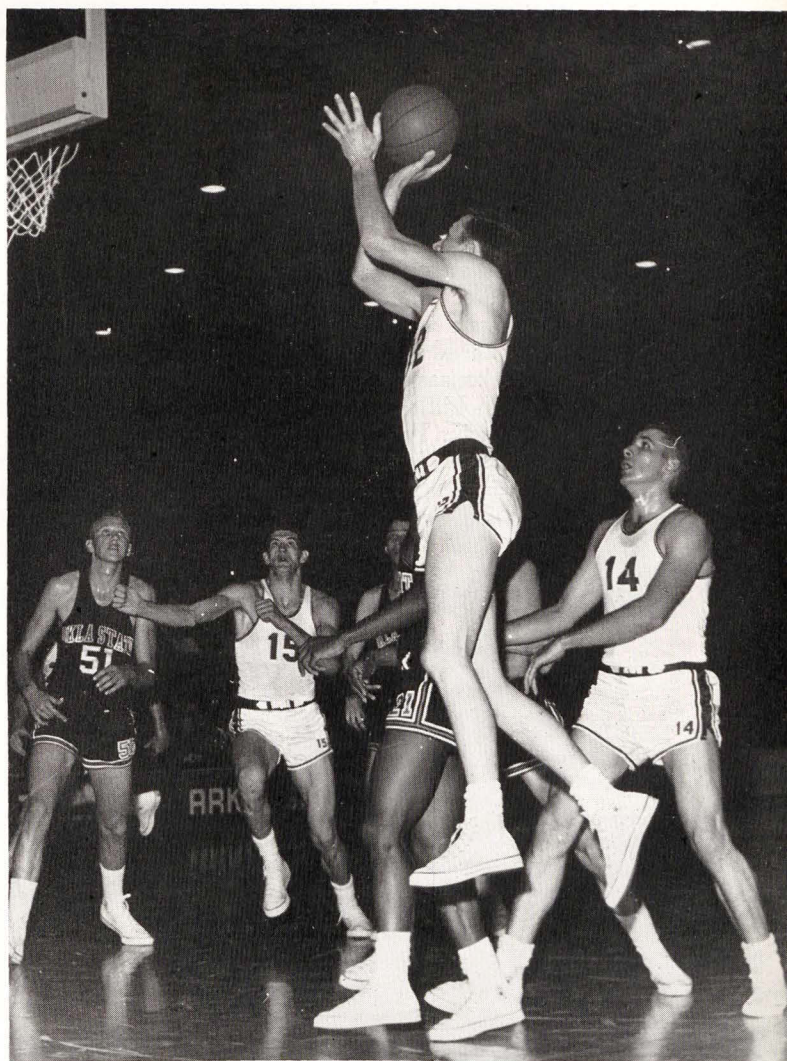

Basketball

Arkansas opened away from home against the semi-pro Phillips Oilers. After fighting a determined battle for most of the game the Porkers faltered in the last five minutes and lost in a close thrilling game. After trailing 44-34 at halftime the Hogs came back strong, however, the strength of the experienced 66'ers was too much in the final minutes and they prevailed 79-76. It was evident that a lack of speed and physical strength would be the two main roadblocks in the Razorbacks' drive for victory. Rose finally settled on a quintet of Rhoden, Foster, Garner, Morrison and Carlton as his usual starters.

The Tigers of Missouri provided the opposition for Arkansas' first home game and marred the opener with a 75-71 victory. It was a case of too much offense on the part of the Tigers. Missouri hit the bucket for a 50% scoring average. For Arkansas Garner and Foster were the high scorers with 22 points each.

Arkansas continued its three game home stand against Oklahoma State, usually one of the nation's best, and eked out a 54-50 victory in a low scoring game. This was the first win that Hog cagers had registered over the Cowboys in 15 years. The Porkers led most of the way and left at the half in possession of a 35-29 lead. However, the quintet from State came back to within a point near the end of the game. It was Foster who hit a long jump shot to put the Hogs safely into the lead. For the Porkers Foster led the scoring with 12 points, followed by Morrison with 10.

The Razorbacks breezed to their second win of the season by calming the Tulsa Hurricane, 65-51. Foster led the Porker attack with 16 points followed by Loyd Jones who came off the bench to hit for 12. Neither team could hit consistently, but the Hogs' rebounding ability kept them ahead most of the way.

Arkansas opened a two-game road trip against Ole Miss in Little Rock and the sharp Rebel offense took a 78-63 win. The Razorbacks trailed by only one, 37-36, at halftime, but the ability of the Rebels to hit from outside forced the Hogs out of their preferred zone defense and then went on a 41-point splurge in the second half. Foster netted 24 points as the only bright spot of the evening.

The Razorbacks headed for Shreveport to tackle the Gents of Centenary in the month's final non-conference game in advance of the SWC Tournament. Clyde Rhoden found the range, and Foster and Garner played their usual high scoring games. This was by far the Porkers' best game to date as they won easily by a 75-55 score. The entire team saw action in an offensive show which saw the Razorbacks hit the net for 45% average from the field. Rhoden hit for 18 points as did Foster. They were followed by Garner with 15.

matters worse, Clyde Rhoden had been unable to regain his sophomore sparkle. Entering the tournament in Houston the Razorbacks were given little chance of playing a determining role, but quickly jumped into the role of darkhorse after the opening round of play. The two Hot Springs juniors, Garner and Rhoden, paced the Hogs to a 71-66 victory over Baylor. The Porkers, with a strong offense, came from a six-point deficit, 28-22, late in the first half to gain a 42-37 advantage by halftime. The score read 61-60 in the Hogs' favor with three minutes left and the Razorbacks went into a stall getting two easy buckets to put the game on ice. Garner scored 20 points to lead the scoring with Rhoden trailing him with 17.

Southern Methodist's thoroughbred Mustangs tried to stampede the Razorbacks in the second round of the tournament, but found it couldn't be done. The experienced Ponies had to dominate one 5-minute stretch to pull out a 67-55 victory. The overflow crowd gave the porkers a standing ovation as they left the floor. Garner zeroed in his hooking eye for 19 points followed by Foster with 10.

An emergency appendectomy cost the Razorbacks the services of high-scoring Pat Foster just before the Texas game, but they won third place with Rhoden leading an inspired second half comeback. Clyde hit 21 points and Arkansas won, 68-58. Garner and Carlton followed with 17 and 15 points.

The Razorbacks opened their conference season on a winning note in John Barnhill Fieldhouse, belting TCU, 74-60. It was the Porkers' sixth victory in ten outings. The Hogs only led by 33-30 at the half, but the speed added to the lineup by Coffman's replacing the ailing Foster held the Froggies in check while the Razorbacks romped through the second half. Rhoden scored 23 points followed by Garner with 19.

Arkansas and Baylor needed two overtime periods before the Razorbacks finally prevailed, 90-83. John Blasingame, 6-5 reserve, poked in a field goal with 35 seconds left to enable the Hogs to stretch their lead to three points and he then dropped in two free throws with 22 seconds left to put the Porkers out of reach. The game was close throughout as both teams were hot from the field. Rhoden continued on his hot streak, leading Porker scorers with 29 points, equaling his varsity high, followed by Garner and Carlton with 21 each.

Arkansas lost its leading scorer with four minutes to play and Texas handed the Hogs their first conference defeat, 72-66, in Austin. Rhoden who sparked a second-half Arkansas rally and totaled 22 points went to the bench with the score, 64-62 and the game was all Texas from there on out. The Porkers rallied gamely after spotting the Longhorns a 40-28 halftime lead. The Hogs' second-half scoring splurge erased the lead and tied the game at 60-60 just seconds before Rhoden fouled out. Garner and Carlton followed Rhoden with 15 points each.

The Razorbacks leaped back into the Southwest Conference lead with a convincing 74-63 victory over the Rice Owls in Fayetteville. The highlight of the slow type ball game was the continued brilliant work of the Hogs' Clyde Rhoden. He hit 24 for the evening and broadened his lead in total points scored in the conference. The Porkers had the game under control midway of the first half and led at halftime, 36-28. Rhoden was followed in the scoring column by Carlton with 15 points.

pleated. Skippy Coffman and Ora Lee Boss were lost because of academic reasons. Jay Dickey contacted a case of polio and was told that he could never return to active basketball.

Arkansas took on non-conference Tulsa as a warmup for a continuance of loop wars. The Porkers were cold and trailed throughout the game. Tulsa led at the half, 40-33, and came back strong to win, 78-65, hitting 58% of their shots. For the Hogs Carlton hit for 21 points followed by Rhoden with 18.

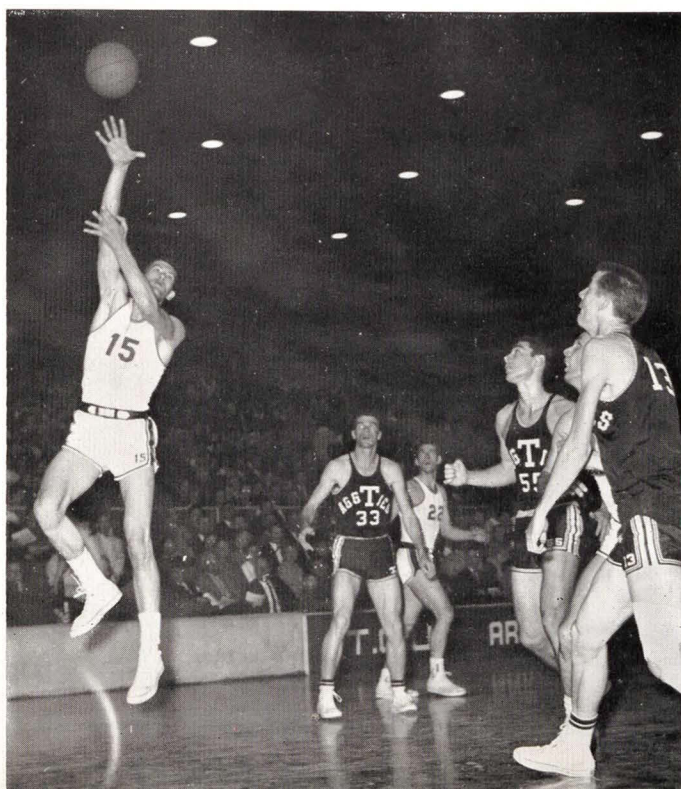

The league leading Razorbacks journeyed to Lubbock to take on the Red Raiders of Texas Tech. Clyde Rhoden had his own personal battle with little Del Ray Mounts of Tech for the conference scoring lead. The Porkers lost both battles as Mounts ran wild, scoring 35 points and leading the Raiders to an 82-79 victory. Rhoden continued his high scoring pace with 28 points followed by Garner with 22.

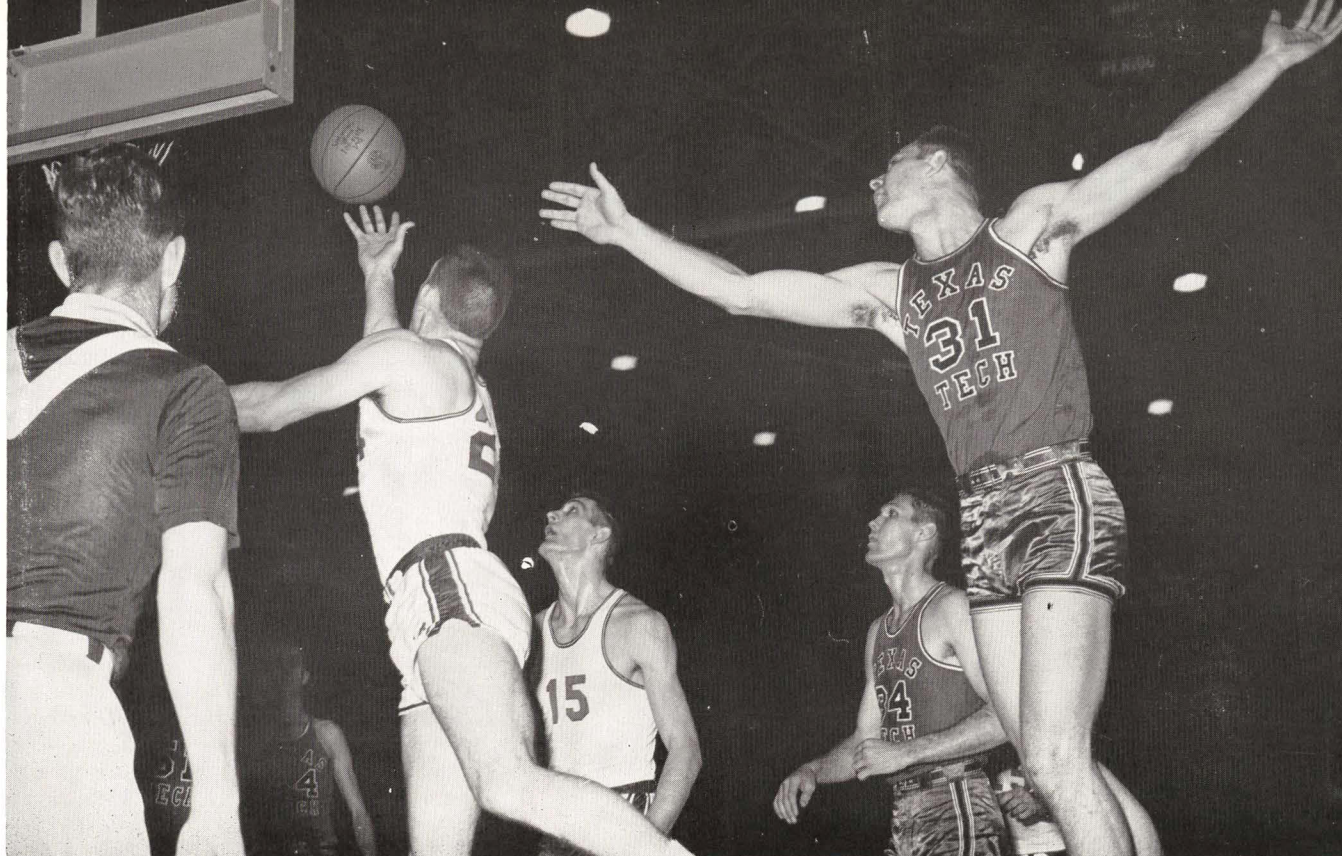

The Mustangs of Southern Methodist traveled to Fayetteville for a do-or-die game as far as Razorback league title aspirations were concerned. The overflow crowd saw the most thrilling game of the year, the second overtime battle for the Hogs. The Ponies led, 39-35, at the half, but Arkansas pulled even only to have SMU's Kim Nash give the Mustangs a 67-65 lead with 13 seconds left. Rhoden, who hit only one of 14 from the field, was fouled and sank the tying points as the regulation time ended. With the score knotted at 70-70 and two minutes remaining, SMU's Max Williams went into a one-man stall. With 8 seconds left it was again Nash, this time with a 20 foot jump shot, that gave the Ponies the 72-70 victory. Garner led the Hog scoring with 18 points followed by Foster with 14.

The Razorbacks found the Texas Aggies a bit too rugged as they fell for the fourth straight time, 77-68. It was Pat Foster who kept the Hogs close, scoring 20 points. The Porkers went to the dressing room trailing 41-35 at the half. They threw a brief scare into A&M early in the last frame, but the Aggie offense was too much.

After three straight conference losses the Razorbacks had to change objectives as they headed for Fort Worth to meet TCU before regional TV.

Garner gets away his favorite shot, a hook from the corner, to score 18 points against the Aggies in a losing effort.

Loose for a lay-in, Clyde Rhoden demonstrates the type of play which justified his spot on the All-Conference team.

Basketball

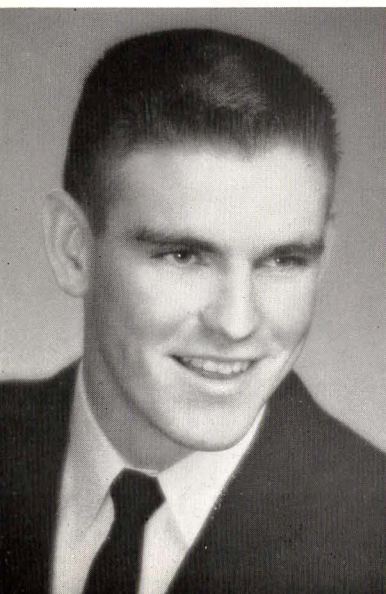

They now had to concentrate on a .500 or better record and a first division finish. In a slow starting game the Razorbacks capitalized on the Froggies miscues to take a 28-26 halftime lead. The second half saw the Hogs lead most of the way. In the waning minutes of the half TCU came storming back to take a 61-60 lead, but the Porkers were equal to the task and Jones, Carlton, and Garner each connected two free throws with less than a minute to play to make the final score read 66-61, Arkansas. Rhoden and Foster led the scoring with 14 points each.

The Razorbacks roared back across the .500 mark for the conference season in John Barnhill Fieldhouse with a 77-55 victory over the Texas Tech Red Raiders. The Hogs were eager to avenge an earlier loss suffered in Lubbock and rolled up a 35-25 halftime lead. The Porkers came back even stronger in the second half, grabbing 24 of 36 total rebounds in the final frame. Rhoden, who went into the game the leading scorer in conference play, increased his lead by two points. However, it was a reserve, John Blasingame, who took the scoring show away from the big guns. He led all scorers with 17 points in his best outing in college play.

The Razorbacks then made the journey to College Station to meet the league leading Cadets of Texas A&M. The big man was Kelly Chapman of A&M who came off the bench in the second half to score 16 points and lead the Aggies as they rolled over a cold Razorback five, 82-61. Arkansas could only hit 24% from the field compared to A&M's 46%. The league's leading scorer, Rhoden, was held to one field goal in 13 attempts by the tight Aggie defense. Foster led the Porker scorers with 16 points.

The hot-shot junior trio led the Razorbacks to a 94-74 victory over the punchless Rice Owls in Houston. The win gave Arkansas a 6-5 league mark. The Hog offense was a complete reverse from their previous game as they ripped the net for a 51% average. Clyde Rhoden shook off his scoring troubles as he again led the Porker scorers with 24 points, followed by Foster with 22 and Garner with 18.

Moving back to Fayetteville for the last home stand of the year the Razorbacks needed one more victory to post a .500 conference record. However, this had to wait as a strong team from Texas had too good a scoring eye. The Porkers jumped to a quick lead, but Texas had too many big guns and after the midway point of the first half went ahead for good, winning, 71-57. Rhoden was again the high point man with 19, followed by Carlton with 15.

The Hogs got off to a slow start in their last home game against Baylor. They could hit only 25% of their shots in the first half as the Bears led by five. However, with a late surge the Hogs bounded back to take an 83-74 victory. Rhoden, who led the scoring, set a new Arkansas record for the most points made in conference play by an Arkansas player. Rhoden tallied 21 points for his evening's work, followed by Carlton with 18.

The Razorbacks ended their season's play before regional TV as they lost to Southern Methodist, 93-82. This left the Hogs at the break-even point, not only for the entire slate, 12-12, but also in the conference with 7-7. Once again, the Ponies' fast break was too much for the slow Porkers and Wilbur Marsh and Max Williams ran circles around the defense late in the game to take the win. Ronnie Garner led Arkansas scorers with 25 points, followed by Foster with 18 points.

Jerry Carlton shows his speed by driving for a lay-in as Garner and Foster are in position in case he should miss.

Cross Country

Competition in the SWC meet with Arkansas runners in dark jerseys, was heated and stiff; Arkansas emerged victorious for fourth year.

Arkansas won its fourth consecutive cross country championship by an overwhelming margin in the conference meet held in Fayetteville and continued to build a reputation of strength in distance running.

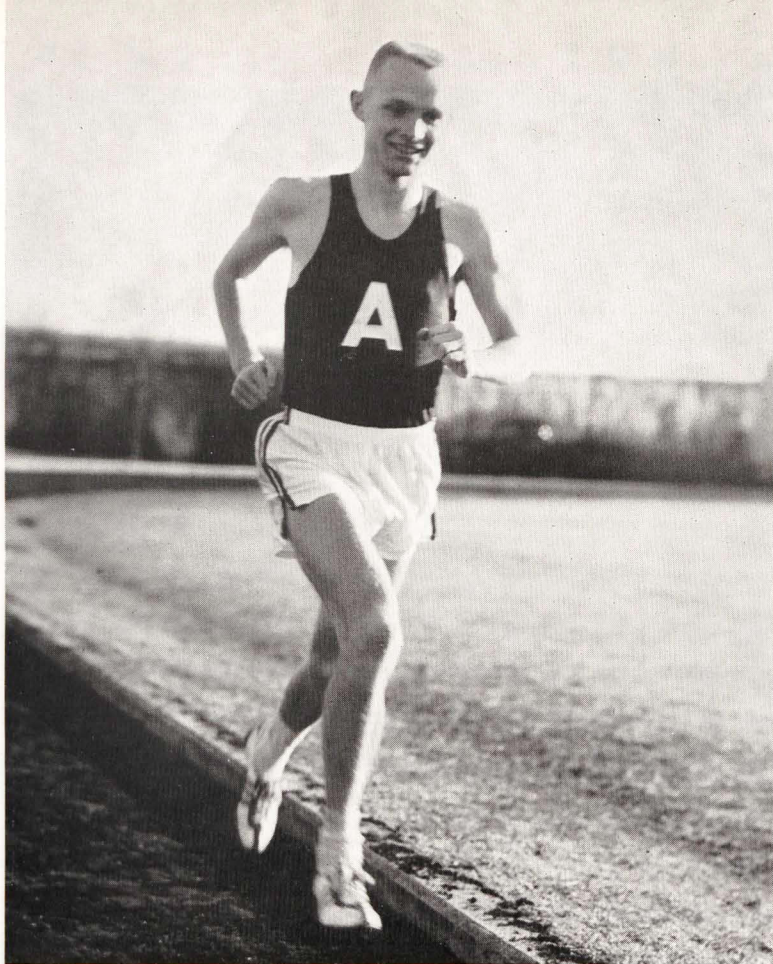

Student assistant Ed Morton, former great Arkansas distance runner, assumed the duties of departed assistant coach Earl Bond and under the direction of "Ab" Bidwell, he turned an experienced group of lettermen into a championship team.

During regular season competition the team wound up with a 2-2 record, their poorest in years, but this was compiled in meets with some of the nation's finest teams. Returning lettermen included Joe Bessenbacher, Ray Dyck, Jackie Nelson, Alan Rennick, James Taylor and Stuart Towns. Eddie Black joined these six to make up the team that retained the conference title.

Ray Dyck paced the Razorbacks in the conference meet as the Porkers finished far ahead of second-place Texas. Following Dyck in the conference meet were Nelson, Rennick, Towns, Bessenbacher, Taylor, all in the first ten, and Black. The outstanding win was the fourth in a string of victories dating back to 1956 when assistant coach Ed Morton led the team to an upset win over Texas.

Cross-country harriers also serve as distance men for Hog track. Members of the Porker four mile relay team await their call in a home track meet.

Baseball

A stronger pitching staff plus nine returning lettermen gave coaches Bill Ferrell and Duddy Waller some hope of bettering last year's poor diamond showing. The big question mark was in the hitting department which would have to improve over its anemic status of 1959.

Playing a split schedule, the first 12 games at home and the remaining 11 on the road, the Razorbacks started strong as they wound up their extended home stand with a 10-2 mark. They faltered on the road, but ended the season with a respectable 14-9 record.

Overall, the team jumped to a fine .281 batting average with catcher Joe Nosari, first baseman Pat Foster and short-stop Jerry Carlton pacing the parade of hitters with an identical .341 percentage.

The pitching staff turned in a commendable 3.57 ERA with steady righthander John Kerr posting a 5-2 record including an outstanding ERA of 1.50. Other marks included Rex McCaughtry, 3-0, Darrell Peters, 3-2, and Don Martin, 2-4.

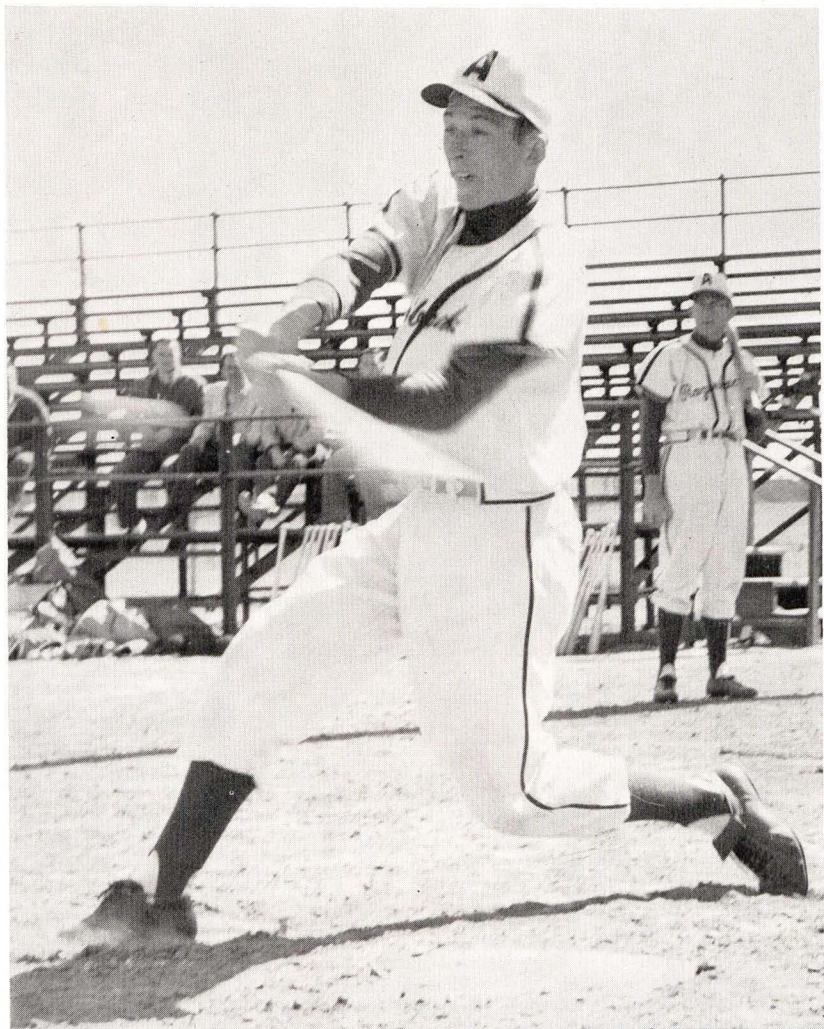

Even a pitcher must know how to lay one down at the right time. Pitcher Gary Weaver squares around to bunt during Porker baseball practice.

Track

President of the Student Body and record-holding pole vaulter, Allan Sugg clears 12'9" to win at the Memphis State Relays.

Track continued to attract popularity as a spring sport during the fifth year of Coach Ab Bidwell. Ed Morton, former great Razorback distance runner, took over as assistant after the departure of former assistant Earl Bond.

As has been the case for many years the Hogs were again strong in the distance and relay events, but weak in the remaining segments, especially the weights.

The Porkers soundly trounced Memphis State in a dual meet and trailed Pittsburg State by only one point in a triangular meet. In addition, Hog thinclads entered the Kansas State Invitational, OSU Relays, Texas Relays, Memphis State Relays, Kansas Relays and the Drake Relays.

The Razorbacks served as the host for the Arkansas Relays which drew many of the nation's best teams and a great number of Olympic hopefuls.

Several University records were broken during mee's this year. The sprint medley relay team of Wayne McCollum, Charles Davis, Gary McDonald and Ray Dyck established a new time of 3:22.3 at the Texas Relays. Ray Dyck bettered his old 880 yard run time by clocking 1:49.0 at the Drake Relays. Jerry Hughes and Alan Sugg added to the pole vault record several times and each cleared the bar at 13'8" in a triangular meet in Fayetteville.

Ralph Brodie clears the hurdles a split second ahead of his opponent, but went ahead to win easily as the Hogs defeated Memphis State.

Sprinter Lance Alworth breaks the tape of the 100 yard dash. Alworth, who doubled in baseball, turned in a 9.7 before returning to the diamond.

Tennis

After a .500 season last year the Razorback tennis team appeared to be in position for a winning spring schedule this year. Gone were lettermen Bob Franklin, David Abernathy and Dickie Langford, but three returning lettermen, an outstanding transfer and three promising local boys made the tennis future look bright.

Rudy Martin, John Henry Moore and Randy Spencer returned from last year's net wars to join force with Joe Bissett, Alan Beauchamp and Jack Bailey, all of Fayetteville, and transfer Jay Dickey from Hendrix. Dickey, fourth ranking player in the state, contacted polio during basketball season and had to drop the sport, but has recovered to move into the number one tennis position.

In addition to these new netmen, the Razorbacks added Dr. John Kane to the coaching staff to work with coach John 'Red' Davis.

The Porkers started strong and improved along the way to post a very fine 6-1 season record in non-conference play. The Razorbacks have not competed in SWC tennis for several years, but have been sending representatives to the league's spring tournament in May each year.

Letterman Rudy Martin in motion to return a shot at the net in a tennis match on the University courts.

Golf

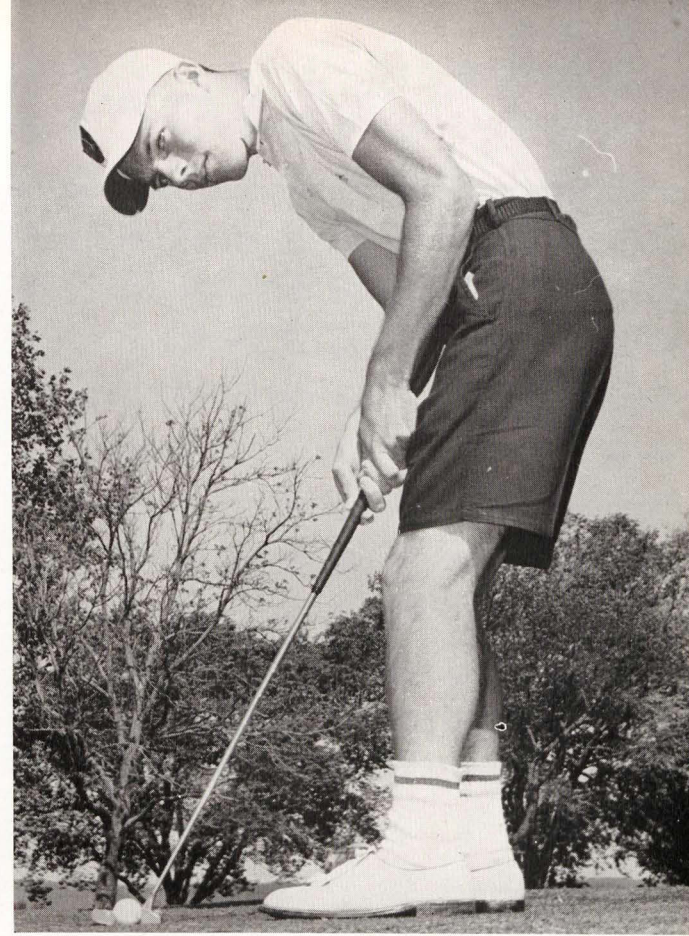

Last year the Razorback golf team slipped to seventh place after having won the Southwest Conference title the previous year. Coach Bob Zander hoped for an improvement over this last place finish, but it was not in the books.

Three lettermen, Joe Crumpler, Donn Kerby and Beryl Anthony, returned, but the loss suffered by the graduation of Louis Henderson and Jerry Breckenridge hurt considerably.

The team was chosen from the scores of a 72-hole match at Hardscrabble Country Club in Fort Smith and resulted in the addition of two very fine sophomores, Gary Gross and Richard McCauley, to the five man team. McCauley won the Arkansas State junior title and the Arkansas JC junior crown last summer and went on to the national JC and national USGA junior tournament while team-mate Gross placed high in both tournaments.

The handicap of having to endure poor spring practice weather in comparison to the year-round conditions in Texas worked a hardship on the Porker team as they were unable to win a match in the early part of the season.

Razorback home games were split this year between Fayetteville Country Club and Hardscrabble Country Club in Fort Smith.

Freshman Football

After the undefeated season of last year's Shoat team any unsimilar performance by this year's freshman team would have been anticlimatic. However, the complete reversal of last year's results, in that the 1959 version of the baby Hogs won none and lost five, was indeed amazing because of the tremendous prospects that Coach Frank Broyles and his recruiting staff had secured.

It should be remembered that the object of the freshman team is to supply the varsity and the poor record of this year's Shoats will not interfere with that in any way. Names such as Billy Joe Moody, Danny Brabham, Tommy Brasher, Buddy Tackett and Chuck Tempfer will resound in football circles for years to come.

When it looked as if the freshman team was going to go all the way, Coach Steed White was transferred to varsity coaching duty, leaving the Shoats in the hands of graduate assistants. This plus an abundance of injuries plagued the team throughout the year.

The Shoats lost their five games in this manner: T-Team, 22-3; Tulsa, 22-7; Texas Tech, 26-6; T-Team, 34-0; OSU. 20-14.

Shoat quarterback Chester Miller (14) grabs for the Oklahoma State fullback, but in vain as paydirt looms ahead. The Shoats lost their fifth ballgame of the season to the Oklahoma State congregation in the only freshman game in Fayetteville by the score of 20-14.

The entire Shoat team converges on an Oklahoma State ball carrier to prevent a first down. In the foreground are Tommy Brasher (50), Billy Joe Moody (37) and Danny Brabham (51).

Freshman Basketball

Since 'Duddy' Waller took over the job of coaching the freshman basketball teams a successful season seems to be the rule rather than the exception. This year's Shoat aggregation was no exception as they romped through a 12 game schedule, winning 10 and losing two. This brought Waller's three-year record to 31-5. The Baby Porkers only had trouble with the freshman team of Tulsa University.

The leading scorer of the year was Fort Smith's Tommy Boyer, the state's outstanding schoolboy player and high school All-American in 1959. He eclipsed Jerry Carlton's record set the previous year which had, in turn, wiped out Clyde Rhoden's marks. Boyer scored 245 points for a 20.4 average. His high single game total was 35 points.

With the exception of two losses to the Tulsa Gales the remainder of the games were in Arkansas' favor by scores of 66-22 against Texarkansas JC; 60-65 loss to Tulsa; 57-36 against Connors A&M; 50-47 against Bacone JC; 64-49 against Joplin JC; 75-48 against Bacone JC; 61-56 against Fort Smith JC; 86-41 against Joplin JC; 77-51 against Texarkana JC; 52-55 loss to Tulsa; 73-66 against Fort Smith JC; and 80-48 against Connors A&M.

A familiar sight was the Shoats' superiority under the net. Keilberg (25) leaps while Wofford (14) waits.

Freshman Track

The outlook for 1960 was only moderate for freshman track, especially where overall team strength was concerned. The Shoat aggregation was designed more to fill the needs of upcoming varsity teams, with several strong mid-distance runners and more emphasis on the shot and discus.

The outstanding figures appeared to be sprinter Kary Brown, the state's top dash man in the 1959 high school ranks; quarter-miler Ken Blankenship; 440-880 ace Haydn Hicks; and quarter-miler Jimmy Tate. They more than lived up to expectations as they formed a mile relay team which shattered the Oklahoma State Relays record by 5.2 seconds, turning in a fine 3:21.2.

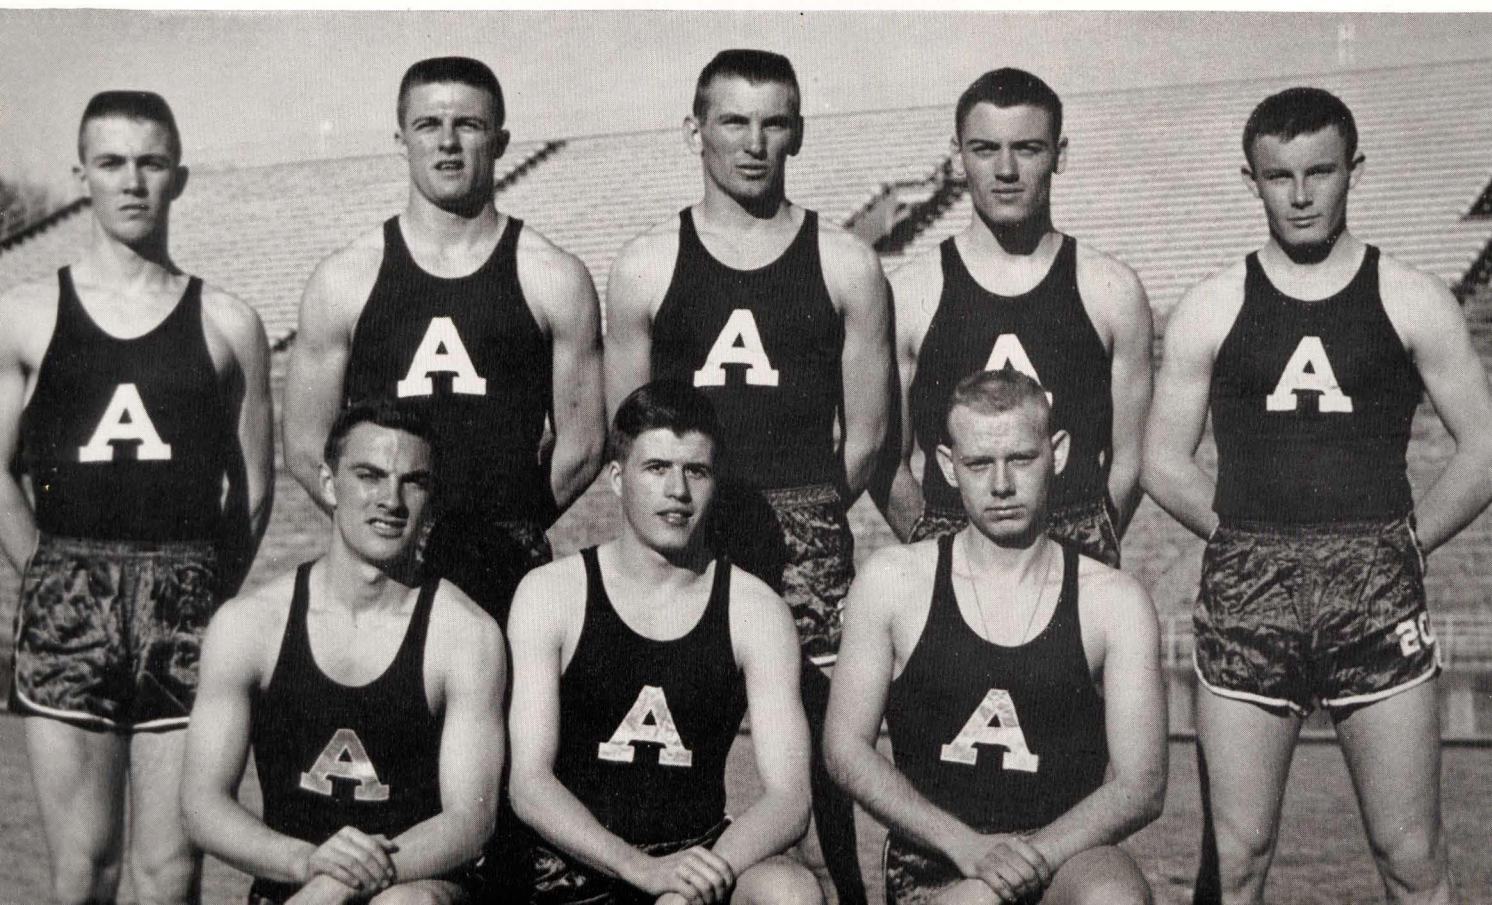

In the weight division, a weak spot in varsity circles for many years, the Shoats had Danny Brabham and Billy Joe Moody, a pair of footballers who were among the best in Louisiana and Arkansas prep ranks last year.

The Baby Porkers entered a majority of the same events as did the varsity team and made a stronger showing than had been hoped for in many quarters. Their last meet will be the Southwest Conference Meet, and record break-performances are expected from the mile relay team and sprint medley relay team of Brown, Blankenship, Hicks and Tate.

Working on the finer points, sprinter Frank Wait practices his starting technique during the daily workouts in the stadium.

Intramurals

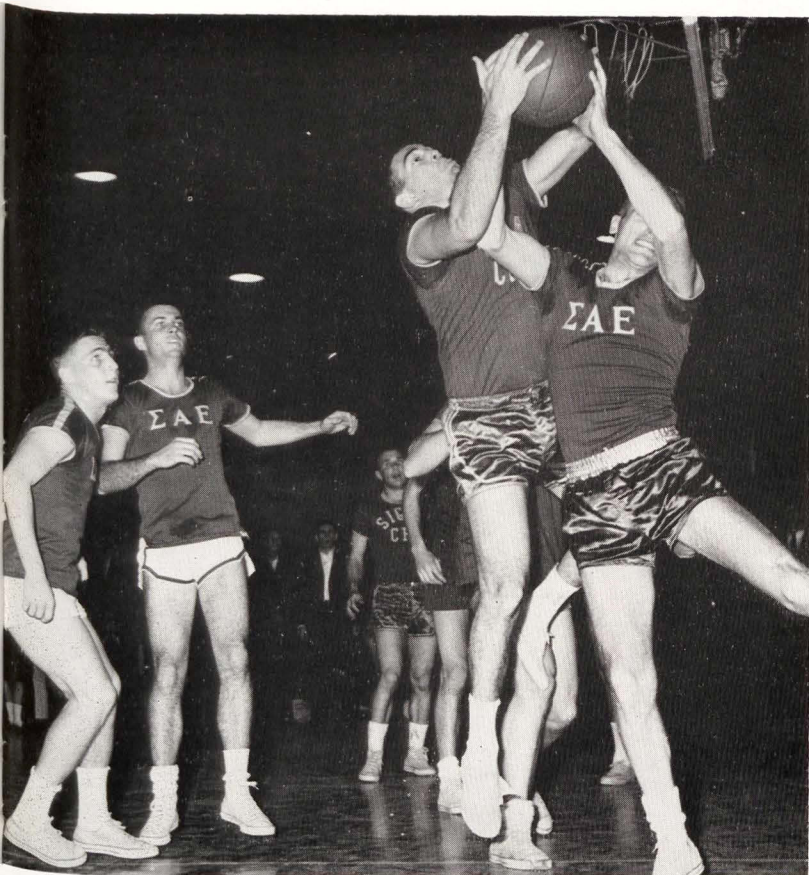

The fraternity division of intramurals was split into a major and minor league this year to assure more even competition. Membership was determined by group size and all agreed that it worked well.

In fraternity competition Sigma Alpha Epsilon led the sweepstakes race throughout the year followed closely by Sigma Chi and Sigma Nu. The Alphas won basketball, badminton singles, horseshoe singles, ping pong singles and doubles, snooker doubles and tennis. The Skis took football, volleyball and snooker singles while the Snakes won badminton singles and gold. The Pikes won horseshoe doubles.

In independent competition Wesley Foundation led throughout the year followed by the Bauxite Miners. Weslev won badminton, horseshoes, ping pong and snooker. The Miners took football and volleyball while the Village Idiots won basketball. Buchanan took golf and Williams and Sedgwell tied for tennis.

Freddy Falls is stopped from behind by Bill Adair with Charlie Hubbard lending support. Sigma Chi won on penetrations.

Sigma Chi Jerry Moore and SAE Byron Brown fight for a rebound as Bubba Fergusson and Jerry Franks watch. Undefeated SAE won 46-42.

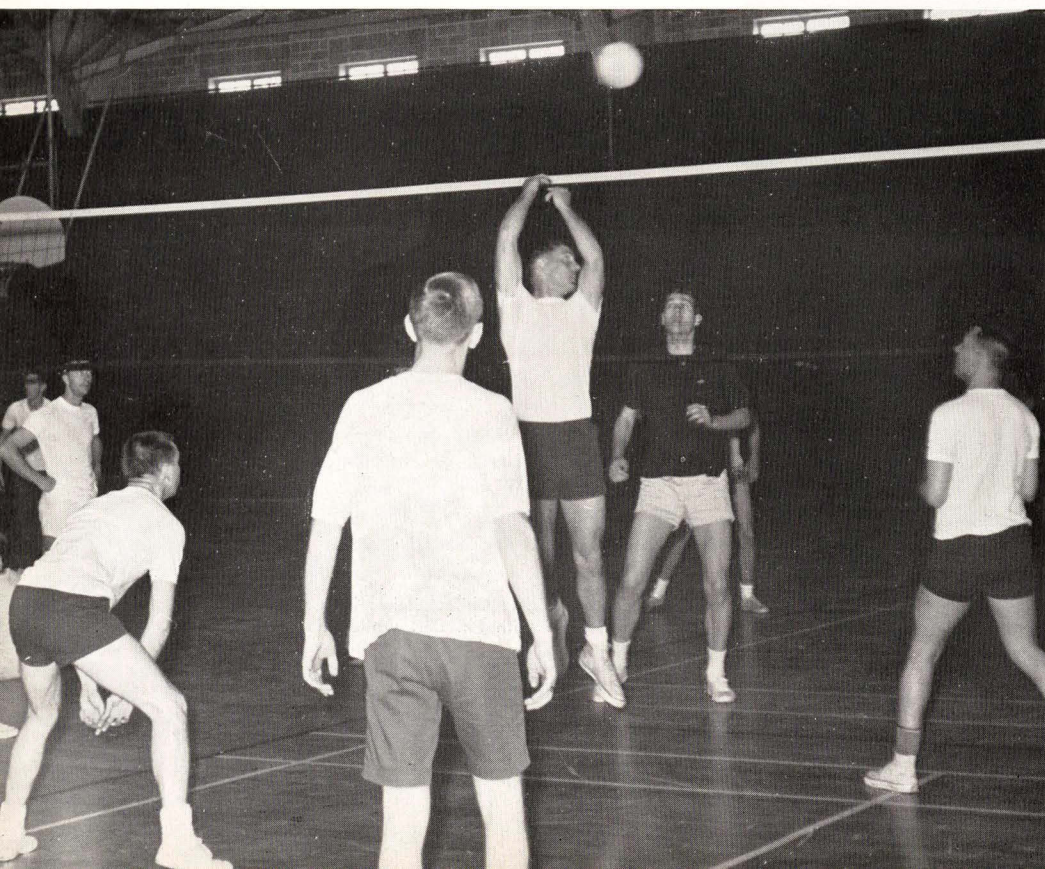

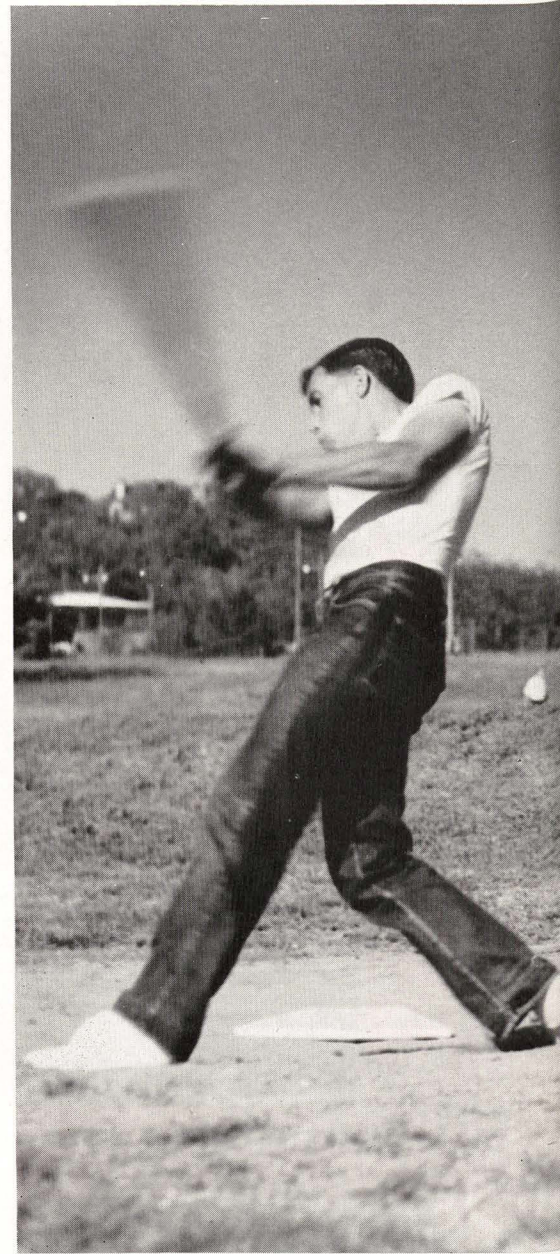

Pike's Arenz lays one in while Alworth and SAE's Vernon Tarver wait for rebound. SAE won 45-37.

M. J. Probst, Sigma Chi, stretches high to score in the final game with Phi Delt which the Skis won.

Freddy Akers stretches for every inch possible as he broad jumps for Sigma Chi in the track meet. Akers' jump was good enough for third place.

Army ROTC

ROTC—The Reserve Officers Training Corps, for many the male undergraduates of the University this represents their first contact with the land forces of the American military establishment. The embroilment of the United States Army in our last two armed conflicts found a large percentage of its junior officer personnel possessing an ROTC background.

The purpose of this unique program is the training of college graduates to assume executive positions in order to enable the Army to accomplish its overall mission of 'training, equipping organizing, and directing Army forces to conduct prompt and sustained operations to seize, occupy, and defend land areas.'

A freshman selecting Army ROTC in order to complete his required two years service in a branch of the armed forces on the collegiate level, finds himself receiving instruction in the operation and usage of the basic combat weapons of the Army.

As a sophomore, the cadet learns the techniques of fire control, map reading, and investigates the role of the Army in national defense.

After choosing to enter the advanced course, the cadet begins a stepped up course in tactics, methods of instruction, and the jobs and missions of the branches of the Army. Following a six week period of practical application at Ft. Hood, Texas during the summer, the senior cadet officers return to study logistics, tactics, military law, and the role of the national defense team. After their commissioning in June, as regular or reserve officers, the seniors are assigned to regular army units.

Air Force ROTC

"Peace through strength in the Aerospace Age", a well understood creed to today's Air Force ROTC cadet. An AFROTC cadet need never again be affiliated with the military to understand the importance of geography and international diplomacy as they're affected by air power. One hundred seventy seven leading colleges and universities over the nation provide a large part of the Air Force's junior officer requirement.

At the University of Arkansas this year, more than seven hundred and fifty men donned the Air Force blue. As freshmen, these student airmen delved in to the history or aviation and the theories behind flight and rockets. While the freshmen studied in these areas the sophomores investigated further into some of the basic information about what takes place on and behind a launching pad.

Going above and beyond the required two years military instruction required of all undergraduate men, the advanced cadets assumed command of the Cadet Wing under the watchful supervision of their cadre instructors. After a four week summer camp at various airbases around the country, the activities of these advanced cadet carried them into the AFROTC Leadership Laboratory and Flight Instruction Programs leading to private licenses.

In connection with these pursuits, the fliers become familiar with techniques of navigation, weather, and principles of military law. Upon graduation and commissioning, these men will join regular Air Force units as valuable members of the "Aerospace" team.

Army ROTC Rifle Team

A synonym for excellence, the ROTC rifle team. This unit holds the Midwest League Championship, the Fourth Army Area Championship, the Arkansas Rifle Championship, and as a result, the Arkansas Governors Cup.

At the beginning of the season, these men found their ranks depleted due to the loss of several veteran shooters. However, mainstays Charles Campbell and All American firer, Max Garrett, formed the nucleus around which coach Paul Pannell constructed a mainly freshman team.

These new members augmented and soon soundly supported the old hands. In addition to championship meets, the teams have defeated Wichita University and the University of Oklahoma in individual matches already this season.

In the halls of the military department hang trophies which range from the Chicago Tribune-Randolph Hearst trophies to plaques for victories over individual institutions which are too numerous to list. These symbols point to a tradition of superior performance of which all can well be proud.

Firers-on-line at the Firing Range in the Greek Theatre practice in an afternoon session in preparation for approaching meet.

Preparatory command is given by PR Head Ken Hendrickson before supplementary command that will send unit into a precision maneuver.

Pershing Rifles

John J. Pershing formed the Pershing Rifles in 1894 and in the ensuing years it spread over the nation under the auspices of the ROTC. As an entirely volunteer organization, the company attempts to acquire a high degree of proficiency in drill through extra practice sessions.

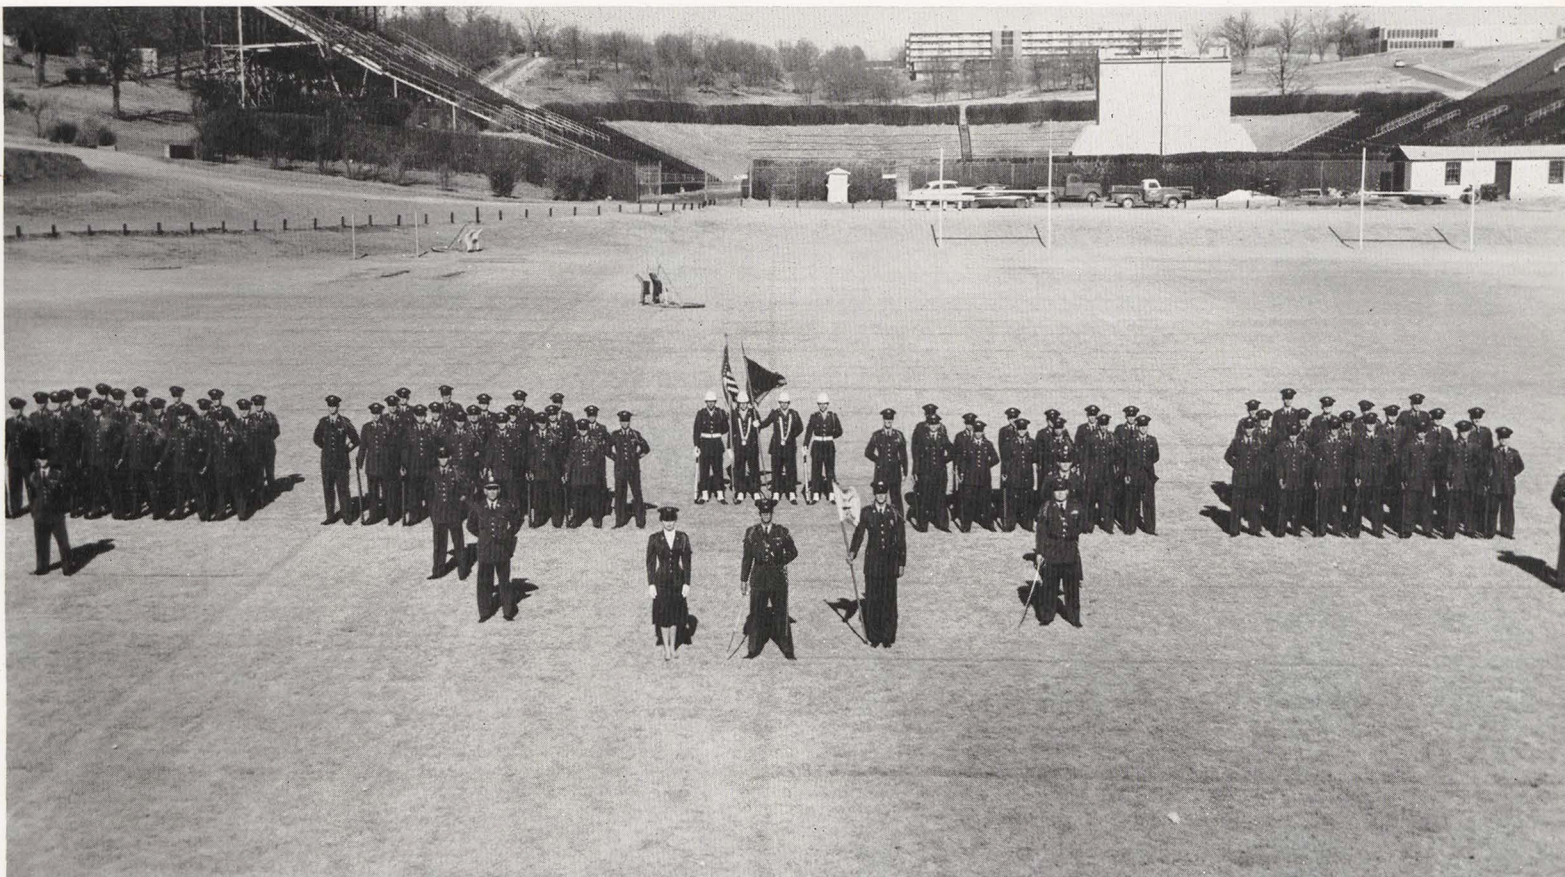

In addition to participating in regular drills on Tuesday and Thursday mornings, the rifles occasionally sponsor activities which include demonstrations, rifle matches, field trips, and furnishing honor guards for visiting dignitaries.

This fall the company sent delegations to their national assembly in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, they participated in the Homecoming parade, and were present at the Hot Springs Christmas parade.

Last Spring the company rifle team defended its national championship and the drill team returned to Mardi Gras in New Orleans in addition to serving as ushers at several basketball games and appearing on numerous television shows.

Scabbard and Blade

Scabbard and Blade, the honorary organization for advanced students in the Army ROTC. Members in this organization must meet a scholarship requirement of a "B" average in military subjects, from this basis further criteria for selection are an interest in the military, and a high degree of efficiency on the drill field.

The local unit of Scabbard and Blade, "B" Company of the Second Regiment, was established in 1916. Perhaps their activity with which students are most familiar is the cannon fire punctuating pep rallies and football games. In addition to artillery support, they provide the saber arch at the Military Ball and conduct a week long hazing ritual in the fall during their pledging period.

Each spring, Scabbard and Blade becomes the driving force behind the major social event of the Army ROTC activities for the year, the Military Ball. The unit makes financial arrangements, arrives at a decoration theme, and supervises its construction. This organization is built on a military tradition, and considers service a duty and privilege.

Representatives of all Army ROTC classes meet with members of Scabbard and Blade to discuss forthcoming Army Military Ball.

Arnold Air Society

To become a member of the Arnold Air Society, an AFROTC advanced cadet must maintain an 2.00 overall grade average and a 3.00 average in the advanced course in Air Science. This organization accepts only those advanced cadets who have demonstrated a high degree of leadership capability.

The objectives and purposes of Arnold Air to improve the relations between students and faculty, and those of the various institutions in this area who offer courses in Air Science. The most important activity of this group is their attempts to increase improved public relations between the general public and the Department of Air Force.

They hope that through this increased awareness on the part of the American people that ultimately the standards of the Air Force itself will be raised and the nation as a whole will benefit in the end. New members are pledged to this unit in the spring they are rapidly integrated into the group activities involved in promoting the Air Force Ball and directivities in honoring the honorary cadet sponsors.

An Elephant in the Developer

It's impossible to pin-point the exact date that the 1960 Razorback or perhaps better known as the White Elephant, the book with the backward look, had its beginning. It can be traced back to early last summer when the skinny editor made a trip to Southwestern Engraving Co. in Tulsa to plan page lay-outs for the book. Starting from nothing, the 496 page monstrosity soon began to take shape as staff members began their routine with the opening of school.

As if the confusion of registration in the Men's gym wasn't enough, the Razorback threw up a bottleneck at the exit of the gym with the appointment tables for the scheduling of pictures for the publication. For the next six weeks, chaos was the word as 3745 students were photographed by Randelle Studio's of New York for the book.

Pictures for the Organizations Section of the book went off on schedule in the crowded lounge of the Student Union. The engraver started screaming for pictures and the printer needed copy, and the 1960 Razorback was off to the races.

James F. Tuohey, Jr.
Business Manager

The class co-editors were efficient and good looking and more and more young men became interested in seeking positions on the yearbook. The Razorback office began to look like a ChiO pledge meeting as the pictures came back from Randelle for filing in the class section. A capable young man named Poe, apparently dazed from his work on the preceding yearbook, volunteered to handle the operation end of the yearbook.

John Moore, associate editor, began planning copy schedules that never seemed to be on time, but as Moore put it, one can dream. From fabulous Xi of Kappa Sigma came the guiding star of the 1960 White Elephant, Doc Lambert. Lambert was Greek Editor and had the 'I want to do more' look on his face, and was made assistant editor in charge of everything. Eric Richardson, the organizations editor, completed his section early and forgot to leave the office and therefore worked in almost every capacity for the next seven months.

From the world of sports came Bill Stover, who with poetic jargon kept up with a winning season of the Razorbacks. Uncle Sam called and so went Stover, leaving behind an architect student named Mott to complete the section.

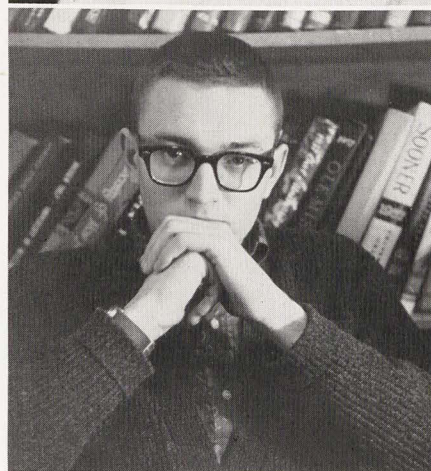

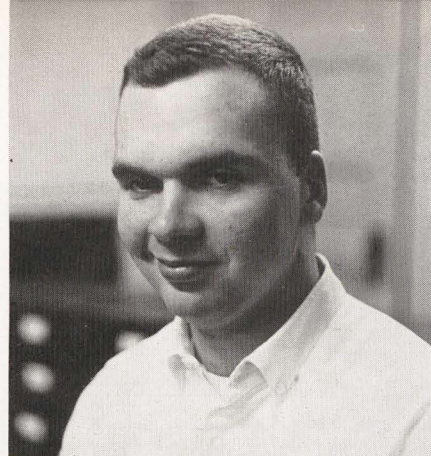

Several firsts were incorporated into the 63rd version of the Razorback. A color shot was added to the opening section and the entire yearbook was changed in some manner. The housemothers went in and the Greek sweethearts came out as the new look was supposedly added as the Razorback, without saying so, tried to 'Swing into the Sixties'.

Problems did arise on every section of the book and items that seemed the simplest often caused the most trouble. The Class Section Photographers asked for an extension in the deadline from December 1st to the 10th, which left five days to complete the section. A call to New York on the 10th found that the pictures had been mailed, but had apparently been lost. Five days later the pictures arrived from New York postmarked December 13 out of New York.

And then when the pictures finally were filed, 400 Fulbright Hall pictures were stolen out of the office. Panic was the word until the pictures were found in the hands of the thief. Then he panicked, and then it was the Razorback's turn again as photographers for the Feature Section became few and far between. The staff somehow managed to scrounge for pictures long enough to have this corrected somewhat, but photographers presented, by far, the greatest problem to the staff.

The first signatures were returned from the printer and the staff saw that perhaps it wasn't as futile as it often times seemed. Enthusiasm was the word and the book was sailing smoothly until the day the Printer and the Engraver called and said that the book would never get out on time. 'Hurry' was the word until the end of school. Betty Clark and the Pi Phi pledge class took over and said that we would have an index, and we did.

All night sessions became more frequent as the Big Book with the backward look, went into the home stretch. Excellent cooperation between the Printer, the Hurley Company of Camden, and the Engraver, Southwestern of Tulsa, enabled the Razorback to include Gaebale, the seventh of may, into a book that was slated for distrubution 16 days later.

The staff slowed down for the first time in nine months and couldn't believe that the White Elephant was really complete. The 1960 Razorback represents the sum efforts of some 60 staff members and countless other people who helped and assisted in some way. The book was out and the staff sighed and waited for student reaction.

Censorship Four Times a Week

Probably the most trying and hectic year that any publication has even known has just been concluded by the Traveler. The chain of events listed six editors, censorship, and a cut-back to four issues during the school year.

It started when Ed Dozier, the editor selected by the Board of Publications in the Spring was disqualified and ruled ineligible by the Dean's Office for scholastic reasons. Taking supposedly emergency action, Acting President Storm Whaley then appointed a freshman named Jim Standard to the position of editor. The Board meeting the first week of school confirmed the appointment and the Traveler started publishing the usual five days a week.

Then a budget document with the proposed 10 per cent cut in the appropriations of all University agencies was stolen off the desk of the Acting President and appeared in the Traveler the next day. An emergency session of the Board of Publications was called that afternoon in an attempt to find how Standard had obtained the document. Jim contended that he was innocent and had obtained the document in good faith from a reliable source that he refused to identify.

Then on Monday, October 12, Acting President Whaley checked by the Printing Plant in Hill Hall and after checking the proofs of the paper that day, stopped publication and called a meeting of the board. The paper contained a news story and an editorial on the front page condemning the purge that the editor was being subjected to. The Board of Publications then voted to suspend that issue of the Traveler and to further investigate how Standard had obtained the document.

The University Disciplinary Committee meeting early that week placed Standard on probation, thus making him ineligible to hold the position of editor. The Committee said that after a thorough investigation, they had proven that Standard and a staff member had taken the document. Later Standard admitted taking the document. Standard loaded up and left and the Traveler was again without an editor.

The Board then appointed Armil Snow, a sophomore with Traveler experience, to the position of acting editor until the position could be filled. Snow served until the day the Board was to meet to interview 4 applicants for the position. A proposal for the creation of a committee, other than the Board itself, was submitted by a faculty member of the Board. Finding the proposal unacceptable, the Board voted it out, and was attempting to work out a more workable solution to the problem, when a letter from President Whaley was read to the group by the faculty Board member. The letter stated that if in the event that the proposal of the Administration was not accepted, then all jurisdiction over the Traveler was thereby removed from the Board of Publications. The Traveler was placed in the department of Journalism.

The previously independent, student controlled, newspaper now was faculty-supervised and checked daily for controversial material. The Journalism Department immediately appointed two of the applicants for editor, Ed Stevenson and Jim Minmier, as co-editors.

The next day, the issue containing the account of the acting board of publications chairman on actually what had happened at the Board meeting was censored by Dr. David Bergin, Chairman of the Journalism Department. The Traveler co-editors, fighting faculty control at every turn, began the tedious ritual of putting out a newspaper under trying circumstances. Despite this handicap, an outstanding paper was published by the staff. A record on the number of pages published in one issue was established by the staff, as a special Gator Bowl edition of 24 pages, that honored the Southwest-Conference co-champions and the Gator Bowl winners. The issue was proclaimed over the State and extra copies were sent to dignitaries and alumni.

But all was not over, and a committee appointed by President David Mullins formed a new Board of Publications and abolished the old Board. The new Board in its first meeting elected Barbara Clauser, a newcomer to the Traveler, as editor and the entire old staff including co-editors Minnier and Stevenson resigned. With their resignations, Barbara was forced to move up from editor-elect to editor, thus making number six. A trying year for the Traveler and one that will never be forgotten.

Agriculturist

The Arkansas Agriculturist, a student magazine in the true sense of the word, has been devoted to informing University students, potential students and alumni of activities in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

The small efficient staff has worked hard toward a successful year for the publication. The students of the college have contributed ideas to the staff concerning the type of publication they desired and the articles they wanted to read.

Virginia Price, Editor, used a college theme in presenting the four issues. The freshman issue was devoted to orientation of new students. The sophomore and junior issues discussed research and the opportunities in agriculture and home economics. The senior issue was devoted to the Agri Day activities as well as honoring the leaders in the college.

Circulation rose as Business Manager Billy Wilson and his staff put the 2000 copies of each issue out to students, Arkansas high schools and to extension workers. This efficiency has created new interest in the publication for many potential University students.

Offering journalistic opportunity to interested agriculture and home economics students has been a goal for this publication. Much valuable experience is gained from work on its pages.

Capping another outstanding year for the Engineer, it took two awards in the national Engineering College Magazines Associated competition. The awards were in the categories of Best Cover and Best Recurring Feature.

The Arkansas Engineer is the official publication of the College of Engineering and publishes four times a year, in November, January, March, and May. The highlight of the year is the March Engineers' Day issue which contains the pictures of the candidates for St. Pat and St. Patricia and articles on the Engineers' Day festivities in addition to the regular technical articles.

The technical articles contained in the Engineer are aimed at the College of Engineering student body in general and are intended to be understood by any student there, no matter what his major or classification. In addition to articles on strictly engineering topics, the Engineer also contains features on subjects of general scientific interest.

Guild Ticker

The 22nd version of the Guild Ticker has been labeled the largest and the best of any of the official publications of business school. Editor Julia Rumph combined the talents of some forty staff members to insure the success of the publication.

The fifty-eight page letter-press publication contained articles of interest to all students enrolled in the College of Business Administration. One of the unique features of the book, was the senior section, which for the first time carried individual pictures of all graduating seniors.

The publication was distributed during the Commerce Banquet which concluded Commerce Day. The Commerce Queen of 1960, Miss Joyce Norwood, was featured in the Ticker along with the other maids.

Who's Who in the College of Business Administration was also announced in the publication. Fourteen outstanding seniors were selected for this honor.

The magazine also contained articles about the BA honoraries and did a brief character sketch on the new faculty members. A success story featuring chain-store president, owner Sam Walton was the business highlight of the Ticker this year.

Preview

Judy Doolin
Editor

Preview magazine is rapidly assuming a place among the leading annual and quarterly college magazines printing student work.

The contents of the magazine include work from primarily the English and Art departments in the fields of fiction, poetry, painting, woodcutting, and illustration, although the layout of the book is not confined to these areas.

The magazine is published yearly and is sponsored by the College of Arts and Sciences, the largest college on the campus.

Preview appears in the spring just in time to disrupt study habits of people who are vainly trying to pull their grades through.

During the year, competition is held in various departments for student entries in writing and art to be included in Preview. In some departments, awards are made other than simply having the winning work appear in the publication.

The work is divided between the editor and art editor of Preview, with the editor choosing literary efforts for publication and the art editor handling the art contributions and the layout of the magazine.

Law Review

The ancestor of the present Arkansas Law Review and Bar Association was the University of Arkansas Law Review. It first appeared in 1946 with the majority of the work on it being done by the students, a change from the faculty work of the Bulletin.

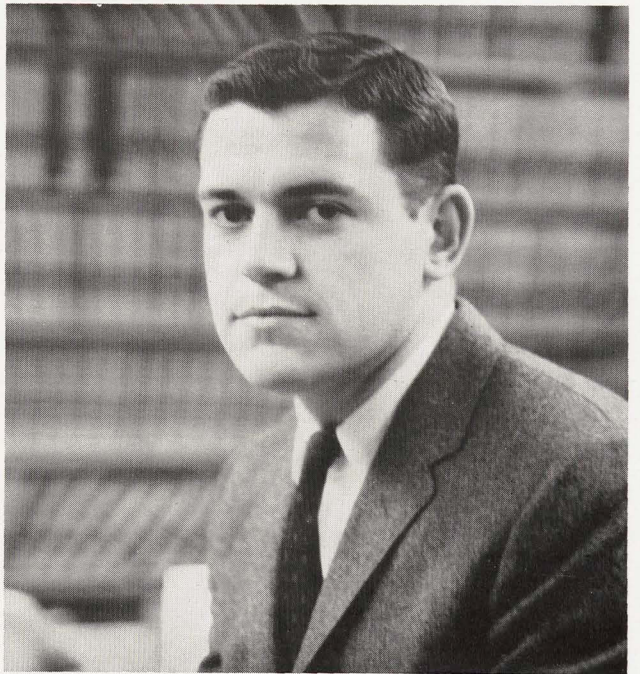

Additional articles for the Law Review are prepared by prominent jurists, with the majority of this work being done by the University Law School's faculty.

Student members of the editorial staff receive credit hours toward graduation for work on the Law Review. Each published student article is accorded a fractional credit hour. Students seeking membership on the staff must meet grade point requirements and must submit one or more articles of acceptable quality.

The quarterly publication can be cited in court as authority on such cases as taxation, trusts, and banking.

Every member of the Arkansas Bar Association automatically receives a copy of each issue with circulation even reaching as wide an area as from Belgium to Australia.

The articles appearing in the Law Review can be generally classified into three categories, case notes, citations, and comments. The articles are under the supervision of the student editorial board and a faculty advisor.

Student Senate Publications

The A-Book is the official handbook of student information for the University of Arkansas. It is published in the spring and distributed each fall to entering freshmen during the orientation program. The book is also available to any student or faculty member during the year at the Student Information Desk.

The editor is selected by the Board of Publications in conjunction with the Student Senate. A 2.5 grade point average is required for candidacy for editor. The publication's budget is approximately $1,000 and the editor receives $100.

This year's A-Book, in addition to serving as the handbook of student information, contained other features concerning activities at the University. The A-Book was distributed to high school seniors by the members of Blue Key on their state tour.

Editorship of the Student Directory mainly concerns a mad rush in the fall to tabulate names, addresses, and phone numbers of 5,000 students and getting them in proper form for the printer. The Directory also contains some artwork and a minimum of ads.

The editor is chosen in the spring by the entire student senate from applications accepted at large from the student body. The main selling point for prospective editors is an early distributing date in the fall.

Student Directory Editors Tuohey and Weedman work out typing plans and arrangements with an Editorial Service employee. The Editorial Service compiled names, while the co-editors supervised the work.

University Board of Publications

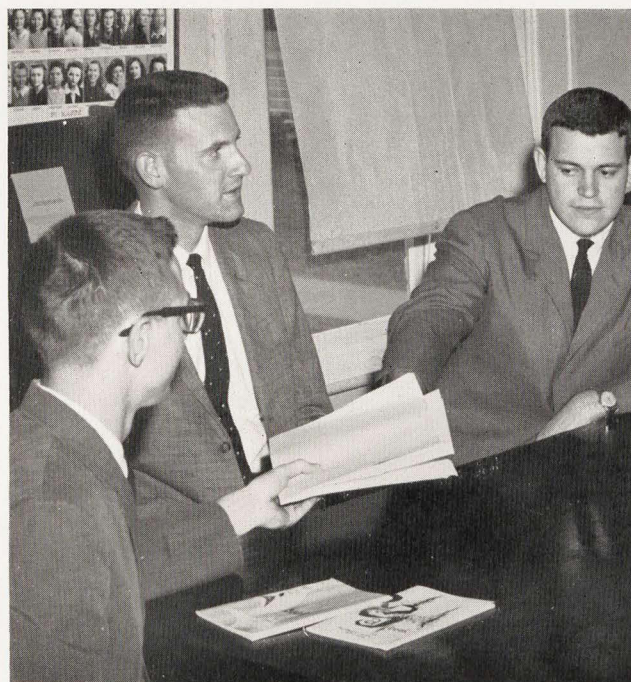

A controversial year for the Board of Publications that in the end saw the abolishment of the Board. The usual problems, plus a frequent turnover of Traveler editors, made this by far, the busiest year that the Board had ever seen.

Traveler Editor Jim Standard stole a document out of the Acting President's office to start the chain of events. Acting President Storm Whaley then proposed a plan for the reorganization of the Traveler to include a board, other than the Board of Publications, to regulate the publication.

The Board turned this proposal down only to have a letter read by a faculty member from Storm Whaley, which removed the Traveler from the jurisdiction of the Board and placed it in the hands of the Journalism Department.

A committee, appointed by President Mullins, worked an entirely different Board consisting of three faculty members and three student members, which was then passed by the Student Senate.

The old Board did however select the editor of the Razorback, John Moore, the business manager, Ed Dohoney, and 'A' Book editor Bob Wilson.

Board members Bob Middleton and Bob Wilson interview an 'A' Book applicant at the final meeting of the Board of Publications.

The Bonnard living room becomes a scene of argument over the domestic situation in the first act.

Happy Time

The skeletons in the family closet are hilariously portrayed in this comedy depicting the trials of the youngest male of a French Canadian family in Montreal during the twenties. The youngest son is torn between the demonstrations of his mother and the roughish antics of his typically Gallic uncles.

Casting, settings and all the other things that go to make a thoroughly enjoyable evening at the theatre an experience to relish were present in this gay farce. Between the French maid, an uncle with a roving eye, and another whose propensity to consume the nectar of the grape is phenomenal, the young fellow doesn't have a chance. It was gay theatre well done.

The amorous Grandpere, Jerry Talley, scorns the assistance of his sons and the doctor in a scene from the Happy Time.

Beth Bettick and her husband Ed Ragsdale, as Precious Stream and Hsieh, prepare to witness an execution in the classic oriental manner.

Lady Precious Stream

A touching and often amusing story about a wife's faith in her husband formed the central theme around which Lady Precious Stream was constructed. Set in a Chinese background, the play was done in the traditional Chinese style and details were carried out to perfection to ultimately result in a good story well told and much enjoyed by all who came.

Costuming, lighting and setting were perhaps the most impressive components of this production of the University Theatre. A relatively large cast combined to deliver a unique and enlightening performance. Experiments of this type by the Theater group tend to provide the University audience with a variety of farce that is seldom equaled on the Collegiate level.

Six Characters in Search of an Author

Six actors are rehearsing for a play when six strange characters enter and demand that they be allowed to assume the roles of the first cast. The play and actors are placed on the empty stage of a theatre as psychological drama unfolds before the eyes of a rapt audience. The plot roams between the world of reality and the unknown as the author Luigi Pirandello develops the characters from creation to actual appearance.

By using this style, the theatre audience is allowed to eavesdrop on the creative moods of an author at work. Here the artistic method becomes the subject of dramatized production. This offering was well received by University audiences and the hope was expressed that in the future more drama of this type can be obtained and exposed.

A tense scene takes place as the plot of Luigi Pirandello unfolds.

The Cloak and The Impresario

University Theatre and the Music Department worked together to produce The Impresario and The Cloak. The first production, The Impresario concerned the trying experiences of an impresario as he attempts to hold the last remnants of a once great opera company together in the face of possible financial ruin. The scene is set in old Salzburg and the unusual conclusion caused much comment among the uniformed.

Set on the Seine River in the middle of Paris, The Cloak deals with love and murder among the wharves of the Paris riverfront. The University-Fayetteville Symphony provided musical background for members of the cast as this offering was favorably received by all who chanced to attend. Members of the cast came from both the Music department and the University theatre and the collaboration proved to be a happy one.

The scene of happy revelment erupts into violence as Penny Keen (Georgette) and Ed Higgins (Louis) face a crowd whose emotions are mixed.

Preston McGruder makes final improvements on Peter Pan portrayed by Beth Bittick as she prepares to move on the flight line.

Peter Pan

Peter Pan opened to standing room only audiences late in March. Beth Bittick played a thoroughly charming "Peter Pan" and managed to hold the audience transfixed throughout each performance. The Mermaids' Lagoon scene was particularly delightful as Captain Hook failed to capture Peter again. The dog Nana was portrayed by David Axtell and his enthusiasm was carried effortlessly to the audience.

Norman DeMarco directed the offering as it was performed in three parts and contained scenes in the nursery, the home for "lost boys", and in Never land. This offering ran for five days and could have packed the house for another five had the Theatre group seen fit. The back stage crew was particularly adept at scene changing, lighting cues, and assorted tasks. On the whole it might be said that the entire show was carried off in top drawer style.

Delicate and dangerous movements by wire were carried off in an effortless manner as Peter prepares to take flight to never-never land.

The cynosure of attention for the rest of the cast as well as for the audience was Naomi Baker, playing a humorous and subtle Laura Partridge.

Solid Gold Cadillac

As a witty commentary on the business scene, the University theater production of Solid Gold Cadillac gave theatre goers an enjoyable evening for their money. Concentrating its attention on the lighter side of stockholder meetings, senate investigations, and business practices in general, this farce reduced the average American tycoon to a buffoon in blind quest for the much sought dollar.

Laura Partridge, the little old lady who throws a modern corporation into a flop was portrayed by Naomi Baker. Bob Bullock played Edward L. McKeever and gave commendable performances as a thoroughly competent slate of supporting performers rendered able assistance.

Collegiate Singers

As in any area, hard work and long rehearsals result in near perfection in their weekly production for these Collegiate Singers.

The Collegiate Singers have attempted and have been successful at many projects in their somewhat short history but their successful performance of Judas Maccabaeus in observance of the two hundredth anniversary of the death of its composer, Handel, was perhaps the most ambitious and well received among the discerning observers on the campus of the University. This concert also coincided with the Jewish Festival of Lights.

During the spring the Singers collaborate with other choral groups to make presentations which are generally considered to be highly competent interpretations of the material presented. This spring saw the Singers perform in their annual spring concert which consists of random selections from their extensive range of music.

A student seeking to work in Collegiate Singers must first demonstrate a marked ability to handle the material undertaken by the organization and in addition, a genuine desire to participate in the hard work and rehearsal schedules which are sure to follow. On several occasions in the past the Singers have worked hand in glove with other departments such as the modern dance groups in presenting programs pleasing to senses, sight and sound.

Schola Cantorum

Schola Cantorum climaxed a highly successful year with a spring concert consisting a general material from its repertoire. During the first semester the group conducted a five day tour in which ten concerts were given averaging two a day. A trip to Joplin, Missouri, saw the performance of a highly successful program during the first part of the second semester.

Schola is made up of music majors for the most part and the organization probably conducts more rehearsals than any other choral group on campus. Practice sessions are held each day of the school week and many weekends see the lights burn bright in the third floor windows of the Fine Arts Center as Schola prepares for another concert.

Originally the group was organized around a twenty-three member organization concept and as of this year that plan remains essentially unchanged. As in all University choral groups, entrance into this group is on the basis of acceptable audition. As the activities of The Cantorum increase its popularity grows and its stature among groups of its kind expands.

University-Fayetteville Symphony

Wind Section of the Fayetteville-University Symphony Orchestra readies for the next movement in Rhapsody in Blue Concert.

The University of Arkansas—Fayetteville Symphony Orchestra is made up of talented students, faculty members from different colleges of the University, and talented citizens of Fayetteville along with some exceptionally gifted high school students. Scholarship assistance is derived from the patronage of the Fayetteville Symphony Society.

The first concert of the season given by the Symphony featured Jerome Rappaport as piano soloist. Other performances by the group consisted of a concert given at Bates Elementary School which was sponsored by the Parent Teachers organization at the school for the purpose of buying stringed instruments. The highlight of this pop concert was the performance of Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue and performed in this instance by William Gant of the piano faculty in the Music department of the University.

In addition to the previous performances, the Symphony cooperated with the Theatre and Opera Workshops to produce the Impresario and the Cloak in a five performance operation which was favorably received in all quarters.

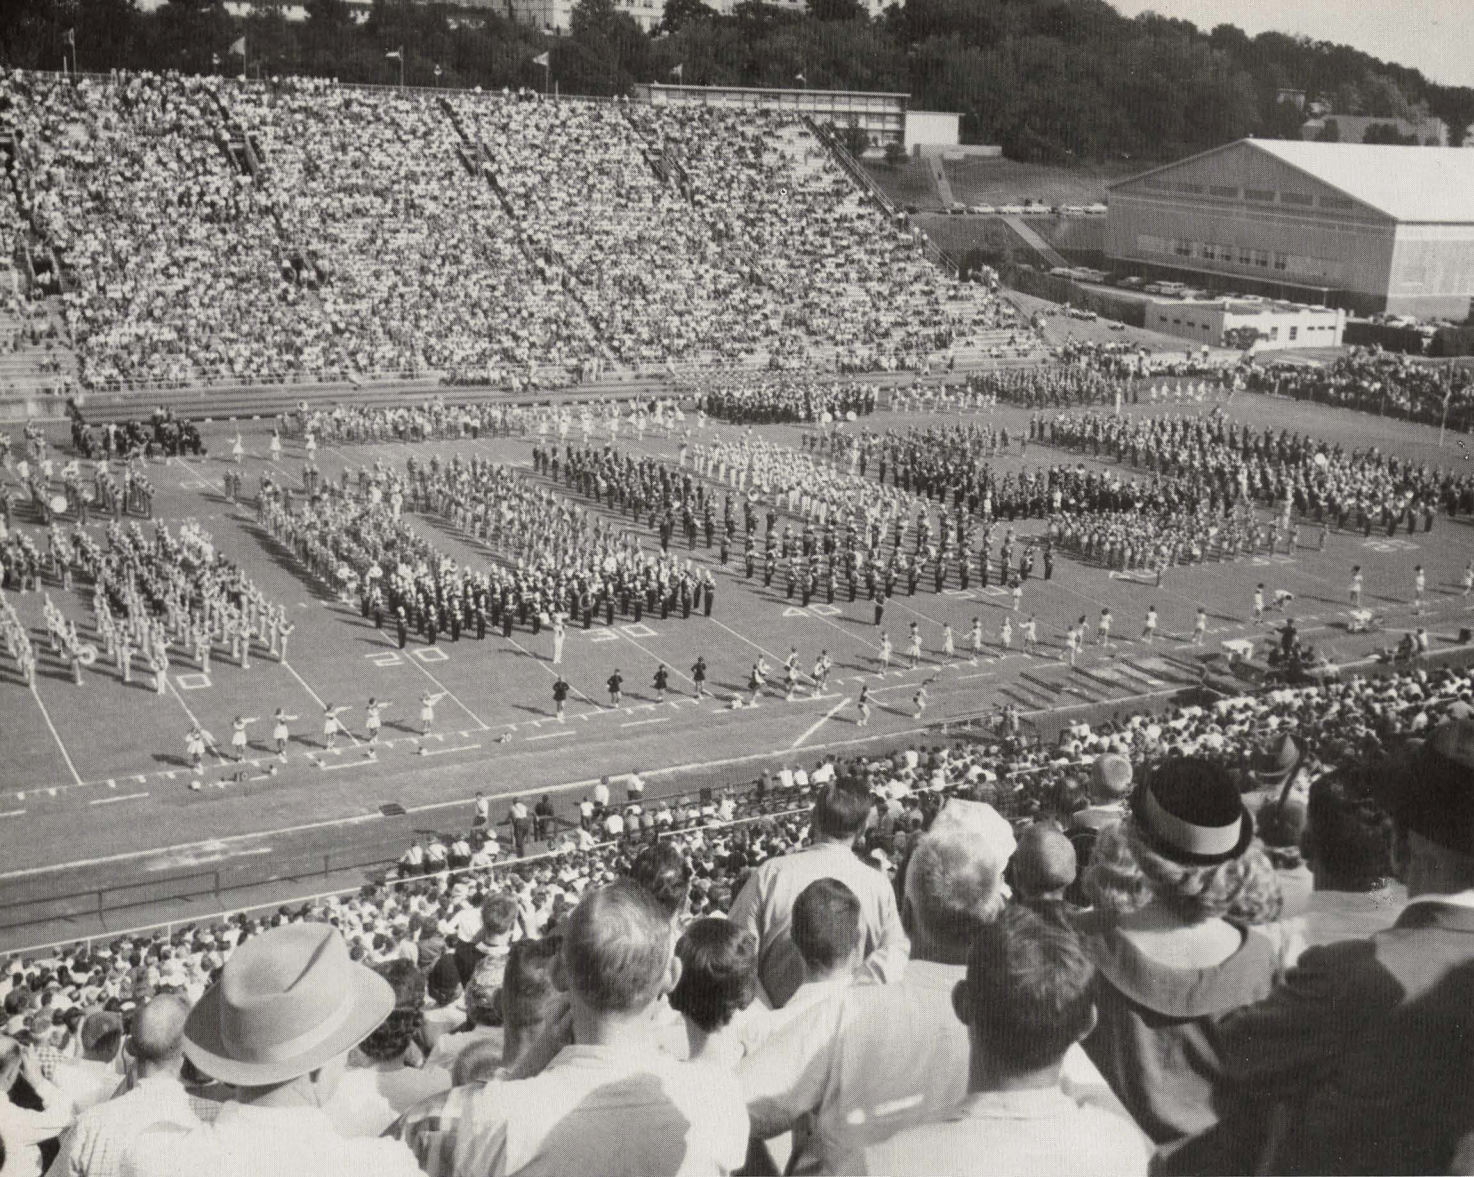

The annual concerto program featured senior students and graduate degree candidates who performed as soloists and directors over the sixty-five member group.

Dr. Marx Pales directs the orchestra through a practice session before the final concert of the season. Dr. Pales, utilizing Fayetteville and University talent, assembles one of the finest orchestras of its type.

Band Day in Razorback Stadium finds the crowd watching 28 bands from North Arkansas, Oklahoma performing in combined maneuvers.

University of Arkansas Band

Probably one of the best public relations instruments possessed by the University of Arkansas is the Razorback Band. One hundred strong and moving out at breath catching pace, the high stepping musicians execute the most complex maneuvers with the ease of a group which has trained intensively and drilled endlessly, which is exactly what has taken place. These ambassadors have appeared all the way from New York to Jacksonville, thoroughly delighting all who have had the pleasure of watching their performances.

The band is not confined to music students as their number is made up of members of practically every college on the campus. Compliments and outright praise were common in regard to the performance of the band on their appearance in Jacksonville, Florida, for the Gator Bowl. The marching Razorbacks swung down the route of march on the main street of Jacksonville and the approval of everyone watching the parade was heard over and over.

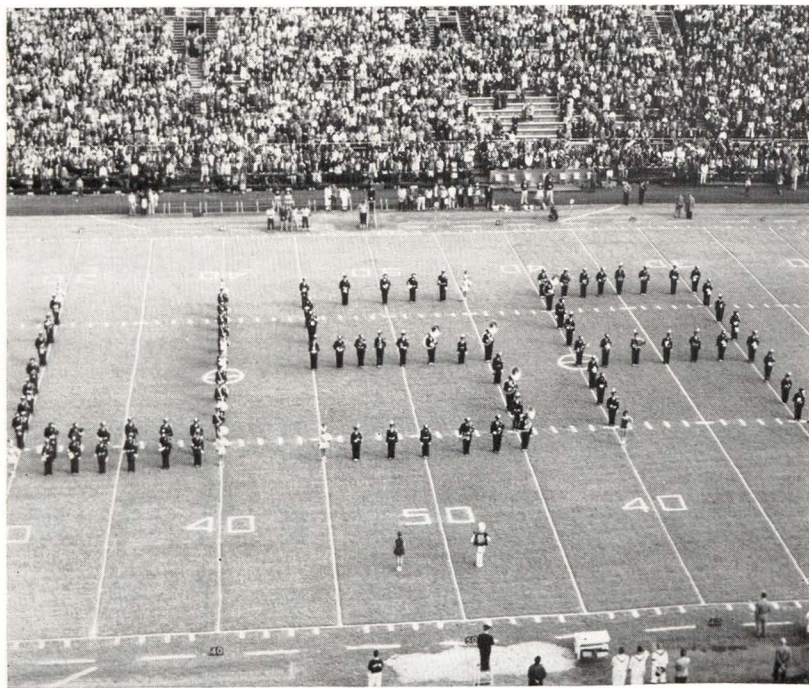

Susan Jones provides a pleasant diversion as the band waits for a pep rally to start on the Main Library steps.

Avidly boosting the conference co-champion Razorbacks at one of the Greek Theatre pep rallies, the men of Acacia hold their banner high and deliver a cheer during the highly competitive "roll call."

Acacia

The University of Michigan at Ann Arbor was the sight of the first chapter of Acacia on May 13, 1904. The Arkansas chapter of Acacia Fraternity is one of the University's youngest Greeks, having it's beginning April 14, 1951.

The social life of Acacia included an annual Valentines' Ball and a formal in the spring, as well as numerous house parties. During the Christmas season Acacia was host to underprivileged children, by the giving of a party in their behalf.

A new first lady was present in the Acacia household the past two semesters as Mrs. Alma Mitchell completed her initial year as housemother.

Probably the accomplishment this year of which Acacia is proudest is the completion of plans for a new house, to be located on Stadium Drive. Their new home which soon will be a reality is to be very modern and will accommodate over forty men. Construction plans are for late summer or early autumn.

During one of the fall semester preferential rush parties, Alpha Delta Pi's conduct the final part of an impressive and inspiring ceremony for rushees.

Alpha Delta Pi

Founded on May 15, 1851 at Wesleyan Female College in Macon, Georgia, Alpha Delta Pi was the first secret society for college women in the world.

On the University of Arkansas campus Delta Delta chapter of Alpha Delta Pi is the youngest sorority and has made remarkable growth in both leadership and accomplishments since its beginning in the fall semester of 1957.

The ADPi's were quite active during the year with a varied social calendar including a banquet in honor of the Razorback football team, a crazy hat party for KKG, a brunch honoring ZTA, a pledge dance, a faculty tea, a spring formal, an open house for Lambda Chi in honor of their sweetheart, and a party at Christmas for Fayetteville underprivileged children.

Leadership-wise, ADPi contributed officers in many areas of responsibility, and placed four girls on 'Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities' this past year.

Alpha Gamma Rho

Alpha Gamma Rho was founded April 4, 1908 when local fraternities at the University of Illinois and the University of Ohio combined to form a national fraternity. Alpha Iota chapter of AGR at the University of Arkansas was chartered April 28, 1934.

The major social functions of Alpha Gamma Rho are a Rooster Day Dance, which has a western or farm theme, and the Pink Rose Formal held annually in the spring.

Being primarily an agricultural fraternity, the members of Alpha Gamma Rho work very closely with the clubs in the college of Agriculture and hold numerous offices in Alpha Zeta and Alpha Tau Alpha.

Foremost in the minds of the members of Alpha Gamma Rho concerning fraternity progress is moving into a new house next spring on Razorback Road across from the stadium.

Alpha Tau Omega was the first social fraternity founded after the Civil War on September 11, 1865. A few years later the University of Arkansas began its fraternity system with Alpha Xi of ATO, chartered March 13, 1882.

Under the guidance of Mrs. H. C. Manaugh, ATO had a full schedule of social and campus-wide activities. Among these were numerous house parties and drop-ins, and an annual winter formal, the Snow Flake Whirl. In keeping with ATO's national 'Help Week' program, Alpha Xi sponsored a trophy which is given each year to the fraternity on campus having the best 'Help Week' project. This program is designed to be a community service.

In addition to having a complete program of social events and service activities, ATO also fared very well in leadership, having men in many fields of responsibility. Leadership groups, political clubs and academic societies were all strengthened this year by ATO.

After two hours of relating the qualities, ideals and advantages of Chi Omega to prospective pledges, sister ChiO's lend ardent support to Mirtice McCormick and Edwene Stevens in bidding rushees a warm farewell at the close of a fall rush party.

Chi Omega

Both the national and local dates of the founding of the Chi Omega Fraternity are celebrated on the same day on the University of Arkansas campus by Psi Chapter of Chi Omega. Psi, the mother chapter, was chartered on April 5, 1895. Mrs. Jobelle Holcombe, one of the founders, is a resident of Fayetteville and a very active alumnus.

The very well developed social program of Chi Omega this year listed a faculty tea, a Christmas party for dates, a spring formal, a pledge dinner dance, and Founders' Day activities, as well as various drop-ins and receptions. Giving a Christmas party for underprivileged children and distributing Thanksgiving baskets for the needy were among the benevolent activities in which Chi Omega participated. At Honors Day every year ChiO gives two awards to deserving students.

Outstanding in all areas of leadership, the ChiO house furnished three girls in 'Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities' and provided three members of Mortar Board.

Delta Delta Delta traces its national founding to Thanksgiving Eve 1888, at Boston University. November 15, 1913 marks the birth of Delta Iota chapter of Tri Delta on the University of Arkansas campus.

Opening their annual social season with a pledge debut, Tri Delt followed shortly after with a Christmas party, a spring formal and garden party, an Apple Polishing Party for the faculty, and a Pansy Breakfast honoring the Tri Delt seniors.

As well as completing many group accomplishments this year, which included winning the Sigma Nu Relays for the second consecutive year, DDD's individually took numerous honors such as having five girls representing various fraternities as their sweethearts. Placing four members on the rolls of 'Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities' was an example of the leadership responsibility assumed by the wearers of the silver, gold and blue at 920 Maple.

At a reception in the chapter house before the Delta Gamma Pinafore Party, Randy Terry awesomely observes a DG antique ship, made in 1872. Pinafore Parties are included annually in the social curriculum of every Delta Gamma chapter in the nation.

Delta Gamma

The University of Mississippi was the sight of the founding of the Delta Gamma sorority on December 5, 1873. Alpha Omega of Delta Gamma originated on the University of Arkansas campus in October of 1930.

Among the many social activities of DG during the year were was the annual Pinafore Party, a Christmas party, the Anchor Ball which is a spring formal, a party for children of the alumni, and a spaghetti supper. DG was also host to a number of drop-ins and receptions.

Delta Gamma added to its laurels last year by winning the Province Award for having the largest percentage of graduating seniors who had attended Arkansas for four years.

The local chapter actively participated on various committees over the campus and were well represented at posts of responsibility on publications and campus plays.

Cards expressing seasons greetings to the FarmHouse Fraternity are closely examined by Frank Scaramuzza and Jerry Yarbrough. David Whitehead, left, focuses his attention on a Christmas greeting from another FarmHouse chapter in the Arkansas region.

FarmHouse

The FarmHouse Fraternity came into existence at the University of Missouri on April 15, 1905, and the Arkansas chapter, which was founded October 2, 1954, is one of the University's youngest fraternities.

The social calendar of FarmHouse includes three annual functions: the Bowery Bowl, a Christmas party, and the Sweetheart Dance which is a spring formal. Numerous outings are also a part of the social life of the fraternity as well as a fully developed intramural program.

The local chapter is noted for its excellence in scholarship and perennially maintains the highest fraternity grade-point on campus.

Being an agriculture major is a prerequisite for membership into FarmHouse and consequently FarmHouse plays a very active roll in the agricultural clubs and societies at the University.

The spacious front lawn of Kappa Alpha on Stadium Drive afforded its members ample opportunity to engage in outdoor sports and to practice intramural football.

Kappa Alpha

Kappa Alpha Order was founded nationally at Washington and Lee University in Virginia at the close of the War Between the States in 1865. It was in 1895 when the University of Arkansas fraternity system added Kappa Alpha Order to the campus.

KA's social season was highlighted this year by the Pigalle Party, which follows the theme of the left bank of Paris. KA also played host to several open houses and drop-ins. Nationally, the fraternity annually celebrates a Convivium Ball to honor its spiritual founder, Robert E. Lee.

At the beginning of second semester, the Arkansas chapter of KA left the campus of its own volition. They stated that their choosing to leave was in the best interest of the fraternity and that they would not become active at the University again until renewed interest was shown in the establishment of a new chapter.

Each year with fall rush come the familiar skits, and added attraction eagerly anticipated by rushees. Clown Cindy Dew sits poised while Marial Hantz, as a circus 'fat-lady', spreads good-will for Kappa Kappa Gamma during a return party rush skit in the game room as amused rushees look on.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded nationally on October 25, 1870, at Monmouth College in Monmouth, Illinois. Gamma Nu Chapter came to the University of Arkansas campus April 15, 1925, and has been continuously active since.

A socially active year for Kappa included many parties with much variety. Among these social events were a Kappa 'boy' legacy party which was for all boys on campus who have Kappa relatives, an annual football banquet, a Christmas decorating party, the Kappa Formal, a faculty tea, National Founders Day Banquet, a pledge mother-daughter banquet, a pledge sweater hop, a scholarship banquet, exchange dinners with fraternities, and after-dates parties on weekends.

Kappa Kappa Gamma was surpassed by no one in campus leadership and these efforts were rewarded by the placing of four members on the rolls of 'Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.'

Kappa Sigma

The oldest continuously active fraternity on the University of Arkansas campus, Xi of Kappa Sigma received chapter status May 29, 1890. Its national origin is traced to the University of Virginia on December 10, 1869.

Outstanding social events are a trademark of Kappa Sigma and those this year were no exception. Parties after all home football games started the social season and were followed by a Christmas formal, a poverty premier costume party, a Valentine's party, a Bermuda Shorts party, and a spring outing at Western Hills. There were also numerous drop-ins and exchange dinners with sororities.

Kappa Sigma played an active roll during the year in campus leadership placing men at many posts of responsibility and on such honorary listings as 'Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities'. Campuswide activities were also actively supported by the men of Xi Chapter.

Lambda Chis spend much time in the informal surroundings of their spacious basement. Many organized houses utilize their basements and game rooms to the fullest extent as a place for weekend drop-ins, parties and various types of meetings.

Lambda Chi Alpha

On November 2, 1909 Lambda Chi Alpha had its beginning at Boston University. Gamma Chi Chapter of Lambda Chi at the University of Arkansas was founded May 23, 1925.

Lambda Chi had quite a varied social calendar this year with after football game dances, exchange dinners with sororities, the annual Playboy Party, and an outing at Lake Weddington.

The fraternity took an active roll in civic affairs during the school year by undertaking such projects as painting the Little League bleachers and distributing baskets to the needy at Thanksgiving and at Christmas.

Gamma Chi Chapter also strengthened the leadership on campus having men serving the school in many responsible positions as well as participating actively in numerous other campus activities.

Joyful acceptance speech is made by Deanne Fleener at the Phi Delta Theta Christmas Formal as she was announced Dream Girl for the year. Outgoing Dream Girl Betty May Parr and president Bill Anderson join in extending congratulations to Deanne.

Phi Delta Theta

Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, is the mother chapter of Phi Delta Theta founded December 26, 1848. Exactly one hundred years later Arkansas Alpha of Phi Delt had its beginning on November 19, 1948.

Phi Delts made a name for themselves in all areas of University life this year. They took the 'Singfony' trophy for the second consecutive year and had a very active social calendar which included a Buccaneer's Ball, Christmas Formal, a fall outing, a Viking party, and exchange dinners with various sororities. Founders Day celebration was another event which they commemorated.

Taking their share of worthwhile campus activities, the local chapter engineered a Community Service Day Project. Leadership was displayed this year by Phi Delt as they placed men in important positions of student offices and publications and in other fields of achievement.

After a hard-fought battle, Elinor Duschl and other Pi Phis finish short in a tug of war contest, one of the many events staged for girls at the annual Sigma Nu Relays. Although they were unfortunate in the outcome of this particular match, the Pi Phis took many honors at the meet.

Pi Beta Phi

Pi Beta Phi dates its national founding to April 28, 1867, at Monmouth College in Monmouth, Virginia. Arkansas Alpha Chapter of Pi Phi received chapter status on campus December 29, 1909.

The social events of Pi Phi were numerous this year and included such features as exchange dinners with fraternities, a pledge walkout, a pledge lockout, open houses, after date-call parties, Christmas parties, a pledge dance, and desserts.

Among the charitable activities in which Pi Phi participated this year include the distribution of baskets to the needy during Christmastime.

Contributing leadership to the campus was another mark of Pi Beta Phi. They were represented in all phases of student body activities and also had their share of campus beauties.

Pikes and dates enjoy pledge skit at the 'Roaring Twenties Party', as skit portrayed the paying of the last respects to big-time mobster 'Big-Looie', who was gunned down in gangland fashion the afternoon of party.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Pi Kappa Alpha was established as a social fraternity at the University of Virginia on March 1, 1868. Alpha Zeta chapter of PiKA gained status on the University of Arkansas campus November 2, 1904.

The social side of PiKA was highlighted this year by the Christmas brunch and the Dream Girl Formal. Other social activities for Pike include a tea for freshmen women, exchange dinners with all sororities, the Roaring Twenties Party, Homecoming party, the Quo Vadis Party and drop-ins every weekend at the chapter house.

The fraternity contributed much to the University campus this year in the way of leadership by having men holding positions of esteem in publications, student offices and in various other student organizations. PiKA was also very well represented in varsity athletics.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa on March 9, 1865 and at the University of Arkansas July 9, 1894, making Arkansas Alpha Upsilon chapter the third oldest fraternity on the campus.

The Sig Alph social season began early in the year with a party for the fall pledge class at the chapter house. Since that time they have had a fall outing at Monte Ne, a Christmas Formal, numerous house parties and drop-ins at the chapter house including a Homecoming and a Dads' Day party, a spring formal, a spring outing and a Club 69 Party.

SAE was outstanding in all areas of campus activity with men at top ranks in the ROTC program, leaders in most of the campus organizations, and members holding various other positions of responsibility. In intramural competition they were strong contenders in every sport.

Hunkerin' as seen in Time Magazine, found Sigma Chis, supposedly the originators of the short-lived craze, demonstrating the technique for the photographer and seven million Time readers. The fad spread rapidly over the campus and to neighboring states.

Sigma Chi

The Sigma Chi Fraternity traces its beginning to Miami University in Oxford, Ohio with the founding date of June 26, 1855. The University of Arkansas gave rise to Omega Omega Chapter of Sigma Chi in 1905 and the fraternity has been active on campus since that time.

Included in the elaborate Sigma Chi social calendar were a Christmas Formal, Riverboat Party, a Sweetheart Formal and a spring outing. There were numerous other minor social events such as receptions, drop-ins and exchange dinners with sororities.

Very active in all phases of campus life, Sigma Chi boasted leaders in many student organizations and honorary groups. They were unmatched by any other organized house on campus in placing men on 'Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities'. Sigma Chi was also well represented in varsity athletics.

Remnants of lumber and materials remained in yard as new Sigma Phi Epsilon chapter house on Stadium Drive was barely finished in time for fall rush. SPE's are shown here entertaining rushees during the fall rush tours of all the fraternity houses.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Sigma Phi Epsilon was founded November 1, 1901 at Richmond College in Virginia, now the University of Richmond. Six years later the University gave rise to Arkansas Alpha of SPE, September 26, 1907.

This fall the men of SPE had the pleasure of moving into their new chapter house, one of the nations most modern and a new concept in fraternity houses. The living quarters are designed to give each man an outside entrance. The fraternity has had visitors from all over the nation to see the structure.

A house dedication was the initial social function of SPE this fall. Other major social activities included a Beatnik Party, Recognition Dinner, a Voo Doo Party, the Golden Hearts Ball which is a spring formal, a Hawaiian Luau Party, a State Alumni Dinner in Little Rock and a spring outing.

SPE was also very active in all facets of campus life with leaders in all areas of responsibility.

The Sigma Pi fraternity was originally founded at Vincennes University in Indiana on February 26, 1897. Alpha Sigma of Sigma Pi is one of the younger fraternities on the University of Arkansas campus, being established in 1948. Like the other new fraternities, Sigma Pi is working for the future and it is only a matter of time before construction of a new house which they have planned.

Socially, Sigma Pi held its annual White and Gold Ball and Orchid Formal. On the lighter note was the Beat Generation party, the annual outing, Founders Day banquet, weekend parties, house parties, teas, exchange dinners, drop-ins and listening parties for the out of town football games.

In activities and organizations on campus Sigma Pi was well represented in every field. The rapid strides they made in leadership during the year were shown on the rolls of nearly every organization at the University.

Theta Tau

Founded in Minneapolis October 15, 1904, as a mining engineering fraternity, Theta Tau was established on the University of Arkansas campus April 7, 1928. The fraternity is composed of students majoring in engineering and geology who have met high academic requirements. Members must live in the Theta Tau house for at least one semester after accepting a bid to the fraternity.

Although Theta Tau is concerned primarily with scholarship, social life was not neglected. Events in which Upsilon Chapter participated during the year included a Founders Day Banquet on October 15, a listening party for the Rice game, a semi-formal dance at the Springdale Country Club, and the annual St. Patricia Banquet held on March 10.

The men of Theta Tau showed leadership ability in many phases of campus life and were especially outstanding in various engineering organizations.

The mother chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha was established at Longwood College in Farmville, Virginia on October 15, 1898 and Epsilon chapter of Zeta joined the University of Arkansas Greek system in 1903.

The social calendar of Zeta was quite active during the year, listing such events as exchange dinners with fraternities, a pledge dinner-dance, a Christmas party, a faculty tea, a pledge class cake walk, Mardi Gras spring formal, a football banquet honoring the varsity football team, an open house for housemothers, and a Founders Day Banquet. In competitive campus activity Zeta placed second in the Homecoming house decorations.

Outstanding in many areas of campus leadership and activities, Zeta was well represented in Mortar Board, student body offices and publications, as well as campus beauties.

Pan Hellenic Council

Every year the sorority pledge class with the highest grade point is awarded a trophy by the Panhellenic Council. Panhellenic aids in promoting inter-sorority relations and is the governing board for all the sororities. The Council is composed of the president and rush chairman of each sorority. Each year the Council sets the rush rules for sororities.

Newly-oriented Fulbright Freshmen coeds Nina Bishop, Leona Parker, and Becky Hudson, chat and 'get acquainted' with the new routine of college and dormitory life during the opening days of the Fall semester.

Freshmen Women

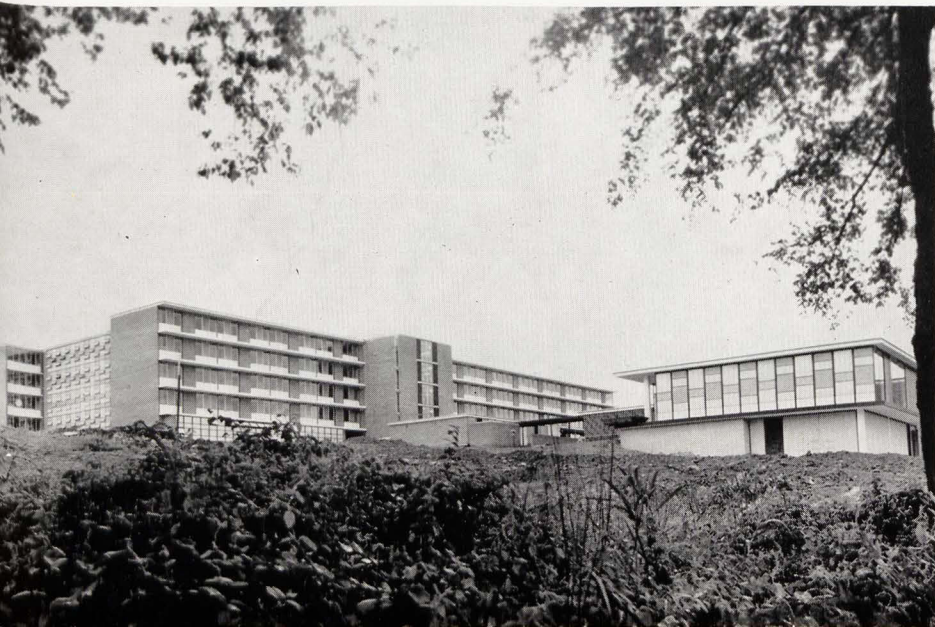

Because of the deferred rush rules at the University of Arkansas, freshman women do not participate in rush. Instead, they are all housed in the new Fulbright Hall, located above the old practice field. Fulbright has many firsts in its first year of existence, which will serve as precedents in the years to follow. Among these are representatives for Air Force and Army R.O.T.C.

On October 11 Fulbright was formally dedicated. The principal speakers were Dean Eleanor Tyler and Senator Fulbright, after whose mother the dormitory is named. The singing voices of almost four hundred residents added to the program and helped to make it one not soon to be forgotten.

Other things Fulbright will sponsor annually are the Open House for faculty and Fayetteville friends, a Christmas party for underprivileged children, and their formal. All those events and the many good times of a girl's freshman year will remain throughout her college days.

Razorback Hall frosh find difficulty sleeping in their recently-assembled make-shift beds beneath their Homecoming float in an attempt to scare off any would-be vandals or pranksters who might see fit to 'borrow' the float.

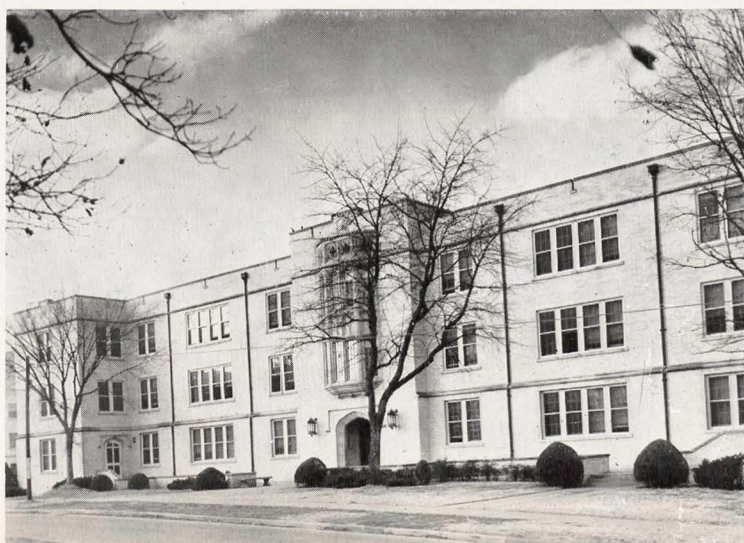

Freshmen Men -- Razorback Hall

OFFICERS

President	James Bass
Vice President	Jim Bowman
Secretary	Robert Dickson
Treasurer	Ogden Mayhugh

Razorback Hall had set many new goals at the first of the year, and due to excellent leadership of all the officers, most of the goals were met. When it came to pep rallies the men of the hall not only responded well but insisted on having a new sign to represent them. In athletics the men carried on a full intramural program, which offered a good source of entertainment, fun and excitement.

Their social life on and off the campus was enjoyed under the leadership of Jack Grano. One of their projects this year was the building of a tremendous homecoming float. The slogan for the featured hog was "Broyles Bred, Texas Fed". Among the other social functions were a brunch for the faculty, Christmas dance, and open house before and after the Dad's Day and Homecoming football games.

Wierd strange-like decoration of Holcombe Hall attracted spectators, interest, and much favorable comment, but no award. The unique decoration was complete with a beat-nic version of the University fight song.

Holcombe Hall

For the first time this year Holcombe Hall houses upperclass women. This has been a year of participation in campus activities, as well as one of adjustment and reorganization. Many of the residents of Holcombe have been prominent in various activities and organizations. Jessamine Gist and Carol Parker, excelling in scholastic endeavors, were tappees for Phi Beta Kappa.

Barbara Barnes serves as an Army ROTC lieutenant colonel, while Tyler Marsh represented Holcombe in the 1959 Homecoming Court.

Holcombe's intramural basketball team made its way to the final playoffs and had three of its members, Rosalie Causbie, Carol Plaisance and Sue Trammel, named to the Varsity Team.

Buchanan House

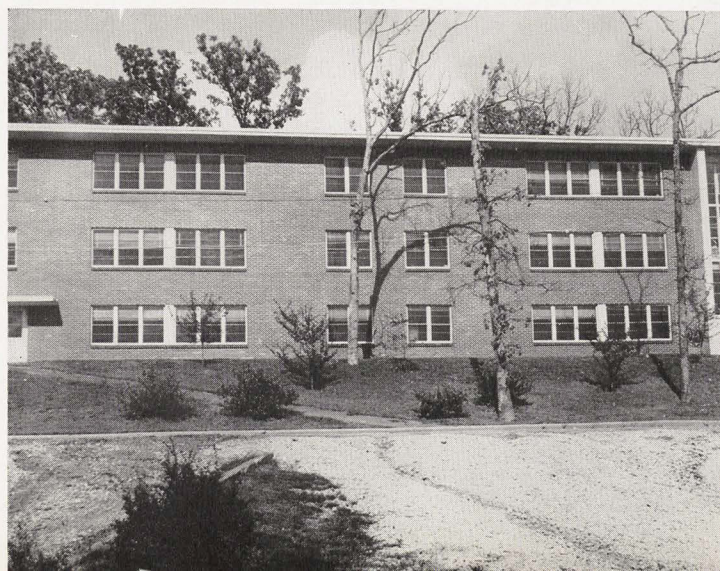

Buchanan House is located in the south wing of one of the new dormitories overlooking the football stadium. An active participation in all phases of campus activity has marked this year's program at Buchanan House. The house has enjoyed a full social calendar as well as a complete schedule of activities. Men from Buchanan House have been found in positions of leadership in campus government and activities.

Intramural competition has been one of the highlights of the past years. After winning for the third straight year in intramural sports, the house was given the Sweepstakes trophy. Buchanan was represented in such campus organizations as ABC, the various professional fraternities, the campus church organizations and others.

A full variety of social functions held the attention in Buchanan House during the fall months. The house attended Fayetteville and Little Rock football games and organized listening parties for out of town games.

Droke House

Droke shares the southern upper classmen's dormitory with Buchanan House. The residents of Droke House have pride in their consistently high grade points and this year they had the second highest grade point in the mens residence halls.

The men also participate in many campus activities, such as Beta Alpha Psi, Alpha Epsilon Delta, Pi Tau Sigma, ABC Civic Club, Marketing Club, SNEA and many others. Jerry Black, house counselor, was president of AICHE, Doane Newton was president of Alpha Epsilon Delta, and Ronald Cox was president of the Marketing Club. In intramural sports, Droke House won second place in football.

Droke House supports many of the activities of MIHC, such as dances and outings. Our representative on the MIHC court this year was Doane Newton.

Davis Hall had a memorial Homecoming in '59. In true Cape Canaveral style their rocket went up in flames. They were disappointed, but other more memorable events highlighted the year.

Events went smoothly in the social world. Davis Hall followed its tradition and hosted a fall sweater hop to introduce new residents, a meet-your-neighbor pajama party, and a reception for new residents. Events tied in with Christmas were the Christmas Dinner-Dance and a Christmas Party for underprivileged children. The senior breakfast, a formal dance, and an outing took place in the spring.

Scott House, annex to Holcombe, during the 1959 fall semester, accomodated approximately 20 upperclass girls, who were very active in the womens program on the campus despite the fact that they were the smallest group. A formal dinner and dance preceded the closing of the hall in January was the main social event of the semester.

World Series games last Fall were the attractions of the hour as most members of Wilson Sharp spent every available moment in front of the television set, which proved to be a welcome change in the routine of daily study and classes.

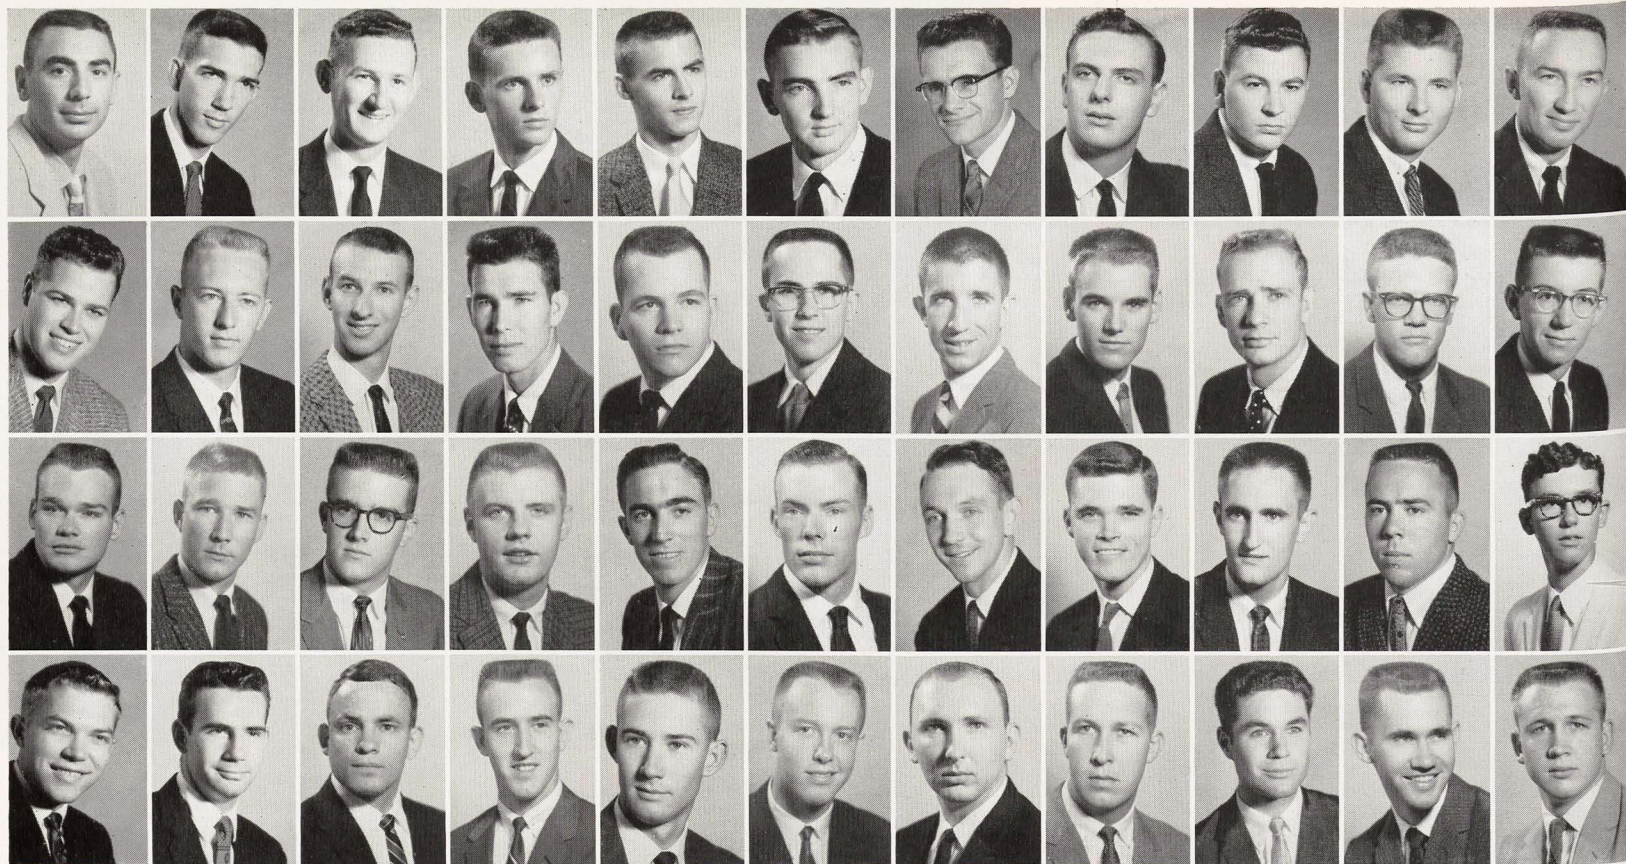

Wilson Sharp House

"The House that Champions Built", overlooks the plant and facilities that make up Arkansas' athletic program. However, these excellent examples of collegiate athletics wouldn't amount to a great deal without the efforts of the inhabitants of Wilson Sharp House.

The people who live here are something besides box scores in the Sunday papers, they provide leaders in many other phases of campus life besides the basketball court or the cinder track. Some of the most prominent political characters on campus wear Arkansas jerseys as do leaders in the military and social departments.

Social activities are not unfamiliar ground to these men as they have proved on numerous occasions. The scholastic record at Wilson Sharp disproves the old concept of 'dumb athletes' as many of the men living here are found on various dean's lists. "Building a new era in Arkansas athletics," might well be an apt phrase to describe the record of the men from Wilson Sharp.

Gladson House

In compliance with precedent set in former years, Gladson House continued its participation in all extra-curricular activities. Participating in activities were John Campbell, president of Men's Interhall Council; Kenneth Hendrickson, company commander of Pershing Rifles; Jimmy Joe Murray, Alpha Chi Epsilon and Tau Beta Pi; James Egner, Alpha Chi Sigma; and Bob Brooks, Alpha Kappa Psi.

Socially, highlights of the year were the outing and listening party and a dance held in the newly opened Recreation Room, where several new dances were taught to the men and their dates.

The men of Gladson also took part in all of the MIHC and intramural activities. The winter semester was topped off with Christmas caroling.

Off-Campus Women practice a selection for Singfony, as the group participated in all campus affairs for the first time this year.

Off-Campus Women

Off-Campus Women is an organization through which women students who live off the campus participate in campus activities. Scholarship is encouraged and an award is presented at the spring banquet to the member with the highest scholastic achievement for that year. OCW is affiliated with WIHC and has a representative in Civic Club.

OCW also made its first appearance in Singfony this year. For the Homecoming weekend, OCW entered the house decoration contest. The entry was at the side of Carnall Hall on Arkansas Avenue. During the football season, listening parties were held. A semi-formal dance was held to usher out the first semester, and during the month of February a Saint Patricks party was held. OCW is proud of its campus leaders.

Among their members they have such leaders as the president of SNA, Tau Beta Sigma, and as well as members of Chi Theta, sophomore counselors and Who's Who. OCW participates in intramurals and this year they won the singles table tennis championship. Razor-back beauty Layla Beth Miller and Maid of the Agri Queen Mary Nell Bollinger are among the members of OCW.

Ripley House

Ripley House holds the particular distinction of holding the highest scholastic grade average among men's dorms for five consecutive semesters. This honor was attained by maintaining a grade point in excess of 2.35 for some two and a half years.

Ripley also participates in all intramural activities and has maintained an enviable record in this area. MIHC activities are strongly supported by Ripley and they hold the MIHC Tug-of-War championship in conjunction with Brough Commons.

The social world wasn't neglected by Ripley's residents this year as outings and other social functions were held throughout the semester.

4-H House

The 4-H House proved to be an active group on campus this year by participating in numerous campus affairs and social activities. Active in campus activities were Carol Barnum who served as President of Colhecon and Corresponding Secretary of Phi Upsilon Omicron; Bobbie Guffey accepted the duties of treasurer of Colhecon and Vice-President of WRA; Anice Hurst was Treasurer of WRA; Kathy Pedley was elected Historian of Colhecon and Editor of the Wesleyan; Joyce Jenkins, Sophomore Secretary of Vocational Guidance Committee and State President of Colhecon.

Elizabeth Brister was Secretary of Wesley Foundation and Secretary of Sigma Alpha Eta; Sondra Carter, Vice-President of Tau Beta Sigma and Reporter of the Band; Sue Kuester, Recording Secretary of Phi Upsilon Omicron; Shirley Barrick, Secretary of WIHC. Honors went to Emma Owen, Alpha Gamma Rho Prize Pullet; Ann Milam, Farmhouse Sweetheart; and Lucy Dyer was tapped for Alpha Lambda Delta.

Social events included a sweater hop, a Christmas dance, the annual Pollyanna banquet, a Valentine dinner-dance, a faculty tea, a Roman banquet given by the pledges, a spring outing, and a spring formal.

Sedgwell 'hay-wagon' pulls slowly away from Fulbright Hall in a rather chilly outing last Fall. The hayride was climaxed with weiner roast and dinner-on-the-ground at the Agri Pavilion a few blocks away.

Sedgwell House

The house on the hill, Sedgwell House is a freshman men's residence. Sedgwell is the north half of former Gregson Hall. The residents were active in campus activities and organizations such as MIHC, ABC, Young Democrats, Arnold Air Society, Pershing Rifles, and others.

Sedgwell did well in intramural sports as the resident participation was good. Rhett Garrett won the tennis singles championship and teamed up with Mac Jordan to take the doubles championship. Sedgwell also ranked high in bowling and basketball. The dorm was well represented in athletics on the varsity level by Jimmy Tate, a member of the Freshman track team, and Bill Williams and Gary Orendorf in Shoa football.

Social activities began soon after school opened, with exchange dinners with the Freshmen women. Other social activities included dances, a hayride and spring outings along with a spring formal. Informal drop-ins rounded out a full year socially.

Saturday afternoon means a break in the study schedule and a time for rest and relaxation for the men of William House, whether it be a socialable bridge game or an afternoon spent 'doing nothing'.

William House

William House has again this year been one of the outstanding independent men's dorms. A full participation in social, athletic and scholastic activities has given every occupant an opportunity to utilize his talents. A Christmas party was given for underprivileged children, full teams were entered in every intramural sport, and as usual the William House grade point was above the men's average.

The opening of the old cafeteria as a recreation room and dance hall was spearheaded by Gordon Caton, David Brown, and Phil Selig. Social Chairman Morris Coston arranged several exchange dinners, dances, and other social functions. Selig, besides his job as president of William House, was Social Chairman of the MIHC. Coston, too, served a dual role as he was Cadet Colonel of the Army ROTC and Outstanding Cadet. Richard Bush was Drum Major for the Razorback Band and several other residents were members of the band. Intramural Manager Don Martin was instrumental in the participation of William House in intramural sports.

Ramon Calvo, A. J. Gredrich, and Larry Lipsmeyer headed the Decoration Committee and with the assistance of many others created some of the better decorations among the independent dorms. Honor societies had representation in William House also with senior counselor and law student Joe Buffalo heading the list as a member of the Blue Key and a Who's Who selection.

Men's Interhall Council

Men's Interhall Council has the responsibility of governing the men's residence halls on the University campus. MIHC is composed of the seven house presidents and seven representatives from the various houses. This year the MIHC has sponsored such events as costume dances, semi-formal dances, and a Spring formal. These functions come in addition to representing independent men in all areas.

FAYETTEVILLE

Mitchell Johns points in jest to the 'golden-toe' of Freddy Akers after the TCU game, when field goal of Akers gave Hogs a 3-0 win.

Chi Omega members are locked-out of the House by the pledges, and are forced to enter through the basement, home of the closet cases.

FAYETTEVILLE, ARKANSAS

These 138 Arkansas communities know what questions an industry needs answered when it's looking for a location. Each of these 138 communities is making a labor survey, determining its plant financing capacity, mapping its industrial sites, developing a city planning program, taking a community inventory and printing an industrial report—part of its comprehensive 6 Point Program of Preparedness developed in cooperation with the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, State Capitol, Little Rock.

Always TOWARDS TOMORROW

Established in 1889, Fordyce Lumber Company was early in inaugurating planned forest management. Today, under this firmly established program, it ranks among the state's leading lumber manufacturers and looks forward to continuing operations through the years.

The significance of this outlook to you who seek business opportunities following high school or college is that from time to time we have openings for qualified graduates.

A White Elephant Is Born

It's all over but the shouting and for one I'm glad. A fine year, a good year, one that I will never forget. Here is where most former editors say never again. But there is not a doubt in my mind that I wouldn't do it again, because I know I would. Traditionally the Razorback editors have tried to keep all "mickey-mouse" material off of the preceding pages and have devoted the last two pages to telling just how things really were. Being a conformist and having a lot to say, here goes. To Miss Gene MacRae, I can never tell you how much I appreciated the advice and wise words of encouragement that you have given me during the year. I remember the time I called you and told you that I couldn't send in the class section pictures, because 400 Full-bright Hall pictures had been stolen. You said, sure, but I knew that you didn't believe me. It did sound ridiculous, but honestly, it did happen. To Mr. R. C. Walker, I owe much more than just the thanks for helping me edit the book. As one of the most respected men in the engraving business, it was an inspiration and a privilege to be associated with you. Mr. Hurley, with your fine Southern drawl, it's no wonder that you 'snowed' everyone you came in contact with. You undoubtedly have the finest facilities and staff of any year-book printer in the nation. The cooperation we received from your fine firm is something that I will not soon forget. To the real editor of the 1960 Razorback, Irvin Lyons, I say thanks for putting out the yearbook. As head of the letterpress printing division of Hurley, you assisted us in more ways than anyone could possibly ever imagine. I know you spent countless extra hours working on the Elephant, attempting to give us the best possible yearbook. This, I can never forget or express enough appreciation for. To Dozier, I'm indeed sorry that you didn't get a crack at being editor of the Traveler, because after two years of work and worry together, I knew you were ready and would have done a top notch job. I remember our plans to build outer offices for the Razorback and Traveler, and how the Physical Plant said we couldn't because we'd block a fire entrance through a middle door in Hill

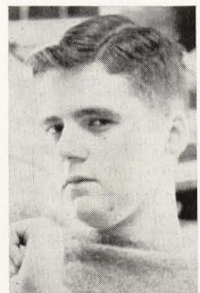

Hall. The Physical Plant later bolted the only window leading to the fire escape and argued with me that if the building caught fire, the average person would automatically kick the window out anyway. Ed, I really believe that you received a blessing in disguise, for you now have a fine job with happiness galore. Then came Standard, the teenage editor of the Traveler that I saw crucified. Jim, I enjoyed the good times, and I'm truly sorry about what happened, but you just got a taste of what the cruel world is really like earlier than the rest of us. Lambert, I can never forget. I remember Light-Foot, the campus cop, and the bumpkin-boy we asked rather abruptly to leave the highway in father-in-law's car. I remember our darkroom experiments and the wit that you put out that at times seemed to keep the whole staff going. You did everything there was to do and then hunted for more. I remember our all-night study and work sessions. We've been through so much together, that it's only proper that you be there June 18 when I take the fatal step. Poe, you have been more than a competent staff member on the year-book. You have served as a close friend for the past four years. I remember our late hour bull-sessions when we lived in the Pike House. I remember Mary Palace and the night Hughes and I took care of you. I remember Fort Hood and the two most un-gung-ho soldiers in the whole Army. I saw you take over the mechanics of a yearbook, and somehow make the whole operation work. I remember the time you told the Colonel about Thirty Dollars, and the good natured kidding we always directed at each other. A red-headed Kappa interfered with your work in the Spring, but those things happen, especially in the Spring, and you somehow managed to always complete the task that you had assigned yourself. At times, I have honestly believed that the editor could disappear and you and Lambert would put the book out without ever missing the skinny editor. To Moore, I say, best of luck next year with your version of the Razorback. With your multi-million jobs, I honestly don't see how you ever get anything done, but you somehow managed, on occasion, to turn us out some feature copy. Eric, I'll never forget the countless times that in jest, you've been fired, rehired, or quit. You handled all sections like a true champ and were always eager to do more. My troubles always ended up to be your troubles too, and together we always arrived at same decision. To Ann Martin and Connie Noland, I really don't believe that I could ever express enough gratitude for the outstanding job you did on the class section. I remember Ann's problem and how it was finally solved by the social leader of fabulous Xi. Connie, you left us at semester, but I will always regard our friendship and association as a highlight of my college days. To Jeter, I'm glad that you finally learned how to focus, because you really helped us out first semester. I remember our afternoon coffee breaks in the Union and the Kenton concert that you almost forgot to shoot. You pulled us through and at times, we certainly needed pulling. To Rushing, I say grain or no grain, you're a damn good photographer. I remember the more-than-arty pictures of tin cans, etc. that you turned in and called me un-cool for not using. I remember the Greco concert and how when you asked a male member of the troupe if they had any goodlooking girls with them, and he smiled and told you no, but the boys were pretty. Rushing also smiled, shot two pictures on the run, and left. Stevenson, you weren't directly connected with the yearbook, but as neighbors both in Hill Hall and in Campus View, we came to be the closest of friends. I remember the nightly reds-session with Crawford and Woods at your apartment. I remember the time I called you and told you that I was Prof. White over at the Agri Department, and that I was mad as hell and was coming over to see you and set you straight on a few things. I remember how you hid out for the next few days. I remember our sessions to try and get the Traveler back in the hands of the students, which in a sense, proved to be futile. Minmier, I remember our differences when you began as co-editor of the Traveler, but after associating with each other for a while, we were both pretty amazed to find that we were not only getting along, we were good friends. I remember our impersonations of the 'good-fairy' and how we both should write non-controversial style. To Tuohey, I say that you were as good a business manager as you were an editor. I appreciate more than anything, that no advice was given when it wasn't asked for, and only on occasion did we here at the office hear of how things were in the good ole days. Towards the end, I did hear rumors of how far we were behind, but perhaps we were, so that didn't matter either. I would like to see you and Jo Ann the night of June 18th, but since you have other plans, good luck. A fine year with the nicest associates that a person could ever expect to have. Understanding instructors like espanol profesoras Barbara and Diane, a competent staff, and cooperation from everyone somehow enabled me to edit a yearbook. To my roomies Fussell and recent addition Tucker, with his clock radio with hill-billy music at 6 in the morning, I owe a lot. Bob, during the past two years as roommates, we've had some most memorable moments together. I remember the blanket party at Monte Ne when your blanket caught on fire. I remember the political rumors that we always started and the lectures on why I should get up early every morning after being up most of the night on the Razorback that stirred me on to complete the Big Book. To Sports Editor Mott, I remember the night we finished the basketball section only to find the football signature that we had completed three months earlier missing. You groaned and moaned, but turned some of the most interesting copy in the book. To Mr. Farmer, the Hill Hall custodian, I owe a lot. During our four years of association together, we've become to be good buddies and the ole Razorback Office was always the first one cleaned up and seemed to be the place you lingered longest. To my three little friends Dolly, Ponder, and Smith, I also say thanks for a job well done. In the closing days, it was you three who took over and did every job that came along. With the completion of this last bit of copy, a country boy from Camden loads up the same green Ford that he drove on the campus four years ago and heads back over the mountains, carrying with him more than just a college diploma and a yearbook; the personal satisfaction that comes from having served in some way the students at the University of Arkansas—Dawson, Herdsman, 1960 White Elephant.
